REJECT JOHNSON STEEL PEACE

FLETCHER MADE CHIEF OF G. O. P.; SPEAKS TODAY

Party Declares for Legal Liberalism.

The Republican national committee yesterday elected Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania its chairman to direct the party's revival on a platform of constitutional liberalism. The election took place in the Palmer house, where the committee has been meeting since Tuesday.

Mr. Fletcher, a Theodore Roosevelt Rough Rider of 1898, who closed a distinguished career in the diplomatic service with five years as American ambassador to Italy, will be in Chicago today to address the committee. Notified at his home in Greencastle, Pa., of his election, he accepted the post and announced that he is ready to go to work immediately.

The subcommittee which sent the message of notification included Mr. Fletcher's two principal rivals for the chairmanship, National Committeemen John D. M. Hamilton of Kansas and Walter S. Hallanan of West Virginia.

Statement of Principles Adopted.

The open session of the committee at which Mr. Fletcher will appear today is expected to be a forum for more detailed and far reaching criticism of the New Deal than was contained in the statement of principles which the committee adopted yesterday before proceeding to the election of Mr. Fletcher.

That document used temperate words, but a firm tone, in condemning the policy of collectivization and the leftist trend of President Roosevelt's brain trust, but it was definitly an affirmative statement, subordinating criticism to tell in general terms what the Republican party believes should be done for the rebuilding of the nation and the repair of the damage of the depression.

It is the general platform on which the party will fight for offices in the November congressional election.

Two Facts Are Noted.

Political strategists pointed out two facts governing the tone of the statement: First, that it is the function of the national convention, not the national committee, to write the party platform on specific issues; second, that denunciation of specific acts of the Roosevelt administration would embarrass many of the Republican congressmen running for reëlection, who on the plea of a national emergency were stampeded into voting for such creations as the NRA, the Agricultural Adjustment administration and other alphabetical creations of the Washington professoriat.

While in point of residence Mr. Fletcher is an eastern Republican, the statement follows in many respects the tenets of the western progressive wing of the party.

Work of Eastern Leaders.

This was considered especially significant in view of the fact that Committeeman Charles D. Hilles of New York, spokesman for the industrial and financial east, was chairman of the policy committee that drafted the statement, and that former Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, another New Yorker, was understood to have had a leading part in reshaping the original draft which Mr. Hilles brought to Chicago with him.

After its opening declaration that "American institutions and American civilization are in greater danger today than at any time since the foundation of the republic," the statement plunges immediately into discussion of the need for social legislation.

Social Questions Discussed.

"Our country has been backward in legislation dealing with social questions," it states. "We welcome the recognition that these questions demand the attention of government."

Assurance that proponents of such advanced ideas as unemployment insurance and old age pensions may in the future expect consideration by the Republican party of their theories is contained in this passage:

"Our nation is beset with problems of infinite complexity—the problems of recovery; of unemployment, with its unending tale of human suffering; of agriculture, with its lost markets and relatively low prices; of forever checking abuses and excesses that have become all too apparent, and thereafter the problems of a wider spread of prosperity, of relieving the hardships of unemployment and old age, and of avoiding these tragic depressions.

For a Liberal Spirit.

"These problems must be approached in a broad, liberal and progressive spirit, unhampered by dead formulas or too obstinately clinging to the past."

But at this point the statement

INDUSTRY HEADS BATTLE TO SAVE COMPANY UNION

Special Labor Board Plan Spurned.

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—After listening for two hours and a half to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson plead for a compromise to avert the threatened strike of 100,000 steel workers June 16, leaders of the steel industry issued a statement here tonight reaffirming their unalterable opposition to the labor demands.

Gen. Johnson placed before them his plan for creation of a special labor relations board for the steel industry, similar to that which was adopted for the automotive industry last March. But apparently it met with no more favor from the steel men than it had from the union spokesmen, who rejected it on Tuesday.

The sole issue in the present crisis is the demand of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, for a closed shop, according to the statement issued tonight by the employers' group, the American Iron and Steel institute.

Fights Closed Shop.

The industry "is unalterably opposed to the closed shop," the statement continued, and for that reason the demand of the Amalgamated "could not be considered." The statement maintained that workers' grievances are in no way concerned in the union's demand.

Emphasizing the intention of the employers to remain in its adherence to the company union system, the statement said that the industry is "definitly committed to the maintenance of the employé representation plans now effective in the industry, and to the principle of the open shop."

This was a direct rebuff to the insistence of the union spokesmen for a meeting "around a table" at which the collective bargaining issue might be threshed out.

Issue Formal Statement.

The statement read:

"Representatives of the iron and steel industry conferred here today with Gen. Johnson, national recovery administrator, and Donald Richberg, general counsel of the NRA, on the creation of a labor relations board in connection with the iron and steel code, and on the threatened steel strike.

"The steel men stated the demands of the Amalgamated association do not relate to grievances of the workers, that the sole demand is for a closed shop. As the industry is unalterably opposed to the closed shop, the demand could not be considered.

"It was made clear that the industry was definitly committed to the maintenance of employé representation plans now effective in the industry and the principle of the open shop."

Meet Again Today.

The sixteen leaders of the steel industry who took part in today's all-day conference, with perhaps some added individuals, will meet again tomorrow morning for further consideration of the situation. But with grim earnestness as they departed tonight they made it plain that they did not intend to yield on what they considered the vital point.

No less determined, a "rank and file" committee of steel workers told Secretary of Labor Perkins in Washington that "all hell will break loose" if the union's demands for a collective bargaining conference with their employers are not met by Sunday.

The employers' meeting was carried on in the headquarters of the American Iron and Steel institute. An air of secrecy surrounded the gathering all day, apparently as the result of Gen. Johnson's determination not to be questioned by reporters.

Arrives in Plane.

Although Gen. Johnson had been expected at the conference about 2 p. m., he did not arrive until 4:45, about half an hour after an army airplane had put him down at the Newark airport. He was accompanied by Mr. Richberg and by his ever present secretary, Miss Frances Robinson.

When they finally came in they brushed past the waiting reporters without paying any attention to the questions hurled at them. But to avoid being interviewed on their departure they went down a freight elevator to the basement of the skyscraper and out an unwatched exit to the street.

The meeting had been in session ever since 10 o'clock in the morning. It began to break up immediately after Gen. Johnson's departure at 7:15, but about half a dozen of the conferees and three attorneys re-

Football Bet Finds Its Way to Love Suit

Bill Hewitt, Michigan full back, follows perfect interference around the Minnesota left end, breaks into the open field, and runs 56 yards to a touchdown.

Bill knows he has added to the glory of the Maize and Blue; he knows that the little brown jug will stay in Ann Arbor, but he wots little what he has done for and to a senator of his sovereign state.

It all came out in court today. Miss Martha Danculovic was being cross-examined in her suit for $25,000 damages for alleged breach of promise by State Senator Roy Derham of Iron Mountain, Mich.

Miss Danculovic, 26 and pretty, is a former school teacher at Akron, O. She is a former student at the University of Wisconsin, but a native of Minnesota.

Cheers for Minnesota.

Counsel for Derham today questioned her about the game of 1931. She admitted that she and Derham were present at the contest; that she was a Minnesota partisan and he a Michigan booster.

She was forced to concede verbally that a certain bet was made and letters from her to Derham were introduced to prove the defense claim that she accepted the wager.

Miss Danculovic was at first vague on the terms of the bet. Finally, however, she did identify a letter as one written to her by Derham confirming the terms. Even the letter did not state what Derham's forfeit should be if Michigan lost.

Miss Danculovic, it seems, had wagered not wisely but too well. Hence the basis of the main charge which she brought in the trial. Her testimony concerned in a large part the events of the night in Detroit after the game and how she and the senator visited a hotel.

Tells Marriage Offer.

In previous testimony the plaintiff had said that Derham had asked her to become his wife. Later, she said, she learned he had not obtained a divorce as he promised. She said he was the father of her child.

The witness today told how Mr. Derham called her on the long distance phone at Akron while she was having a party, identified himself as "Clark Gable" and insisted on talking to all the women present, at large expense.

NEW AMBASSADOR FROM SOVIETS TO GERMANY IS JEWISH

(Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.)

BERLIN, June 6.—In appointing Jacquez Z. Suritz to the post of ambassador to Berlin the soviet government has undertaken to send a Jew to the anti-Semitic propaganda center of the world, it was learned today. The fact that Suritz is of Jewish blood was confirmed in soviet circles here today, although it was denied that any special significance was to be attached to this fact.

"So far as the soviet union is concerned it does not matter whether he is a Jew or not," a soviet embassy official said. "The Jewish question does not exist for us."

At the German foreign office, which has already agreed to the appointment of Suritz, it was stated that for it the Jewish question did not exist either, insofar as diplomats or any foreign Jews were concerned.

PLANE RACES DEATH TO SAVE LIFE OF CHILD

Greenville, S. C., June 6.—(AP)—Racing with death, Pilot Dick Merrill took off from the Greenville airport at 11:05 o'clock tonight carrying a 3 year old girl patient to Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore.

The child, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Greenwood of Asheville, N. C., was brought here tonight by ambulance from Asheville, and an Eastern Air transport plane was held up 45 minutes here waiting for their arrival. The girl's parents and a nurse accompanied her.

The girl was said to be suffering from a malady which Asheville physicians so far have been unable to diagnose.

Liner President Lincoln Periled by Fire in Hold

HONOLULU, June 6.—(AP)—The liner President Lincoln, due in Honolulu at 5 a. m. tomorrow, tonight reported a fire in her main hold and asked the coast guard to stand by in case help was needed. A later wireless message said the fire was temporarily under control.

Hungry Quints Tweak Noses in Fight for Food

CORBEIL, Ont., June 6.—(AP)—Nurses attending the Dionne quintuplets are attempting to make arrangements to feed them simultaneously to avoid nose pulling conflicts.

Two of the tiny infants today struggled to be first, and almost came to blows when the food arrived.

While Annette, weight 2 pounds 4⅛ ounces, was being fed her two hour allowance of human milk from an eye dropper Yvonne, 2 pounds 6¾ ounces, lay impatiently beside her sister. Perhaps she remembered that Annette had punched her nose yesterday. Finally she reached over and tweaked her sister's nose.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe, attending the infants, reported the incident after his morning call at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Ovila Dionne. The high spirits of the children delighted him. He believes their disposition to fight is a sign of gaining strength.

An oxygen carbon-dioxide tank was used at intervals today to stimulate the breathing of the quintuplets.

Doctor's Optimism Grows.

"I am more optimistic now than I ever have been," Dr. Dafoe said. "It will be eleven days tomorrow since they were born. The children have gained an average of half an ounce apiece. They were weighed again today and Marie, the really delicate one, weighed 1 pound 9¼ ounces.

"But extreme care is still being taken, as there is always the danger of infection."

Dr. Dafoe described the childrens' skin as healthy, but he disclosed that they are not washed and are handled as little as possible.

"They are becoming active, and when the light strikes their eyes they put up their little hands to shield them," he said. "At 6 o'clock tonight they were wide awake and yelling. They are getting to know when it's dinner time."

Dr. Dafoe said the babies seem to enjoy rum. It has been given them from time to time for stimulation.

Twin Cousins of Quints Born.

San Francisco, Cal., June 6.—(AP)—Twin boys, cousins of the Canadian Dionne quintuplets, were born here today, but one of them died within 12 hours after birth. The boys, born to Mrs. Aldo Beltrami, a first cousin of Ovila Dionne, father of the Canadian babies, weighed only 2 pounds 14 ounces and 2 pounds 14½ ounces, respectively.

Beltrami, the father, is the son of a San Francisco restaurant owner.

Germany Tries U.S. Citizen for Slurs on Hitler

BRESLAU, Germany, June 6.—(AP)—Erwin Wollstein, 28 year old American citizen of New York City, was on trial in a Breslau special court today charged with making disparaging remarks about Chancellor Hitler at a party last October.

The accusation against him was filed by Paul Hilbert, a Breslau wool manufacturer, in February. United States Consul William W. Heard intervened and effected Wollstein's release from custody after the New Yorker had been detained several weeks.

The trial is expected to end Saturday.

Denies Charge.

Wollstein, who is of Jewish descent, denied the charge against him. He said he was out of the country at the time the remark was alleged to have been made and that, furthermore, he has never met Hilbert. Two witnesses testified today regarding the time the statement was supposed to have been made.

Siegfried Wollstein, the father of the man on trial, is a resident of Breslau and has been under arrest several weeks in connection with the same accusation.

New Attack on 5 and 10 Stores.

BERLIN, June 6.—(AP)—The Nazi campaign against department stores continued today, ostensibly as a well organized retaliatory action against boycotts of German products abroad. In several cities mobs gathered about stores of the F. W. Woolworth company, shouting and daubing the buildings with paint.

German representatives of the Woolworth company denied that there was any foundation for the charge that the company has joined a boycott on German goods in the United States. A buyer is on his way here from New York now, they said, and Canadian buyers have been here recently.

Numerous newspapers commended action of the angry crowds, which forced several stores to close. The newspapers repeated their charges that an attack on German commerce in international markets is being fostered by Jews.

"Justifiable Reprisal."

"Once again the Jewish gang has succeeded in thwarting world peace," observed Korrespondenz, the organ of the Nazi party.

"A justifiable reprisal," the Kurhessische Landes Zeitung described the demonstrations.

Windows of the Woolworth store at Kassel were smashed. At Bonn a store was daubed with paint. Crowds in Ludwigshafen and Breslau gathered about branches of the firm, shouting and sticking up posters advising persons not to buy.

Max Reinhardt Castle Bombed.

SALZBURG, Austria, June 6.—(AP)—Max Reinhardt, celebrated theatrical producer, escaped uninjured last night when a terrific bomb explosion damaged Leopold's Kronen castle, which he owns. Reinhardt was in living quarters of the palatial structure.

The blast wrecked furnishings of the reception hall, damaged antique chandeliers and shattered several valuable stained glass windows.

MANY SHOWERS IN GRAIN BELT; MORE ON WAY

Widespread Showers

Heavy showers fell in many parts of the central states grain belt yesterday. Some of the points reporting heavy rains follow:

Pipestone, Minn.	1.02	Mankato, Minn.	.50

Widespread rains yesterday in the northern portion of the corn and wheat belts and the promise of further rains throughout the entire area today or tomorrow have made the prospect of alleviation of the drouth more likely than at any time since it became acute on April 1. Rain is expected to reach Chicago and the southern part of the farm belt tonight or tomorrow, but it will not be as heavy as in the northern region today, according to W. P. Day, government forecaster.

In the 24 hour period ended last night substantial rains fell in the Dakotas, Nebraska, Minnesota, and Iowa, and the drouth is relieved in these states, Mr. Day said. He predicted that these states will receive from one-half to one inch of rain today.

Hope for Widespread Rains.

"While I cannot promise the end of the drouth," Mr. Day said, "the elements for widespread rainfall are being assembled in this part of the country. From the Hudson bay region a wave of cold air is moving south. When it encounters the warm, humid air from the Gulf of Mexico general precipitation will result.

"These waves of air will meet today in the northern region of the grain belt, and the heavy rains will fall there. Then the rain center should move towards Chicago and the vicinity and the southern part of the grain belt and produce precipitation tomorrow night or Friday morning. Even before the arrival of this rain center there should be scattered showers through the southern area."

Still in Drouth's Grip.

The drouth continued yesterday throughout most of southern and central Illinois and in nearly all regions of Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Indiana, Oklahoma, and Arkansas. The temperatures have also been high in these states, and pastures are deteriorating rapidly. The temperature is expected to drop in the area today.

Although the drouth condition may be alleviated soon, the rains have come too late to save wheat and other early crops. Late crops, such as corn, will benefit from the rains, however, although it is expected these crops will fall appreciably below the normal yield.

Proclaim Illinois Drouth Area.

Taking cognizance of the serious drouth condition in Illinois, relief officials at Washington announced yesterday that 31 counties in this state will come under the "secondary" drouth area. In these counties the Agricultural Adjustment administration relaxed its acreage reduction restrictions to enable farmers to plant forage crops on government rented land.

Gov. Horner has requested that Illinois be included in the critical drouth area to enable the movements into the state of live stock feeds and farm seeds under emergency freight rates and to permit the allocation of emergency relief funds to be loaned to farmers.

It was indicated by Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, that it will be his policy to give farmers in stricken areas paying jobs where possible instead of doling out relief money, but no action has been taken on Gov. Horner's request for the inclusion of Illinois in this program.

Counties Aided by Order.

The counties in the new drouth area in Illinois are Boone, Bureau, Carroll, Cook, De Kalb, Du Page, Fulton, Grundy, Henry, Jo Daviess, Kane, Kankakee, Kendall, Knox, Lake, La Salle, Lee, Marshall, McDonough, McHenry, Mercer, Ogle, Peoria, Putnam, Rock Island, Stark, Stephenson, Warren, Whiteside, Will, and Winnebago.

An example of the effects of the drouth in Illinois came in reports from Belvidere, center of the canning industry, that the entire crop of early peas is ruined and there is but little hope for the late crop.

Hugh K. Funderburg, president of the Keene-Belvidere Canning company, said an experimental cutting had been made on the 2,000 acres of early peas and it took ten full acres to make a single load. Ordinarily, he explained, from thirty to forty loads should be taken from an acre.

"We are abandoning the early crop altogether," he said, "and I have reports from other canners that the pea crop is a complete ruin in northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin. I don't think the late crop will be any better."

Hunter Here Today.

Howard O. Hunter, field representative for the Federal Emergency Relief Administration at Washington, will arrive in Chicago today for a conference with Wilfred Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. Reynolds has requested a loan of $998,700 for Illinois farmers for live stock feed in June and a loan of $527,300 to purchase seed for emergency crops.

The AAA has also modified hog, wheat, and tobacco reduction contracts in Indiana, it was announced yesterday by J. H. Skinner, director of the Purdue university agricultural extension department at Lafayette. Farmers in the state are now permitted to plant hay and forage crops, except corn and grain sorghums, on either contracted areas or other lands, Mr. Skinner explained.

There were high temperatures throughout central Illinois yesterday, the mercury reaching 101 degrees at Pana. Corn is suffering in the Bloomington area. At Quincy a slight rain caused the temperature to drop from 100 degrees to 80 degrees in an hour.

Lake breezes and a mass of cool air from the Hudson bay region kept Chicago cool yesterday. The temperature at 7 o'clock in the morning was 72 degrees, but instead of rising, as is usual during the morning and early afternoon, it dropped to 54 degrees at noon. The cool weather will continue today. The mercury is not expected to climb above the upper 60s. There is a possibility of a shower tonight.

POTATOES SEEN AS SUBSTITUTE FOR GRAIN FOOD

The white potato, America's old food standby, may reach wartime popularity as a substitute for flour and cereal this winter. Despite the fact that the potato crop has been given a severe setback by the drouth, there is still ample time for the extensive northern plantings to mature.

With the exception of a few potatoes brought into this country from Canada and Estonia, consumers depend almost exclusively upon American grown potatoes. The potato crop is still young in the northern states where 75 per cent of the nation's normal crop of 360,000,000 bushels is produced.

Reports to the National Potato institute in Chicago reveal that farmers have discontinued planting potatoes in the dry areas. Rains would encourage the planting of an additional acreage of potatoes in fields where grain and other crops have failed.

If rain falls within the next few days northern and western growers would have an opportunity to produce a crop that would aid in offsetting their losses from last year, when their total yield fell 50,000,000 bushels below normal. Rain is necessary during the next two weeks if the relatively deep planted potato crop is to survive.

The crop has been reduced in Alabama, Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi where early potatoes are produced. This has caused an advance in potato prices during the last two weeks.

County Treasurer and Assessor Are Both Ill

Thomas D. Nash, county treasurer, and J. L. Jacobs, county assessor, are confined to their homes with ailments which will keep them from their official duties for a week, it was learned yesterday. Mr. Nash, who has been stricken with an attack of colitis, sent word to his assistant, Edward B. McCabe, that he will be back at his desk about the middle of next week. Mr. Jacobs has been ordered to bed by his physician, Dr. Frank Tufts, to take a week's rest.

Worst Electric Storm in Years Sweeps Over Maine

Portland, Me., June 6.—(AP)—A severe electrical storm, the worst in years, swept Maine late today leaving damage from lightning, wind and hail. One death was indirectly attributed to the storm. Heavy rain brought some relief to parched fields recently planted and did much to alleviate danger from forest fires which have raged the last two weeks.

DROUTH BRINGS NEW PROBLEMS IN MEAT INDUSTRY

Huge Amounts of Cattle Unloaded on Market.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

With a live stock panic in the air, consumers have reason to be concerned over the supplies and prices of meat during the next few months. In the drouth areas perplexed farmers are resorting to extreme measures to meet the situation that now confronts them as a result of the feed and pasture shortage.

Trainloads and truckloads of live stock are being moved into slaughter houses throughout the country. More than a half million head of cattle, hogs, and sheep were received at seven central markets during the first three days of this week, according to J. S. Campbell, federal live stock reporter here. His reports show that approximately 73,000 more animals have been moved into these terminal markets this week than during the same three day period a year ago. This does not include the thousands of animals that have been marketed direct to packers.

Seek Longer Work Week.

Packers are faced with the problem of increasing the number of working hours each day in order to take care of the added receipts of animals. Governmental officials have urged them to use all speed in slaughtering of cattle from the drouth area. The packers seek a temporary work week of 53 hours in place of the present 40 hours provided by the NRA code for all killing, boning, chilling, and hide operations.

Mr. Campbell says that the market is being flooded with thousands of cattle that are healthy but thin and hungry. Ordinarily these cattle would be kept on the farm, or, if shipped to market, they would be sold to farmers and taken to the feed lots of the middle west to be finished for slaughter. Instead they are being slaughtered and will be moved into consumption channels within the next few weeks.

Much of Stock Underfed.

For some time much of the live stock has been coming to market improperly finished. Even before the drouth many farmers who had borrowed money from the government, offering corn as security for the loan, were having a struggle to get enough feed to finish their live stock for the market. The drouth has added to their difficulties, forcing them to sell their live stock, or buy expensive feed.

Consumers may expect lower prices on the ordinary cuts of meat coming from the animals that are now being marketed from the drouth areas. Choice cuts of beef already are selling at premium prices and this trend may continue for some time because with a shortage of feed farmers will be unable to meet the demand for highly finished animals.

WALTON INJURIES IN 3 STORY FALL FOUND SERIOUS

Mark W. Walton, 38 years old, war aviator and son of Lyman A. Walton, former banker, was in a serious condition at the Lake View hospital last night as a result of a fall from a window of the Aquitania hotel apartments, 832 Argyle street, earlier in the day. He had been leaning over a window sill trying to see the lights of the World's Fair with binoculars. The window screen gave way and he fell three stories to the ground.

Walton lives with his father at the Del Prado hotel, 5307 Hyde Park boulevard. He was visiting friends, Mr. and Mrs. George V. Gordon, at the north side hotel. Among the guests was Miss Sue Cochrane, Walton's former wife. They were divorced in 1927.

Walton was a football player at Princeton university and during the war served with the naval air corps, much of the time as an instructor in Italy. He was seriously injured in a plane crash in 1922, which left his legs weak, according to Dr. Fred E. Schon, one of the physicians attending him. Dr. Schon said that Walton had probably suffered a severe skull fracture and several broken ribs.

Hope Dimmed for Balanced Federal Budget in 1936

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—Business men who have been lulled into a belief that the budget of the federal government will be balanced in 1936 were disillusioned today when President Roosevelt practically conceded that this much hoped for achievement was impossible.

Discussing with newspaper men his new half billion dollar program for drouth relief, the President said the sum was an additional appropriation, not to be taken from any sums previously set aside for relief or recovery purposes.

Replies With Asperity.

Asked directly if this would not make impossible the balancing of the budget message on last Jan. 3, that planned, Mr. Roosevelt replied with asperity that he would cross that bridge when he came to it.

Then he added that if the budget is unbalanced it will be because of what he termed an unforeseeable major calamity. He adjured newspaper men to write the whole story as he put it and not to say simply that the balanced budget is overboard.

But informed persons who have been watching the dollars pour out of Washington by the billions, and who on next Friday morning will see the national debt break all previous records, have expressed opinions of late that it is not only the drouth which can be blamed for the unbalancing of the 1936 budget.

Sensitive on Subject.

Mr. Roosevelt's sensitiveness on this subject may grow from his having told congress and the country, in his budget message on last Jan. 3 that, "We should plan to have a definitly balanced budget for the third year [1936] of recovery and from that time on seek a continuing reduction of the national debt."

The President reckoned that there would be a recovery in the nation adequate to suspend or greatly to reduce federal appropriations for unemployment relief; that some of the other costly experiments of the New Deal recovery effort could be discontinued, and that recovery would bring additional tax revenues into the federal till.

But the budget forecasters now concede privately that the progress of business recovery is so slow that the possibilities of cutting relief appropriations materially in the 1936 fiscal year are woefully slim.

The President has declined to adopt the stern methods of economy which has brought the national budget of Great Britain into balance this year, with a tidy surplus besides. It is generally conceded by leaders of both parties that relief to the drouth stricken farmers and their families is essential, but many conservative leaders in both parties insist that by trimming the sails of the Washington bureaucracy sufficient funds could be obtained without throwing the 1936 budget out of balance.

Pay Rollers Increased.

Instead of reducing the army of federal pay rollers, however, the New Dealers have increased it to a number unequaled since 1920 and surpassed only by the great war machine force assembled in 1917 and 1918 and not completely disbanded until after 1920.

The President said his drouth message to congress was being held up pending the receipt of further information from the drouth area.

Mr. Roosevelt stressed emphatically his opinion that there is no danger of human famine in the drouth situation.

Food Supply Hit.

The department of agriculture, however, in an official report on the drouth situation, conceded for the first time that the drouth "will materially affect the national food supply."

Comparing the visitation of drouth upon such a great area of the nation with the burning of a great city, the President pointed the difference in that for the stricken people of a destroyed city there is available the work of rebuilding, whereas the farmers in the sun parched acres of drouth have no work to which their hands may be turned to provide the wherewithal for sustenance.

Maps Show Stricken Area.

Maps on the President's desk showed great areas of red, representing the counties and states in which farmers are in dire distress, and other areas of blue in which the suffering is keen but not so severe. The red is constantly growing, and so is the blue, the President said.

Mr. Roosevelt estimated there were 125,000 families in the red areas.

23 LIVES LOST AS FLOODS, TORNADO WHIP OVER CHILE

Rain Falls First Time on Nitrate Region.

BY NORMAN INGREY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 6.—Twenty-three are dead and 90,000 homeless following a week of tempest and flood in central Chile, according to a final checkup today. There were floods for the first time in history of the "rainless" nitrate desert, and a tornado, unknown hitherto on the southern Pacific coast line, hit the port of Concepcion with disastrous consequences.

The death toll of twenty-three was made up of six drowned in the Andacello gold fields, five in the mining town of Copiapo, and seven in Santiago and Valparaiso. The remainder were killed in the wake of the tornado which uprooted Concepcion and its neighbor, Talcahuano. They suffered damage estimated at $7,000,000.

Gold Panners Trapped.

Seven thousand gold panners in the alluvial gold fields at Andacello, near Coquimbo, were trapped when the rain caused an Andean deluge. The floods swept across the arid pampa at a fearful pace. Many families were marooned five days in the historic church at Andacello.

The town of Copiapo was submerged by the water from the Andes. The longitudinal valley in which it is located was swamped two feet deep and rail and highway bridges broke down. Farther north, in the nitrate regions, many of the inhabitants experienced rain for the first time in their lives. In Santiago the river bed of the Mapocho, dry for years, was barely broad and deep enough to carry the torrential rains which rushed from the hilly environs of the city. Los Leones and Nunoa, Anglo-American residential centers, were under water for 24 hours.

Railroad Is Wrecked.

The rain storms summarily ended the negotiations between the Chilean and Argentine governments for renewal of the transandine rail service which has been suspended for some time. Fresh landslides permanently wrecked the route and, on the Argentine boundary, the line was washed away for several miles.

Engineers estimated the damage at $4,000,000 and stated that the road cannot be rebuilt under a three year period.

MATTHEW WOLL WARNS GARMENT WORKERS ON NRA

Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, yesterday warned the delegates attending the convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union at the Morrison hotel not to depend upon the National Recovery act for the economic protection of their unions.

He charged that the production codes of industry are an expression of fascism in the country, and that the nation is heading toward some form of dictatorship unless prevented by organization of all workers.

Resolutions authorizing extensive organization campaigns in the garment industry in various cities in this country and Canada, and to call strikes where it was deemed necessary as a weapon for organization, were adopted. The cities referred to are Chicago, Boston, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Cleveland, Cincinnati, New York, Baltimore, Toronto, and Montreal.

HAY SHIPMENTS BRINGING RELIEF TO DAIRY COWS

300 Carloads Ordered by Farmers' Group.

An abundance of feed is now in sight for the hungry cows in the Chicago dairy territory. Welcome news was broadcast to farmers yesterday afternoon by Don N. Geyer, manager of the Pure Milk association, who announced that 40 carloads of alfalfa hay bought in eastern Kansas was rolling toward the drouth relief counties of Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin.

This is the first shipment to be made by dairymen who have pooled their orders for about 300 carloads of alfalfa hay which is being bought by the Pure Milk association, the dairy farmers' organization. The association is delivering the hay to the farmers' local stations at cost, which is about $20 a ton or less, saving farmers several dollars a ton.

This saving is made possible chiefly by the emergency freight rate which became effective yesterday in counties designated by the government as drouth relief areas. The new rates call for a reduction of 50 per cent on alfalfa hay. The normal freight rate on alfalfa hay shipped from eastern Kansas to the Chicago dairy territory is approximately $9.40 a ton. This varies, depending upon the points of origin and destination.

Farmers are given an opportunity to save 25 cents a ton where they are able to pay cash. Some will pay for their hay by assigning milk checks to the association. Most of the hay will be paid for out of loans made by the Pure Milk association from the $200,000 loan obtained by the association from the Farm Credit administration.

Individual farmers may borrow as much as $100 for use in buying hay.

Hundreds of mows in dairy barns in this territory are empty. Many dairymen have been borrowing or buying hay from more fortunate neighbors. Some have been forced to turn their cows into grain fields or to abandon field work and herd the animals along the highways.

County agents throughout this territory report that thousands of farmers have exhausted their hay supplies. In Cook county farmers have paid from $25 to $28 a ton for alfalfa hay recently, according to O. G. Barrett, farm adviser.

SUES MRS. SWIFT TO COLLECT 1914 $1,000 JUDGMENT

A case that was a topic for discussion in Chicago society in 1914 was recalled yesterday when Fred Rose of New Buffalo, Mich., petitioned the Circuit court of Lake county to reinstate a judgment of $1,000 obtained twenty years ago against Mrs. Helen Morton Swift, Chicago social leader and sculptress.

The judgment was obtained by Rose's father, a Lake Forest coachman, after Rose had been hurt while riding the former Helen Morton's horse in the Lake Forest horse show. He broke a leg and a jury gave him $1,000.

In his petition, filed by Attorney Thomas Peden, Rose maintained that the $1,000 was never paid. He wants the $1,000 and, in addition, the interest on the money compounded annually at 5 per cent. This, he estimates, brings the total debt to $2,653.20. Mrs. Swift now lives in Wheaton.

Rains Seen as Aid in Fight on Infantile Paralysis

Los Angeles, Cal., June 6.—[Special.]—Light showers of the past two days have done much, by laying germ laden dust, to indicate future slowing of infantile paralysis in Los Angeles, according to Dr. J. L. Pomeroy, county health officer. Twenty-seven cases were reported yesterday. There have been 403 cases in Los Angeles county since May 1. Dr. Pomeroy said the total of six deaths is a remarkable low mortality rate.

LAWYERS DENY ICKES' CHARGES OF BLACKMAIL

Malmin, Larsen Testify at Bar Hearing.

Attorneys Lucius J. M. Malmin and C. W. Larsen yesterday took the witness stand in the courtroom of the Appellate court at 30 North Michigan avenue to deny charges of "unprofessional conduct" brought against them by Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

The secretary was not present when the seven members of the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association, hearing the disbarment proceedings against Malmin and Larsen as commissioners of the Illinois Supreme court, opened yesterday's hearing. He was en route to Washington.

At the opening of the disbarment proceedings Tuesday Secretary Ickes had accused the two attorneys of conspiring to blackmail him into giving them federal posts and to defame his character. Ickes said the conspiracy was based on "trumped up charges" growing out of a Probate court estate which he had handled as an attorney here.

Serving His Clients.

Larsen, a former assistant corporation counsel, was the first to go on the witness stand yesterday. He declared he was merely serving his clients in a litigation and had at no time attempted to injure Secretary Ickes or procure a federal post.

Attorney Malmin followed Larsen as a witness. He testified he has been practicing law in Chicago for almost 50 years and was well acquainted with President Roosevelt. He offered in evidence a biography of the President in which the President had written on the fly leaf, "You are one of a few friends on the outside, I want you under my tent."

In addition Malmin produced a letter dated Aug. 14, 1933, and written on White House stationery. It was a reply of President Roosevelt to a letter from Malmin requesting a job. Malmin's letter had been sent to the White House in care of the President's daughter, Mrs. Anna Dall, whom Malmin met three weeks previously in Chicago. The President's reply read:

"My Dear Judge: Anna tells me that she saw you and had a little talk with you in Chicago. This reminded me of the fact that I had a letter from you some time ago, which was not acknowledged, and I had it looked up.

"During the very busy weeks since the 4th of March there have been so many demands on my time that it has been quite impossible for me to keep up my personal correspondence or to indulge myself in the pleasure of seeing those whom, under normal conditions, I would see.

Quite a Few on Outside.

"You will probably realize, too, that this same pressure has kept me from giving as close personal supervision to appointments and questions of personnel as I would like. The net result is that there are quite a few persons whom I want to see taken care of still on the outside.

"May I say that I include you among them, and if I can find a place for you I shall be only too glad to do it."

Malmin attempted to introduce a number of other letters from President Roosevelt, some of them dating back to the time when the President was governor of New York, but the commissioners refused them admittance on the ground they were not germain.

Malmin testified he met Ickes for the first time early in March, 1933, when he was taken to Ickes' Chicago office by Attorney Herbert J. Friedman. Friedman, he said, introduced him to Ickes with, "This is the next governor of the Virgin Islands."

Malmin then began a recital of the meeting at which Ickes charged at Tuesday's hearing the attempt at blackmail was made. Malmin said he obtained the interview by showing a secretary of Ickes a copy of a complaint Larsen had drawn against Ickes.

Secretary Calls Him.

"I was in my hotel in Washington," Malmin testified, "when Ickes' secretary called me and told me to jump in a cab and meet Ickes. I did and was ushered into Ickes' office.

"It was a large office. I walked about 50 feet and sat beside Secretary Ickes. I told him I came to see him about the probate estate. He said in a loud voice, 'All I got out of that was $1,000.' I told him I didn't want to press him; I was only there as a messenger of Larsen. That was all that I said about the Larsen matter.

"I did say I had another matter to discuss. I said I had heard that Postmaster General Farley was thinking of naming a Mr. Olson or his wife, who had run for governor of Minnesota, as governor of the Virgin Islands. Ickes said that if the President would name any one he would make the appointment.

"I leaned over and tapped him on the knee. I asked him to take me to the President right then. He said it was after 5 o'clock and too late, but that he would speak to the President at the next cabinet meeting. I then left after a cordial handshake."

Larsen took the stand in his own defense after Attorney Frederick Z. Marx, representing Secretary Ickes, completed the complainant's case with the reading of depositions taken from Washington witnesses. Larsen was examined by his attorney, F. J. Karasek.

Larsen, who lives at 4509 Shubert avenue, said he has lived in Chicago since 1892 and practiced law here since 1915. He was born in Denmark and speaks with a slight Danish accent.

He described in detail the nature of the Probate court case which was involved in the alleged threats by Malmin and Larsen against Ickes. These alleged threats are the basis of the present disbarment proceedings. Larsen said he was retained late in 1931 by Dr. Roland Saunders, Chicago dentist, and his sister, Margaret Belle Saunders, of Provincetown, Mass., who were dissatisfied with the administration of the $20,000 estate of their brother, Clarence, by Ickes as a practicing attorney.

The chief complaint, he said, was excessive fees and the redemption of property in Los Angeles, Cal. This property should not have been redeemed, he contended. As a representative of the brother and sister, Larsen said he called upon Ickes but received no satisfaction from him.

Meets Attorney Malmin.

To further his case Larsen said he drew up a complaint making his charges against Ickes for presentation to the Probate court and a second complaint for presentation to the bar association. Shortly after the complaint was drawn, in July of 1933, he met Attorney Malmin in front of the county building and told him of the facts in the case.

"I did so because Malmin said he was a friend of Ickes and was shortly going to Washington," Larsen said. "I asked him to see if he could persuade Ickes to make a settlement, which my client, Miss Saunders, wished. She could not come here for court action."

Under questioning by Attorney Karasek, Larsen firmly declared he had not entered into a conspiracy with Malmin to blackmail Ickes, had never attempted to force settlement by threatening to bring action before the bar association, had never authorized Malmin to represent to Ickes that if a federal job were given Larsen the probate case would be forgotten and had never attempted to defame Ickes' character.

"I am going ahead with the case now," Larsen said. "I plan to file a bill for an accounting to force Ickes to return some of the money he received. I have new evidence."

Larsen Is Cross-Examined.

On cross-examination Attorney Marx asked Larsen whether a disbarment proceeding is now pending against him in the Illinois Supreme court.

The commissioners ordered the question stricken. Attorney John L. Fogle, representing the bar association, revealed that the association's grievance committee has recommended Larsen be suspended from the practice of law for a year because of his conduct in another estate matter.

The depositions, read by Attorney Marx, contained testimony of two Washington witnesses that Malmin had threatened to "blow the roof off the administration." The depositions also quoted Malmin as declaring Ickes "was a crook" and had characterized Postmaster General Farley as an ingrate.

The hearing will be resumed this morning when it will be concluded with arguments after Malmin completes his testimony. The commissioners have announced they will take the case under advisement.

RECTORY HOLDUP VICTIM ACCUSES THREE AT TRIAL

Mrs. Clara Noonan Esping, 7430 South Michigan avenue, took the witness stand before a jury in Judge Michael Feinberg's Criminal court yesterday and identified three youths as participants in the robbery last Oct. 29 of St. Columbanus' Catholic church rectory, 331 East 71st street.

Mrs. Esping testified she had called at the rectory to arrange for her marriage—she was then Mrs. Noonan—and was met at the door by Joseph Rocco, one of the defendants. Rocco, she said, forced her inside, took her rings and purse, and threatened to kill her if she made any outcry.

She next saw Tony Mucerino, another defendant, she testified, who forced her to go to a room upstairs, where members of the rectory household were being held prisoners. Mrs. Esping also identified Albert Ferrari, another defendant, as one of the bandits. A fourth youth on trial is James Arido.

INSULL COUNSEL PLANS ATTACK ON U. S. GRAND JURY

Investigates Method of Choosing Body.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

Counsel for Samuel Insull Sr. yesterday prepared to invoke new pleas of the type known around the courts as dilatory after Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan had ruled that international kidnaping does not render a man immune from trial.

Judge Sullivan sustained the government's demurrer to Insull's plea, in which it was contended that the court lacked jurisdiction because the United States shanghaied him from a Greek vessel in a Turkish port. The case, which is an indictment charging Insull and sixteen others with using the mails to defraud, was continued until next Monday, when Insull is scheduled to be arraigned.

May Attack Grand Jury.

Attorney Floyd E. Thompson, representing Insull, produced a mild sensation when he said he might attack the validity of the grand jury which indicted Insull on the ground that it was not selected according to law. This has been done in the state courts, but no lawyer has ever presumed to raise the question of the legality of federal grand juries.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green said he could not imagine what Mr. Thompson had in mind and added that if the law is being violated in selecting grand juries the defense should have a chance to prove it.

"I wish to investigate certain representations of fact that have been made to me," said Mr. Thompson, "and if I find them true I shall file a plea in abatement on the ground that the grand jury is improperly impaneled. I am told that there is no such thing as a jury box in federal court and that the jury commissioners never come to court. I do not say that these statements are true, but I wish to find out how they select grand juries in federal court."

Wilkerson Calls Conference.

During the afternoon Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, senior member of the district bench, arranged for a conference in his chambers this morning, at which time Mr. Thompson will have an opportunity to question Charles M. Bates, clerk of the court. Mr. Bates is directly in charge of selecting grand juries.

Judge Sullivan's opinion yesterday, in which he overruled Insull's shanghai plea, said that the facts of Insull's alleged kidnaping were of no concern to the court and cited numerous cases holding that once a fugitive is brought within a jurisdiction where he stands accused he must face the charges.

"If the rights of the defendant have been violated, or the peace or dignity of the Hellenic republic or Turkey trespassed upon, that is not a matter for this court; and the mere fact, if true, as stated by the defendant, that he was kidnaped from the Hellenic authorities, would not give the court power to examine such facts," the opinion read.

MINISTER LOSES HIS $50,000 "LOVE" SUIT AGAINST ANOTHER ONE

Seattle, Wash., June 6.—(AP)—A Superior court jury refused today to award damages to the Rev. Emery C. Van Hise, who sought $50,000 from the Rev. Dr. C. Stanley Mook on the ground that his fellow Episcopalian minister alienated his wife's affections.

Judge Malcom Douglas, in his instructions, declared the burden of proof rested upon the plaintif, now assistant to the superintendent of a CCC camp near Shelton.

The defendant is the pastor of Trinity Episcopal church here, which has the largest Episcopalian congregation in the city.

The plaintif charged the Rev. Mook with intimacies with his middle aged wife while they were employed as caretakers of a tourist camp at Lake Killarney, near here, in which the defendant had an interest.

George F. Vanderveer, attorney for the plaintif, contended no woman of Mrs. Van Hise's position would have made the statements she did incriminating the defendant unless they were true.

Brother of Former Spanish Premier Is Assassinated

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, June 6.—(AP)—Fernando Berenguer, brother of Gen. Damaso Berenguer, former monarchist premier, was slain tonight by persons who presumably were seeking the latter's assassination. Fernando was waiting near a street car station in the town of Hermani when two unknown assailants fired three shots and fled. Fernando was said to have been expecting his brother.

VIOLENCE GROWS IN SPANISH FARM STRIKE; 10 KILLED

Civil Guards Open Fire on Peasants.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, June 6.—The death toll in the national farm workers' strike swelled to ten today as the walkout of 200,000 peasants, ordered by the Socialist Land Workers' union, continued in its second day. The strike was called to combat an alleged boycott by landowners of unionized farm labor.

Four persons were killed and about twenty injured in clashes today between strikers, strikebreakers, and civil guards. Six were killed yesterday. The government, however, reiterated its assurances that the strike has failed and will not materially affect the reaping of Spain's bumper grain harvest, which is said to be the best of the present century.

Widow Kills Striker.

Disorders occurred in various sections of the country. At Vilches a widow, stirred to action by the interference of strikers with workers on her farm, shot one of her tormentors to death. The strikers retaliated by killing a son of the widow.

At Fabiote a landowner was killed by strikers when he tried to defend his employés. At Torre Perogil civil guards fired into a group of strikers. One was killed and several were wounded.

Similar violence was reported in other grain areas. Jaen and Granada provinces appeared to be the center of the disturbances.

Censorship Veils News.

A strict censorship, established yesterday, continued today, and accurate information as to the progress of the strike was meager. It is known, however, that the walkout affects parts of 15 provinces and has crept as close to Madrid as the neighboring strawberry fields of Aranjuez. The pickers there have quit work.

The Spanish capital is tense as a result of a circular issued last night by the Land Workers' union, declaring that a Fascist coup d'état is imminent, and although the government has issued reassuring notices, persons in the confidence of President Alcala Zamora concede considerable importance to a meeting between the head of the republic and Premier Ricardo Samper Ibanez.

There is also evidence that the Socialist leaders are seriously worried by the strike and its possible consequences. These leaders blame the Land Workers' union for having led them into a situation the way out of which is not clear. The youth organizations of the Socialists and the left wing Republicans have been mobilized and are keeping active vigil over all official centers in evident fear of a move by the right.

13 Crushed to Death, 21 Hurt as Spanish House Falls

VALENCIA, Spain, June 6.—(AP)—At least thirteen persons were killed tonight and 21 others seriously injured when a house collapsed. The ruins were still being searched for bodies. Authorities feared that several others may have perished.

Compel Burglar to Climb Out Transom; Arrest Him

A police squad led by Sergt. Ray Mulligan of the Gresham station last night captured a youthful burglar in the meat market of Joseph Schrage at 1439 West 79th street. The burglar, Joseph Elam, 17 years old, 3020 Justine street, had climbed through a transom and the police, unable to open the door, compelled him to crawl out the way he got in.

Turk Zaro Agha, 160, Gets Out of Children's Hospital

ISTANBUL, Turkey, June 6.—(AP)—Zaro Agha, who claims to be 160 years old, was discharged today from the children's hospital, pronounced entirely cured from the attack of Bright's disease he suffered five weeks ago. Agha joined his daughter, who gives her age as 73, in their little house in the old Tophaneh quarter.

Party States Principles for Fall Campaign.

points out that there is a safe and right way of seeking these improvements, and a dangerous and wrong one. It commits the party to solve the problems "within the framework of American institutions in accordance with the spirit and principles of the founders of the republic," and then launches a temperate but firm analysis of the governmental excesses of the New Deal.

"There is nothing new in most of the present political and economic experiments," the statement says. "History records a long record of failure of similar experiments . . . Even if by tyranny government could assure material well being—which it cannot—it is too heavy a price to pay."

Election of Chairman Fletcher.

Although the adoption of the statement of principles prepared by the policy committee was the first order of business in the executive session of the national committee yesterday morning, it was a foregone conclusion when the meeting opened that Mr. Fletcher was to be chosen chairman.

Any doubt on this matter was dispelled by Mr. Hallanan's announcement, as he went into the meeting, that he intended to second the Fletcher nomination, and that the votes pledged to him would go to Mr. Fletcher.

Mrs. Worthington Scranton, committeewoman from Pennsylvania, had prepared in advance a telegram to Mr. Fletcher, informing him of his unanimous election. She entrusted this to one of the hangers-on who had gained admission to the committee session, and while the nominating speeches were going on, he rushed from the room, displaying the telegram and exclaiming, "It's all over."

Error Causes a Stampede.

His false report caused a stampede of afternoon newspaper men and press association representatives to telephones with bulletins, which they withdrew within a few minutes when the mistake was discovered. The actual election did not take place until nearly two hours later. Mr. Fletcher was nominated by Mrs. Scranton.

Ninety-two of the 106 potential votes of the committee were cast—a number of delegates had gone out to lunch, certain that the outcome was already determined. Of the votes cast Mr. Fletcher received 68 and Mr. Hamilton 24. Mr. Hamilton immediately arose and moved that the vote be made unanimous, which it was.

Both Mr. Hallanan and Mr. Hamilton received promotions in the ranks of the party machinery, Mr. Hallanan to the executive committee and Mr. Hamilton to the post of party counsel, vacant since the death of James Francis Burke of Pennsylvania.

Charles F. Scott of Kansas, who was present holding a proxy from another state and who nominated Mr. Hamilton, explained shortly after the vote on the chairmanship that the support given the Kansas candidate should not be interpreted as evidence of any party factionalism.

"There was no organized campaign for Mr. Hamilton when we came here," said Mr. Scott. "The movement grew of itself, out of the belief of many of the delegates that it would be well to pick our leader from the west. All of the Republicans in Kansas—and remember that there were enough of us to elect a Republican governor in the Democratic landslide—are going to be able to get together on the statement of principles which we approved here today."

Ralph Williams, committeeman from Oregon and veteran vice chairman of the party, presided over yesterday's session after Everett Sanders of Indiana had presented his resignation as national chairman.

FLETCHER'S MESSAGE

Greencastle, Pa., June 6.—[Special.]—Henry P. Fletcher, upon receiving notification from Chicago of his election as Republican national chairman, said that for the present he planned to concentrate on familiarizing himself with the duties of the post.

He sent the following telegram of acceptance to the notification committee in Chicago:

"I accept the chairmanship of the Republican national committee and heartily subscribe to the statement of principles adopted by the committee. I shall welcome the advice and association of all who are willing to work for Republican success. Please express to the committee my appreciation of the honor they have conferred on me and my realization of the responsibility of the office. I am ready to go to work at once."

Mr. Fletcher departed for Chicago tonight to meet with the national committee tomorrow.

New Statement of Republican Party Principles

"American institutions and American civilization are in greater danger today than at any time since the foundation of the republic.

"The people must determine whether we are to remain a democracy or to substitute the domination of an all powerful central government.

"While it is not within the authority of the Republican national committee to write a detailed party program, under existing circumstances we deem it our duty to set forth the spirit and attitude in which our party should approach the problems of the day, and to restate our principles of government.

Beset with Problems.

"Our nation is beset with problems of infinite complexity—the problems of recovery; of unemployment with its unending tale of human suffering; of agriculture with its lost markets and relatively low prices; of forever checking abuses and excesses that have become all too apparent; and thereafter the problems of a wider spread of prosperity, of relieving the hardships of unemployment and old age, and of avoiding these tragic depressions.

"These problems must be approached in a broad, liberal and progressive spirit, unhampered by dead formulas or too obstinately clinging to the past.

"Our country has been backward in legislation dealing with social questions. We welcome the recognition that these questions demand attention by government.

Must Preserve Constitution.

"But we insist that all of these problems can best be solved within the framework of American institutions in accordance with the spirit and principles of the founders of the republic, without the destruction of individual freedom.

"In the name of national recovery the present administration has committed the country to a program which, unless checked, will lead to the chaos of unlimited inflation. The slowly accumulated savings and the present earnings of the people are being consumed recklessly by the government. At the very threshold of life, the youth of the nation is being saddled with unbearable burdens.

"A small group in Washington, vested with temporary authority, is seeking covertly to alter the framework of American institutions. They seek to expand to the utmost limit the powers of the central government. In place of individual initiative they seek to substitute complete government control of all agricultural production, of all business activity.

Middle Class to Suffer.

"There is nothing new in most of the present political and economic experiments. History records a long record of failure of similar experiments. As often in the past the people least able to bear the burden will be the chief sufferers from the mistakes of misguided burocrats who ignore history.

"Progress, liberty, and democracy go hand in hand. Even if by tyranny government could assure material well being—which it cannot—it is too heavy a price to pay.

"Given liberty of expression and of action, the people are better able to find a solution for their problems than any group of autocrats.

"We must not see destroyed in four years a civilization which has been centuries in building and which has brought our nation greater progress, well being, and happiness than have ever been enjoyed by any nation, any time, anywhere.

Warning Against Repudiation.

"In the interest of the reestablishment of faith in our government we insist that there shall be no further repudiation of solemn obligations of the government.

"We believe that governments and men who cannot stand criticism are those most in need of it, and that only through deliberate discussion can we reach sound conclusions.

"We believe in freedom of speech and in freedom of the press and in freedom of the radio for the discussion of national questions.

"We believe in an economic system based upon individual initiative and the maintenance of competition, checked by government regulation—not in an economic system based upon burocratic control and burocratic management.

"We are opposed to revolutionary change without popular mandate—and all 'change by usurpation,' the customary weapon by which free governments are destroyed.

"We believe that the present emergency laws vesting dictatorial powers in the President must never be permitted to become a permanent part of our governmental system.

Federal System Upheld.

"We believe in our federal form of government with its system of state and local responsibilities.

"We believe that we cannot spend our way to prosperity.

"We believe that an unassailable national credit and a balanced budget are indispensable foundations of national well being.

"We believe, in short, that American democracy, working along American lines, in accordance with the spirit and principles of American institutions is equal to the task of solving the problems of the new world, of breaking down the obstacles that stand in our way, and of resuming at an even more rapid pace the progress that has characterized the life of the nation for well night one hundred and fifty years.

"We call upon all who believe in the maintenance of these principles to unite in the election of senators and representatives who will support them."

Drafted by Policy Committee.

The statement of principles was drafted, signed and presented to the national committee by its policy committee, which was headed by Charles D. Hilles of New York. Other members were Ernest Bamberger of Utah, Dr. E. B. Clements of Missouri, Miss Dorothy Cunningham of Indiana, Miss Martha McClure of Iowa, Lawrence C. Phipps of Colorado, Mark Requa of California, John Richardson of Massachusetts, and Mrs. Worthington Scranton of Pennsylvania.

SANDERS IN HIS FAREWELL RAPS ROOSEVELT RULE

G.O.P. Chiefs Applaud Retiring Chairman.

The Rooseveltian way of governing was assailed as a trend toward socialism yesterday by Everett Sanders, retiring chairman of the Republican national committee, in his farewell speech. Mr. Sanders' report on his two year stewardship of party affairs was applauded by the committee at its session in the Palmer house.

"Neither the Republican nor Democratic platforms of 1932 contained a reference to most things that have been done," Mr. Sanders said, "so the question of the present policies of the administration was never submitted to the people except in the Socialist platform. But there were something like 35 million votes against the Socialist platform."

Mr. Sanders recalled an incident of a football player who grabbed the ball in midfield and in a daze ran the wrong way to place it behind his opponents' goal post.

"Mr. Roosevelt has been doing that very thing," said the retiring chairman. "He has the ball and is carrying it toward the enemy goal post, which is one against American liberty."

Then Mr. Sanders launched into an attack on the delegation of broad powers to the President by congress. He pointed out that congress could repeal its acts, but that the President was still in position to veto congressional wishes. He declared that the country would suffer under the wide granting of powers to the executive branch of government.

"They say we ought not to have partisanship because we are in trouble, that we are in an economic war," he said. "I say that in great economic difficulties, when things are being done that affect the economics of the country, there is greater need than at any other time for partisanship, and that it is the duty of the Republican party to be partisan."

WESTERN G. O. P. LEADERS PRAISE PARTY PLATFORM

Assert It Will Win Back Lost Support.

Leaders of the Republican party in western states last evening praised the statement of principles adopted by their national committee as a magnet to draw back into the party circle the progressive element which was lured away in 1932 by the promises of the New Deal.

The subordination of criticism of Democratic performances to a statement of affirmative Republican policies won commendation from Ballard Dunn, publisher of the Omaha (Neb.) Journal, who is in Chicago to observe the committee sessions. Friends are circulating petitions to enter Mr. Dunn in the Nebraska Republican primary for United States senator, but he has not consented to run.

"As Republicans and believers in America I feel that we must have always in mind that the Republican party is the historically affirmative political organization of the nation," said Mr. Dunn. "Because of the very serious nature of the situation now confronting the nation there is danger that the Republican party will forget this and give too much of its attention to criticism.

"Let New Deal Kill Itself."

"I believe we can safely leave the main features of what is called the New Deal to itself. I believe that government by alphabet will be its own executioner.

"The ten year period between 1919 and 1929, instead of being a 'crazy decade' as the pathologists of the New Deal would have the American people believe, was in fact the 'marvelous decade.' During that decade we harnessed science and invention, organized thinking to the common good and entered upon an era of abundance. We had moved toward putting into effect the doctrine of the 'economy of high wages.'

"The Republican party has now the splendid opportunity of bringing to America a new vision, a vision of the truth that all income—whether profits, wages or salaries—comes only from more and more production."

William Allen White, the veteran Kansas editor, who is among the working newspaper men at the committee sessions, said:

"The platform is broad enough for all the old Bull Moosers who followed Roosevelt to stand on. Its acknowledgement of the social service that government may aid will go a long way toward bringing back a great many dissenters to the fold."

Joseph D. Scanlan, national committeeman from Montana, said: "The principles as enunciated will strengthen Republican forces in Montana and aid in the campaign against the New Deal. This is the time to get the real issues before the public."

Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. of New York called the committee's statement "a forward looking, splendid platform."

Congressman Chester Bolton of Ohio, co-chairman of the Republican joint congressional campaign committee, said the statement should be a great aid to Republican members of congress in their races next fall.

Regulars Praise Fletcher.

CONGRESSMAN B. H. SNELL of New York—"It was a fine selection."

CONGRESSMAN JAMES W. WADSWORTH of New York—"Mr. Fletcher has real ability and a real conception of the needs of the country as a whole."

SENATOR L. J. DICKINSON of Iowa—"He is progressive minded and in a position to give the party real leadership."

Among some of the western radicals there was unfavorable comment:

SENATOR GERALD NYE of North Dakota—"Unless Fletcher has materially altered his views of late the choice can't be said to be an invitation to the progressive and liberal wings of the party."

SENATOR ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE of Wisconsin—"His selection is a clear indication that all the talk on the part of the old guard leaders about liberalizing the party was a smoke screen."

SENATOR CHARLES McNARY of Oregon—"Fletcher is a good man, but not a brilliant selection. I had expected an equally good man farther to the west possessing sane and modern views."

"White Collar Victim" Found Dead in Hotel

John Ten Houten, 57 years old, 741 West 60th place, was found dead yesterday in a room at the Fort Dearborn hotel, where he had registered on Monday. Death was due to an overdose of a sleeping medicine. Ten Houten left two notes, one of which stated: "I am just another white collar victim. I don't know what else to do." Relatives said he had been despondent over ill health.

THE WALRUS sets the Duchess straight

"...'shoes and ships!'" growled the Duchess. "It's no time to talk of ships . . . or Europe either."

"But you want to go," said the Walrus sympathetically. "It seems a shame not to."

"Stupid! Of course I do," snapped the Duchess. "But exchange rates—just look what they do!"

But they don't," said the Walrus. "Why talk about exchange rates when you are going to pay for your trip here in dollars. It all sounds so silly to me."

The exchange question simply doesn't exist . . . except for incidental purchases and minor outlays. Round-trip steamship passage, the costs of hotels and railroad fares abroad...all these can be guaranteed in this country, before you sail.

And what's more, Cunard ocean fares are down 30%. Living and travel costs in Europe have been sharply reduced . . . hotel expenses abroad average 36% less; railroads 30% less.

A room with bath, First Class in the Aquitania, costs today 37% less than in 1926 . . . President Roosevelt's "year of normalcy". And a 30-day tour of Europe, crossing via Cunard Cabin Service, costs 23% less. Round-trip rates are as low as $234 Cabin, $188 Tourist Class. Furthermore, you may pay for the entire trip at your leisure, if you wish . . . Cunard's Deferred Payment Plan requires a down payment of only 25%. FLETCHER NOTED FOR DIPLOMACY AND READY WIT

Active in Foreign Service for Nearly 27 Years.

Henry P. Fletcher, who yesterday was chosen chairman of the Republican national committee, returned to the United States to live in 1929 after nearly 27 years in the American diplomatic service. One day some one relayed to him a remark of Charles G. Dawes, then ambassador to Great Britain, that diplomacy was "easy on the brains but hell on the feet."

"It depends on which you use," was Fletcher's dry comment.

In the course of his diplomatic career Mr. Fletcher served under six Presidents and in seven foreign countries. He was a Rough Rider in Theodore Roosevelt's regiment in the Spanish war.

Native of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Fletcher was born on April 10, 1873, at Greencastle, Pa. His father was a bank cashier. When young "Had" Fletcher was graduated at the top of his class from Chambersburg academy, six smaller Fletchers made a college education for him an impossible strain on the family budget. Instead, he studied law in the office of his uncle, a judge, and supported himself as a court reporter.

He was admitted to the bar in 1894, but his fees were still on the $5 and $10 scale when he dropped his lawbooks in 1898 to join the volunteer cavalry which Roosevelt led to Cuba. Later Fletcher transferred to the infantry, was commissioned a lieutenant and fought through the Philippine insurrection.

Enters Diplomatic Service.

In 1902 he entered the diplomatic service as second secretary of the American legation in Cuba. From there he was sent to China, then to Portugal, then back to China.

While the American minister to Peiping was away on leave, Fletcher, the chargé d'affaires, had to handle American interests in the struggle for financing of the Chinese railways. Against veteran British and French diplomats he won equal participation for the United States.

This won him appointment in 1909 to his first major post, minister to Chile. The threat of "Yankee imperialism" had made Chile a hotbed of anti-American feeling, which was disclosed to Minister Fletcher soon after his arrival, when a friend took him to a club on a holiday. A Chilean exclaimed in his hearing that he "wouldn't buy even a shoestring from the United States."

Quick Retort Makes Friends.

"I'm sorry the cable office is closed today," said Mr. Fletcher, loud enough to reach the critic's ears. "I want to wire the President that the American shoestring industry is ruined."

The critic joined in the laughter which followed, and thereafter aided the American minister in cementing friendly relations between their two nations.

Later Mr. Fletcher was raised to the rank of ambassador in Chile.

He got another trouble shooting assignment in 1916 when President Wilson made him ambassador to Mexico. German agents were doing their best to embroil that country in war with the United States, and had stirred up popular hatred against the "gringoes."

The new ambassador was hissed when he addressed the Mexican congress. Outside the capitol doors a mob gathered around his automobile, howling, "Down with the United States. Long live Germany."

Turning to the leader of the mob, Ambassador Fletcher asked in Spanish: "Why no 'Viva Mexico'?"

His wit turned the mercurial spirit of the mob. As he drove away its members laughed and shouted: "Long live Mexico. Long live the United States. Long live Fletcher."

Mr. Fletcher remained in Mexico for four years. In 1917 he married Beatrice Bend of New York City. They have no children.

In 1920 Mr. Fletcher resigned the ambassadorship. For a little more than a year he practiced law and then was called into service again, this time as undersecretary of state in the Harding administration.

In 1922 he was appointed ambassador to Belgium. After two years there he became ambassador to Italy, where he remained until 1929. A year later President Hoover, by repeated persuasion, got him to accept the chairmanship of the United States tarif commission. He held this post until 1931.

800,000 EXPECTED AT 800 CONVENTIONS HERE DURING YEAR

Mayor Edward J. Kelly's "Keep Chicago Ahead" campaign and the World's Fair are making Chicago the convention city of the country during 1934, it was declared yesterday by William J. Hennessy, manager of the bureau of conventions of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Mr. Hennessy estimated that between 800 and 1,000 conventions, attended by at least 800,000 delegates, will be held in the city this year. Basing his figures on hotel reservations and schedules, and on last year's experience, he declared that these visitors will spend at least $33,920,000 for transportation, hotels, meals, entertainment and tips.

"The Fair is drawing many conventions," said Mr. Hennessy. "Credit for the large convention bookings belongs to Mayor Kelly and the splendid campaign he originated to tell the world of the natural attractions of Chicago and of the Fair."

Several national committeewomen brought along their husbands, who sit in hotel rooms or lobbies while their wives attend high G. O. P. councils. One of the husbands is Charles S. Conklin of Hackensack, N. J., whose wife is Edna B. Conklin, committeewoman from New Jersey. Murray Boocock, of Keswick, Va., whose wife is attending her first national committee meeting, also came along.

As the balloting for national chairman progressed yesterday, Committeeman Frank L. Smith of Illinois dashed out of the meeting room in the Palmer house and through the crowded corridor in search of Mrs. Bertha Baur, Illinois committeewoman. Later Mrs. Baur, wearing a navy blue dress, generously touched with red, and a black rough straw hat decorated with a small bunch of white flowers, breathlessly entered the room. She said she had left the meeting to get a glass of milk, as lunch was overdue, and had returned in time to record her vote.

One committeeman who refused to permit use of his name was asked how the meeting was faring. He said: "The trouble is that there are so many women in it. They're too darned idealistic."

In contrast with the committeemen, who on leaving the meeting room usually stopped to answer with affability questions of newspapermen, most of the committeewomen had such important business on hand that they couldn't wait to answer questions. Miss Martha McClure of Iowa, tall and fleet of foot, pursued down a corridor and into an elevator, turned a grim face and with a wave of dismissal declared: "I haven't a moment for you. I'm far too busy to be interviewed."

Possessor of the title of best dressed man at all national Republican gatherings is Ralph E. Williams, Oregon national committeeman since 1908, senior vice chairman of the committee. A big, easy-going man, he appeared spruce in his Palm Beach suit.

George Getz of Chicago, national treasurer of the party, darted in and out of the meeting room, stopping frequently to inform newspapermen of the proceedings. His unruly gray hair, his horn rimmed glasses far down on his nose, the pockets of his plain blue business suit stuffed with papers, an old-fashioned stiff collar over a pin striped shirt, he was a contrast to many of the fastidiously clad committeemen.

BANDIT IS WOUNDED.

Rockford, Ill., June 6.—[Special.]—A bandit identified as George Welte, 44, Rockford, was shot and wounded today as he fled from a downtown café after staging a holdup which netted him $20.

VARE DISPLACED AS G. O. P. LEADER IN PHILADELPHIA

Revolt of Followers Ends 30 Year Rule.

Philadelphia, June 6.—(AP)—Control of the Republican organization of Philadelphia today passed from the last of the Vares.

George, Ed, and Bill in the last thirty years held tight grip on part or all of the organization, but today Bill—William S. Vare—the last of the three brothers, was eliminated as the head of the party. No new leader was named in his place.

His elimination was accomplished by former followers. It came with the election of Edwin R. Cox as chairman of the city committee after James M. Haslett, Vare candidate for reëlection, saw he was beaten and withdrew. Cox's election was made unanimous.

Loses Complimentary Title.

Not only was his candidate eliminated, but Vare's name as honorary chairman vanished, because, in the annual reorganization of the committee, his name was not mentioned for the complimentary title.

Although the action came with more or less suddenness, there has been unrest in the organization, and dissatisfaction with Vare for some time. This was shown in the election of last November when the party lost two city offices to a combination of Independent Republicans and Democrats.

Vare in his Atlantic City summer home had nothing to say when he heard the news. He still is a Pennsylvania member of the Republican National committee. In the election of Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania to the national chairmanship at Chicago today, Vare's son-in-law, John J. Shaw, was his proxy.

Vares Succeed Penrose.

One of the Vare brothers has been the head of the party in Philadelphia since the death of Senator Boies Penrose 13 years ago. The Vares and Penrose were bitter political foes. Prior to Penrose's death, George Vare controlled part of South Philadelphia. When he died this control fell to his brother, State Senator Edwin H. Vare. Ed became the undisputed city leader after the passing of Penrose who had fought every move of the brothers to gain city-wide control or a foothold in the state organization.

Bill Vare succeeded to the leadership with the death of brother Ed eleven years ago. About four years ago Bill suffered a serious illness and has not been in the best of health since.

The election of Cox, who is president of city council and a vice president of the Atlantic Refining company, was forecast last night when more than thirty of the fifty ward leaders agreed to support him for the chairmanship. Cox was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor at the recent primary. Vare was not for him.

BELGIAN GOVERNMENT QUITS AFTER ADVERSE VOTES BY DEPUTIES

BRUSSELS, June 6.—(AP)—The Belgian government, headed by Premier Count Charles de Broqueville, resigned today following two adverse votes in the chamber of deputies. Count de Broqueville and his ministers had been in office since Dec. 17, 1932.

Paul Hymans, minister of foreign affairs, quit the disarmament conference in Geneva last week, announcing that he, like Sir John Simon, the British foreign secretary, was disappointed by the procedure there.

Long Beach Amusement Pier Swept by Flames

Long Beach, Cal., June 6.—(AP)—Fire destroyed the outer end of the Silver Spray amusement pier tonight and for a time threatened the entire structure and nearby beach concessions. Before firemen could muster their full forces to check the flames two dance halls located on the end of the pier were destroyed. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

Police to Meet N. Y. Girl Running Away to See Fair

The Chicago police were asked last night by authorities in New York to meet a New York Central train at 7:40 a. m. today and take into custody Miss Muriel Fuller, 18 years old, 741 East 3d street, New York. According to the message the girl ran away from home to attend the World's Fair.

FIGHT IN VAIN TO SAVE LIFE OF DROWNED BABY

Inhalator squads from the River Forest fire and police departments battled for three hours yesterday, but without success, to save the life of John Edward Long Jr., 2½ years old, who had been found, apparently drowned, in the Des Plaines river near North avenue. Dr. Charles Weigle, River Forest physician, who aided the squads, said that at times there was a feeble flicker in the child's heart, and the fight was given up only when this ceased.

The child, who was the son of John Edward Long Sr., 1425 Keystone avenue, River Forest, a Chicago advertising executive, left his home on a tricycle shortly before noon. He was reported missing soon afterward and a search was started by the police.

Later Mr. Long enlisted the aid of Raymond Gaynor, a supervisor of the forest preserves, who added his force of 25 men to the searchers. Two of these workmen discovered the tricycle near the river and a little later lifted the body from the stream. The fight to save the child was waged in the home of John Thompson at 1443 Thatcher avenue, River Forest, with Fire Chief John Matthews and Chief of Police Carl Soderlin commanding the inhalator squads. It is believed that the boy slipped down a steep bank into the river.

Political Dynamite Feared by Democrats.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—Little expectation of an investigation of the radio commission scandal is entertained on either the Republican or Democratic side of the senate chamber, it was learned today.

Cloakroom gossip had it that the resolution introduced by Senator L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] demanding an investigation of the political manipulation of the commission, which was exposed in a series of Washington dispatches to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, has been pigeonholed in the interstate commerce committee.

Senator Dickinson said he purposes to keep his demand for an investigation before the senate and to press for its consideration by the committee, but other senators expressed the opinion that there is not a Chinaman's chance that the Democratic majority will permit action upon the proposal.

Aversion Easily Understood.

The Democratic aversion for this particular investigation is well understood. An inquiry by a committee with power to summon persons and papers would touch off more political dynamite than any exposure of Washington scandals for a decade or more. Not only many of the biggest men in the Democratic party but leading officials of the Roosevelt administration and the White House itself are involved in the manipulation of radio commission decisions and the awarding of radio licenses on a political patronage basis.

Another demand for an investigation was flung into the senate today, this time from the Democratic side. Senator Huey Long of Louisiana offered a resolution proposing the appointment of a committee of five senators to investigate the affair of the New Orleans and Shreveport broadcasting stations, which is one of the outstanding features of the radio commission scandal. Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.] blocked consideration of the resolution today and it went over until tomorrow under the rule.

White House Wins Reversal.

The New Orleans-Shreveport affair was narrated in THE TRIBUNE dispatches which Senator Dickinson incorporated in his speech in the senate yesterday in support of his resolution. The New Orleans broadcasting station, owned by Loyola university, which was dividing time with the Shreveport station, applied for full time. The commission decided three to two in favor of New Orleans, which would have put Shreveport off the air. Postmaster General Farley was reputed to have influenced this decision through Herbert L. Pettey, the commission's secretary, who was formerly the radio arrangements officer for the Democratic national committee.

Thereupon, at the instance of Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the White House intervened to get the decision reversed. Louis Howe, the President's secretary, summoned Col. Thad Brown, acting chairman of the commission, and made known the desire of the White House that the action be rescinded. Col. Brown changed his vote and the decision was reversed, leaving New Orleans and Shreveport dividing time. It is understood that Col. Brown, one of the two Republican members of the commission, is soon to be rewarded by the White House with an appointment to the commission controling all communications, which is created by the bill recently passed by both houses.

Charges Monopoly.

Representative Louis T. McFadden [Rep., Pa.] told the house "broadcasting in the United States is rapidly becoming a monopoly" of the National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting system.

"They have now under contract 80 per cent of all the available stations and their time," he added. "The Columbia Broadcasting system is very responsive to suggestions from the other important system, the National Broadcasting company. These two outfits dominate the chain systems.

"It is a situation that looks to me —and any one who will study it must believe likewise, for he cannot come to any other conclusion—that the purpose is to have a centralized system completely under the control of one dominating influence—and that the National Broadcasting company, which is owned, operated, and controled by the Radio Corporation of America. It would seem from the method and manner in which the commission has been operating, as though it were encouraging doing away with the small stations, in accordance with the aim of the National Broadcasting company.

"The commission, in their dealings with the small independent stations, particularly those stations not now under contract with NBC or Columbia, are carrying on a policy of absolute intimidation. They do not dare say that their souls are their own, lest the license be taken away from them. These facilities are then transferred to other companies. It is a situation which confronts the independent broadcaster in the United States today."

I. C. SURPRISES STATE BOARD WITH PLEA TO RUN 6 MORE TRAINS

Springfield, Ill., June 6.—(AP)—Quite surprised, the Illinois commerce commission today asked if it wasn't a mistake when the Illinois Central railroad requested immediate permission to operate six more trains.

For many months the railroads have filed petitions to discontinue trains, making no effort to expend service during the depression.

But Joseph Wright of Chicago, attorney for the Illinois Central assured the commissioners that his road wants to make an experiment by adding trains between Chicago and Freeport, Chicago and Dubuque, and Carbondale and St. Louis.

Business has been increasing, Wright said, and it might be even better if more trains are operated. He estimated that employment would be given nearly fifty men.

Quezon Wins Majorities in Both Philippine Houses

MANILA, P. I., June 6.—Manuel Quezon's forces staged a tremendous last-minute rally in the insular elections yesterday, and they are now assured of working majorities in both branches of the legislature.

OLD ORDER DEAD, ASSERTS GROTON HEAD MASTER

Groton, Mass., June 6.—[Special.]—On the eve of the end of his fiftieth year as the founder and head master of Groton school, Dr. Endicott Peabody, bulwark of conservatism, cheerfully declared today that "the old régime is finished and dead," swallowed up in the New Deal of one of his former students, Franklin D. Roosevelt, now President of the United States.

One might have thought that Dr. Peabody, who is 77 years old, would have spoken wistfully of the vanishing of the period, to which he made valuable contributions.

Instead he was quite cheerful about it, declaring that "a lot of people enjoyed the passing régime, but a lot of people didn't. It worked unjustified hardship on many who didn't deserve it," he said.

While asserting that the President was not an unusual student and the "just a nice boy," Dr. Peabody declared that those who declared him a radical were foolish and far from the mark. "When a man goes into public life," he said, "even his friends, as well as every one else, are prone to distrust him and seem free to criticize him.

"Frank Roosevelt is interested in the development of national character and of the American race, as was Theodore Roosevelt before him, who was criticized as a radical even more bitterly than the criticism now directed at Franklin. He knows that the old régime was often selfish and he wishes to replace it by one that works for the good of all, and constantly has at heart the welfare of the greatest number."

ONCE NOTORIOUS HOODLUM HELD IN 1918 ESCAPE

Chris Nolan, who was a noted Chicago hoodlum back in the comparatively crimeless days before the war, was being held at the detective bureau last night for questioning in connection with an escape he made from the bridewell in 1918.

Nolan was arrested Tuesday night on a charge of disorderly conduct. He gave his age as 59 and said he lived at 212 North Clark street. He appeared indignant over his arrest, but quieted down when his record was disclosed through finger prints.

Police found that not only is he wanted for the bridewell escape, but for walking out of a court while he was being tried on robbery charges and for breaking out of the St. Paul, Minn., jail. He was once noted as one of the first bandits to employ an automobile for a "getaway."

CUT VACATIONS OF 500 SCHOOL BOARD WORKERS

The board of education today will order the vacations of 500 civil service employés reduced from three weeks to two weeks, a move which is expected to save the school system $26,000 annually, James B. McCahey, president of the board, said yesterday. Employés who have been in the Chicago schools for 15 years have benefited under a board rule extending the usual two week vacation period allowed civil service workers and will be affected by the action. "It is necessary, in the interest of economy, to keep vacations within the period prescribed by the civil service rules," Mr. McCahey said. "The order will become effective immediately."

Seized on Check Charges When Recognized at Fair

Daniel Ashkin, 27 years old, of Cleveland, O., was arrested at the World's Fair last night by Sergt. Matthew Kerr of the Fair police force on several charges of passing worthless checks. He had been recognized in the Streets of Paris by two of the complainants, Mrs. W. H. Botham, owner of a restaurant at 161 North Dearborn street, and O. R. Smeltekopf of the Steuben club. Another of the alleged victims was Dan Russo, band leader.

A COPPER LETS PIGEON DO HIS DETECTIVE WORK

A cloth sack in which five racing pigeons were struggling was found late yesterday afternoon in the rear of 3043 Diversey avenue and was turned over to Sergt. William Rohan at the Shakespeare avenue police station.

"Of course," said the sergeant, eying the birds, "we could turn them loose and they would fly home. But the matter would then still be a mystery. The police records would be incomplete without the name of the owner or any statement to indicate whether the pigeons were stolen or merely left in the sack by the owner."

He then decided to let one of the pigeons do the detective work for him. Writing a note stating that the other four were at the station, he tied the paper on the leg of the one chosen as messenger and turned it loose. Twenty minutes later John Schmidt, 1618 Cortland street, called to announce that the pigeons were his and that they had been stolen from his lofts.

2 DROWNED NEAR DUBUQUE.

Dubuque, Ia., June 6.—[Special.]—Two boys, John Drosopoulos, 14, and Buddy Rice, 11, were drowned in the Wisconsin river at Boscobel last night. The bodies were recovered within ten minutes but efforts to revive them proved futile.

SULTAN TO GET 21 GUN SALUTE AT FAIR TODAY

Reception Arranged for Ruler of Johore.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Sir Ibrahim, the sultan of Johore, will visit A Century of Progress Exposition this morning, to be given a 21 gun salute and a military reception as the first reigning magistrate to visit the 1934 Fair. Only three times was such a reception staged during the 1933 Exposition, one for President Roosevelt, one for former President Hoover, and a third for an Indian maharajah.

The sultan, who rules one of the Malay states as an independent monarch, will arrive on the Santa Fe Chief at 9:45 o'clock. He comes from California, where he has been on a vacation for several weeks. U. Grant Smith, chief of protocol of the Fair, will head the official reception party at the station. Also greeting the sultan will be Frank Buck, wild animal hunter, who is a personal friend of the ruler.

Will Have Mounted Escort.

The party will be met at Michigan avenue and Seventh street by the Black Horse troop, which will serve as official escort. In the Court of Honor at 14th street the sultan will review a detachment from Camp F. D. Roosevelt at the Fair, following which President Rufus C. Dawes will represent the Fair at an official reception.

A tour of the grounds in official cars will follow the reception. The sultan, whose official address is Istana, Passar, Plangle, Johore, Babru, via Singapore, is coming to Chicago solely to visit the Exposition.

Chilly weather held down attendance at the Fair yesterday, when a total of 34,551 paid admissions were recorded at midnight.

Children's Day Today.

Attendance is expected to boom again today when the Exposition holds the second children's day, with admissions cut to 5 cents for children under 12 years of age. Despite the attendance figures recorded this week officials were optimistic of final tabulations. A total attendance of 13,000,000, it is said, will see the Fair able to pay off all obligations. An average daily attendance of approximately 81,000 admissions will reach this total. To date the average is over 101,000. The average daily attendance at the 1933 Fair, with the big attendance days falling during the latter half of the summer, was about 131,000, with a total for the summer of 22,565,859 admissions, including 245,403 tickets sold but not used.

Threatens to Close Paris.

John McMahon, vice president and general manager of Paris, refused to withdraw a show to which Nathaniel Owings, chief of concessions, objected, and threatened to close the Streets of Paris for the rest of the Fair unless Owings adopted a more reasonable attitude.

"The management of Paris," he said, "is being harassed constantly by officials of the Fair. I do not know why this concession is being picked out to bear all of the criticism, but I do know that we will close the concession entirely if we are forced to shut down shows that we know are approved by the majority of the public."

Owings later rescinded his ban against the show in question, called the Diving Venus, when he was assured that the girl wore a loin cloth and a breast covering. He had not seen the show, he said, relying on the reports of investigators. McMahon continued presentation of the show last night.

First Fan Dance Tonight.

Old Mexico tonight will present the first fan dance of the 1934 Exposition with Fair officials threatening closing action and concessionnaires watching to see just how much would be permitted.

The Hiram Walker distillery exhibit at the Fair was ordered opened today after being closed down for 24 hours. An agreement was reached whereby miniature bottles of whisky may be sold at tables when requested by patrons. The bottles cannot be sold over bars, nor can cigaret girls peddle them around the café floor. The exhibit closed because the sample bottles were sold over bars for which beer contracts had been signed.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Homer S. Cummings, attorney general of the United States, will be greeted with a nineteen gun salute on his arrival at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the Court of Honor. Mr. Cummings will be welcomed by Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Exposition, and Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager, at a reception in the Administration building. He will inspect the Federal building, accompanied by Edward F. Dunne, United States commissioner to the Fair, and later will be guest of honor at a luncheon in the trustees' room in the Administration building.

Agnes Ayres, former star of silent pictures, who was best known for the many rôles she played opposite Rudolph Valentino, will be the guest of Alfons de Rijdt, president of the Mexican village, this evening. The village will be open to the public Saturday.

Students from six one room schools in Cook county, winners in each division in the county, will compete today in the Illinois Host house for choral honors. Approximately 150 pupils, ranging in age from 9 to 15, will enter the competition.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Todd of New York arrived in Chicago yesterday and visited the Fair. Mr. Todd is president of Todd-Robertson-Todd Engineering corporation, builders and managers of Rockefeller center. They visited the Rockefeller center exhibit in the Hall of Social Science.

Attendance of Fair visitors at the Ford exhibit has been so far above expectations that the staf has been almost doubled, increasing from 750 to 1,268, officials of the exhibit announced yesterday. Starting today, with the appearance of the 70 piece Chicago Women's Symphony orchestra, to be followed on June 16 by the Detroit Symphony of the same number of pieces, the Ford pay roll at the Fair will reach 1,342, the largest of any building at the Fair. Officials estimated the attendance at the exhibit so far has exceeded 850,000.

A party of 42 executives of International Harvester company visited the Fair last night and after a tour of the grounds dined on the terrace of the Wilson Packing Company building on Northerly island.

Governor of Hawaii Pays Surprise Visit to Fair

Gov. Joseph B. Poindexter of the Hawaiian islands visited the World's Fair yesterday. He arrived unexpectedly, catching the division of protocol so much by surprise that there was no time to summon troops to greet the executive with a 19 gun salute. Gov. Poindexter was not looking for the honor, he said, and after greeting President Rufus C. Dawes he visited the Hawaiian village and made a tour of the grounds.

HARRIMAN PUTS BLAME ON OTHER BANK OFFICIALS

Claims They Engineered False Entries.

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Joseph W. Harriman, the former president of the defunct Harriman National Bank and Trust company, took the witness stand in his own defense in the federal court today and testified that when he signed duplicate tickets covering fourteen false entries in the books of the institution he was not told that the entries were false.

He signed the duplicates, he said, in the office of Bertram L. Kraus, attorney for the bank, after he had been called there by telephone. A group of officers, including Albert Murray Austin, the executive vice president of the bank, and a co-defendant in the present case, were gathered in the office.

"Mr. Kraus," said Harriman, "told me, 'Well, the national bank examiner wants some tickets that have been lost or misplaced. Some of the officers have revealed that if you sign these duplicates the examiner will be satisfied,' I said. 'All right,' and I signed them."

Chief Basis of Indictments.

These tickets, representing false entries of $1,713,080, are the basis of fourteen of the seventeen counts of the indictment against Harriman and Austin.

"Were you told," asked defense counsel, "that these tickets were for false entries?"

"I was not," Harriman quietly replied.

Describes Early Life.

From the outset the defense counsel have tried in various ways to place on the record Harriman's story of those days when he was fighting to save the Harriman National from going on the rocks, the decision to let him tell his own story was apparently arrived at over night.

In a clear voice and without hesitation, Harriman described his early life in Wall street and his rise in the banking field.

After heading the Night and Day bank for a number of years he founded the Harriman National bank in 1911.

"I was president," he continued, "and in 1919 we went on and established the trust division. Then came the depression of 1920, which I guess every one remembers. The Guaranty Trust company was in trouble at that time.

Says He Offered Aid.

"The Harriman National Bank and Trust company was not a member of the Clearing House association and no call could be made upon us, but I called Mr. Sabin—Mr. Charles Sabin—on the telephone and offered him $500,000 because the Guaranty Trust was in trouble."

Q.—Mr. Harriman, tell us about the stock selling campaign you started in 1929. A.—The plan we had in mind was that of increasing our friends among the stockholders. I discussed it with officers and many depositors and they agreed with me that the stock campaign would be feasible.

Q.—What was the idea behind this campaign? A.—The plan was to accumulate the stock and redistribute it in one, two, and three share lots to keep it from being used as a speculative football and as margin in stock brokerage houses.

After telling of the formation of a syndicate to buy Harriman National stock, by twenty-six officers of the bank, Harriman addressed over the objection of the prosecution that his "entire personal fortune was pledged to support the bank and its stock."

Denies Ordering False Entries.

Q.—Now, Mr. Harriman, it has been testified in this case that false entries totaling $320,000 were made in the books of the bank on Dec. 14, 1931. Did you give instructions to any one regarding the making of these entries? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you know anything about them? A.—I did not.

Q.—It is also testified that false entries of $1,393,080 were made in the books on April 25, 1932, and that you gave the instructions. Did you ever instruct any officer or any employe to make such entries? A.—Never.

Q.—Did you instruct any officer as to how to lay out books of the bank or of the Harriman Securities corporation? A.—I gave no details. I looked for results. I had vice presidents to look after the details.

Q.—Did you have any contact with the books or the system of operation? A.—No. I did not.

Friendly with Examiner.

Q.—In 1929, 1930, 1931, and 1932, when $6,000,000 in bank stock was bought and sold through the bond department, did you ever discuss it with Carl C. Francis, national bank examiner? A.—Many times. Mr. Francis had a very delightful habit of dropping into my room in the bank and smoking and discussing the banking situation. Finally we would get around to the bank itself.

Q.—Did you discuss the buying and selling of bank stock through the bond department? A.—I did. Not only through the examination period, but on other occasions.

Q.—Did he have any objections to the practice? A.—He did not.

Harriman is on trial with his former chief subordinate, Albert M. Austin, one time executive vice president of the bank, on charges of falsifying the records of the institution and misapplying its funds.

WIFE OF PRESIDENT ARRANGES TO VISIT THE FAIR ON JULY 9

Fair officials yesterday were informed from Washington that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President, will be in Chicago July 9, and, if possible, will visit the Fair. At her request, no special day or program will be arranged. Of particular interest to Mrs. Roosevelt is the Art Institute, and, according to friends, she requested that she be allowed sufficient time for a visit to the institute and the exposition. The primary purpose of the Chicago visit, according to dispatches, is for the presentation of a commercial broadcast. Mrs. Roosevelt said that she would give all she receives for the broadcast to charity.

3 CABINET AIDS LISTEN IN HOUSE PROPAGANDA QUIZ

Nazi Spread in U. S. Is Day's Study.

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(AP)—Representatives of the American state, postoffice, and labor departments were chosen today to sit in on a special house committee's investigation of "un-American" propaganda activities.

The three men who sat in on the committee's hearings declined to give their names or say what they expected the hearings to develop, but committee members expressed the belief that deportation proceedings might be contemplated against some of the persons who testified.

At the same time it was disclosed that the justice department had obtained a complete transcript of all testimony taken by the committee in executive sessions to determine whether there should be any criminal prosecution.

Hear of Nazi Teachings.

The committee today heard a story of the nation-wide distribution of Nazi "propaganda"—some of it allegedly brought into the United States without customs inspection.

Evidence was presented to show that German consuls had encouraged organization of pro-German clubs to which the "propaganda" was sent.

Fritz Gissibl, who said he was the first to raise the Hitler flag in the United States, was the witness.

He said he was a prime organizer of the Friends of New Germany, and that the organization had chapters in 17 American cities, and "five more will be organized within ten days."

Gissibl denied any connection between his organization and the German government, but said that last February he made a trip to Germany and visited E. W. Bohle, a leader of the Nazi party, and Rudolph Hesse, a Hitler cabinet member.

Calls France a Menace.

There was inserted in the record a message from the chief of the Nazi propaganda division in Hamburg to Hans Spanknoebel, then head of the Friends of New Germany.

It referred to a pamphlet called "France—A Menace to Germany's Safety," and continued:

"A shipment of these pamphlets is being sent to our confidential agent, Mr. O. Simon, on board of the Albert Ballin tomorrow. Maybe it is again possible to print another edition of the pamphlet there.

"Being convinced that we will succeed in our common efforts to win our fellow countrymen in the United Sattes for the ideology of national socialism and to create understanding and recognition for the 'third reich' among the American citizens, I greet you and sign with the motto of our battle—'Versailles Must Fall.'"

Wilhelm Tannenbaum, German consul at Chicago, was quoted in a letter as having suggested that Gissibl have Germans who were going to the World's Fair contact the German consulate for the purpose of making speeches to local pro-German groups.

MOTHER AGAIN

QUEEN ASTRID.

[Associated Press Photo.]

BRUSSELS, June 6.—(AP)—Queen Astrid of the Belgians gave birth tonight to a son, the third child in the royal family of King Leopold. The child was born at 11:35 p. m. in the royal castle at Laeken. Both mother and child were reported well.

A salvo of 101 guns will announce the event to the citizens of Brussels at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning, when a proclamation will be issued by Burgomaster Max of Brussels.

An informal christening, which is customary within twenty-four hours of birth, will be performed privately by a court chaplain tomorrow. The formal christening will be at the royal palace in Brussels a month later.

It is understood the baby will be named Albert for the late king, father of Leopold, who fell to his death while mountain climbing.

King Leopold and the queen, a member of the Swedish royal family, were married in 1926. They have two other children, Josephine Charlotte, born in 1927, and Baudoin, born in 1930.

WOOED 12 YEARS, MODEL TESTIFIES IN "JILTING" SUIT

The story that she was wooed twelve years by Sidney Phillipson, 666 Lake Shore drive, given ten fur coats, three engagement rings, and a wrist watch, as well as an outfit of clothing for her honeymoon, was told from the witness stand yesterday by Miss Margaret Molyneaux, former artist's model.

Miss Molyneaux, who lives at the Plaza hotel, North avenue and Clark street, is suing Phillipson for $500,000 for breach of promise to marry, charging that he jilted her a year ago.

Phillipson, however, maintained that they were just "good friends." He denied buying the fur coats and rings, but said he had given her a wrist watch as a present. He also denied her story that he had paid her expenses of $300 a month at various hotels and apartments throughout the city.

When asked how he first met the girl, Phillipson said:

"I was out buying a newspaper one night, and saw her coming along the street. I said, 'Hello, baby,' and the acquaintance started."

2 WEEKS' BRIDE ADMITS SLAYING OF DETECTIVE

Officer's Body Found in Colorado Field.

Denver, Colo., June 6.—[Special.]—Mrs. Bell Newton, 30, a bride of two weeks, confessed tonight to the slaying Monday of J. S. Turner, Denver city detective, on a lonely road sixteen miles north of here.

She was arrested tonight shortly after Turner's body, a bullet hole through the right arm and head, was discovered in an open field.

Tells of Shooting.

She told police she shot Turner when he bit her severely after avowing his intention to "mark" her so that any one who saw her would know she was "his."

They had been quarreling, she said, over her marriage. She said she had been going with Turner about five years.

Turner's abandoned car was found this afternoon after a two day search. A posse of Denver police and farmers immediately was organized to scour the vicinity and Turner's body was found a mile and a quarter away.

Reconstructs Slaying.

Mrs. Newton gave the following reconstruction of the slaying in her confession:

Turner picked her up on a Denver street Monday afternoon and they drove out to the country. He had a half gallon of whisky and they had several drinks. After parking, they got into the quarrel over her marriage. Then he bit her.

She was enraged, she said, and, reaching for his gun, which lay beside her in the seat, pointed it at him and said, "You'll pay for that."

"You haven't got the nerve to shoot me," he said, and got out of the car.

She pulled the trigger. The bullet pierced his arm, and he whirled and started toward her.

Fires Second Time.

She pulled the trigger again, and he staggered and fell to the ground, with a bullet through his brain.

Dragging the body several feet from the car, she placed the jug of liquor near his head, his straw hat near his outstretched hand, and his coat, which he had removed, over his back.

She threw the gun into a river while driving back to Denver. Monday night she returned to the scene of the slaying to hide the body. She ran out of gas when a mile and a quarter from her destination and went to a farmhouse and had the farmer drive her into Denver.

After the finding of Turner's body, the farmer supplied police with a description of the woman and authorities took her into custody.

Her husband, F. H. Newton, also is under arrest for investigation.

Stench Bomb Hurled Into Loop 24 Hour Barber Shop

An unidentified man early today tossed a stench bomb into the barber shop of Philip Balata, 163 North Clark street. Balata, another barber, a porter, and one customer were all driven to the street. The proprietor said he knew no reason for the attack, as he was charging the standard prices for hair cuts and shaves. There might, he added, be some dissatisfaction among barbers' organizations because he kept open twenty-four hours a day.

MUNICH MOB STOPS FILM SHOWING HOLY YEAR CEREMONIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH, June 6.—A mob last night forced suspension of the showing here of a film depicting religious events of the past holy year. The theater owners called riot squads to disperse the demonstrators.

Nazi headquarters, as well as police, said they have no objections to the film. Nevertheless, uniformed men marched through the streets of Munich and tore off posters announcing the film, and the incident, which infuriated Munich's Catholics, was not mentioned in the press.

The movie showed the Nuremberg Catholic congress, the pilgrimage to the holy coat without a seam at Trier and the burial of a bishop in Berlin. It was beautified by choral music. In Hessen today authorities ordered the schools to omit the Old Testament from their curriculum and to teach only the New Testament.

FARMER, 60 SLAYS SELF.

LAEMMLE GIVES HIS VIEWS ON CLEAN MOVIES

Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures, Inc., made a reply when he arrived in Chicago yesterday to the pronouncement of the Catholic church against suggestive motion pictures. In his statement he asserted that he has "always favored clean pictures," and added that he believed that "the situation is being painted blacker than it really is."

"I am a family man," he said, "and I have brought up my children in a clean, wholesome way. My grandchildren are being brought up the same way. When they go to the movies I want them to have wholesome entertainment. It has ever been my endeavor to produce pictures that supply such entertainment."

Pledge of unanimous support of the Legion of Decency campaign for clean films launched Monday by Cardinal Mundelein was given by the St. Henry's Parent-Teachers' association yesterday. This association, affiliated with St. Henry's school, Devon and Hoyne avenues, adopted a resolution of support during its annual spring luncheon at the Edgewater Golf club.

The resolution was made public by Mrs. Joseph J. Duffy, president of the St. Henry association.

EUROPEAN RIVALS LAUNCH RACE TO WIN OVER HITLER

Britain and Italy Fight Franco-Russian Move.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, June 6.—The disarmament conference tonight developed into a race between two groups of powers to get Germany back to Geneva.

While Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, who made a significantly conciliatory speech before the steering committee of the conference this afternoon, was revealing to the French press the details of diplomatic negotiations he has been carrying on with Chancellor Adolf Hitler's representatives, the news leaked out that Maxim Litvinov, soviet Russian foreign commissar, is going to Berlin Saturday to try to sign Germany up in the Franco-Russian security pact.

The Russian official spokesman, evidently annoyed because the report was given out, said his chief was only passing through Berlin on his way to Moscow and would not see any one there.

Britain Also Woos Hitler.

Reliable American quarters, however, expect that the Russian foreign commissar will see Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath, unless the premature publicity given the trip makes the encounter impossible. The Russians seem to be afraid of this tonight. Their strategy with the French is to line up the Germans at once in their security system by a combination of threats and bribes.

The Anglo-Italian group is trying to break this up and at the same time is preparing the way for the return of Germany to the disarmament conference to head off the Franco-Russian security move.

The American delegation apparently is taking an active part in these negotiations, although a rumor that Norman H. Davis, President Roosevelt's ambassador at large, is going to Berlin was denied by him tonight.

Bare Plan to Circle Japan.

The United States is directly involved in a plan which Litvinov is concocting, when his European security pact is safely tucked away, to organize a Pacific security pact which, with the United States, would encircle Japan just as Germany is to be encircled by the eastern and western Locarno pacts.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent is able to affirm categorically that the Russian plan for a Pacific Locarno exists, but its application still is in the hazy future. This would seem to explain Davis' enthusiasm for Litvinov's speech last week, but apparently he has changed sides since then and is now siding with the English.

The reason for this is, it is understood, that Rusisa will attempt to participate in the 1935 naval conference, where it will introduce its Pacific Locarno idea. Davis apparently does not want to encourage the Russians too much.

France Offers Concessions.

Barthou's speech today was read by many as meaning that France is prepared to make considerable concessions to Germany—even to the extent of legalizing German rearmament—if Germany will enter the Franco-Russian security system.

At the same time he made it clear that France is going ahead with its territorial security pacts and that Germany will have to take them or leave them. The eastern Locarno pacts already have been drafted, it is understood, and any negotiations in which Germany takes part will be purely formal.

Neutral circles are a bit skeptical about the result. It is not thought that Chancellor Hitler, unless he is very desperate indeed, would join the Franco-Russian pact, which virtually means he must put away all thoughts of territorial revision.

2 Boys Hurt in Ferris Wheel Fall Recovering

Two brothers who fell from a ferris wheel in a street carnival at Clark street and Devon avenue when the catch on a safety bar came undone, were recovering from their injuries last night at the Rogers Park Community hospital. The boys, Frederick Bartlett Jr., 14, and James, 16, are the sons of Frederick Bartlett, a street car motorman living at 1754 Wallen avenue. The accident occurred Tuesday night.

Freed on Charge of Killing Husband

MRS. MAYME O'BOYLE.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Bars Statement

Mrs. Mayme O'Boyle, 28 years old, was freed yesterday of the charge that she killed her husband, Frank O'Boyle Jr., a city fireman, when Judge Grover C. Niemeyer ruled that O'Boyle's statement, accusing his wife of the shooting, could not be introduced in evidence.

In his ruling the judge upheld Defense Attorneys James M. Burke and George Crane, who objected as soon as the state put Frank O'Boyle Sr. on the stand. The witness started to tell the story of finding his son shot and hearing him accuse his wife.

The defense's objections interrupted the testimony and the jury was excused. After hearing the evidence Judge Niemeyer ruled that Fireman O'Boyle's statement could not be used as a dying declaration, since O'Boyle, when he made it, had not been informed that he was dying, as the rule of law requires to make such evidence valid.

After the ruling Assistant State's Attorney Martin Ward told the court that the state had no other evidence. He said the only thing left was to nol pros the case. Judge Niemeyer allowed this, overruling the request of the defense for a directed verdict of not guilty.

O'Boyle was found fatally wounded in his home, 5457 South Elizabeth street, last March 26. At the inquest Mrs. O'Boyle testified that he had been accidentally shot when he and she grappled for a gun during a quarrel.

DOG FRIGHTENS ELEPHANT; NEAR PANIC IN CROWD

Lansing, Mich., June 6.—(AP)—An elephant frightened by a dog stampeded in a circus parade here today, and one man was injured before the animal was brought under control. A panic in the crowd watching the parade was narrowly averted.

John Morrison, 40, Cleveland, the elephant's keeper, suffered a fractured right arm when he was thrown from the animal's head to the pavement when it reared on its hind legs and bolted at the dog's barking.

Screaming women and children fled down the street while circus workers captured the animal and returned him to the parade line.

Roman Piskorz, 25 years old, last of the gang of four bandits who, led by John Scheck, robbed the National Bank of Niles Center a year ago and slew Harry Mueller, cashier, was brought back to Chicago yesterday from Enterprise, Ore., where he was captured.

Piskorz, according to Deputy Sheriff A. Chicko and Sergt. John Kelly, who were sent west to get him, brought back a wholesome respect for the manner in which law is enforced in Oregon.

He escaped from the jail there, but returned voluntarily, believing that he was much safer in a cell than being the target for outraged citizens.

Piskorz was first captured in Oregon when Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's police in Chicago telegraphed that he could be found in a Civilian Conservation corps camp.

Of his companions in the Niles Center holdup and slaying two are now in the penitentiary. Carl Grundhoefer is serving a life term and Frank Keglovitz a term of 14 years. Scheck, who was sentenced to life, did not serve his term. He was executed for the slaying of Policeman John Sevick.

JAPAN CITED BY ITALY TO EXPLAIN BIG NAVY MOVE

Rome Claims Nippon Aiding Greece and Turkey.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

ROME, June 6.—Italy's recent decision to spend one billion lire [currently about $86,600,000] on a warship replacement program during the next five years, and to utilize the 70,000 tons of battleship construction accorded her by the Washington treaty, was laid to Japan here today.

Japan, it is claimed, is building warships for Greece as well as Turkey. This is regarded by Italy as a menace to the balance of naval power in the Mediterranean.

Japan, according to information in Rome, is building 12 light cruisers for the Turkish government, and recently the Greek government, which is strongly allied with the Turks through the recent Balkan pact, asked Japanese shipbuilders and munitions makers at Osaka for terms for the construction of several light cruisers and submarines.

Italian Admiralty Concerned.

This naval armament of Greece and Turkey is said to be causing concern to the Italian admiralty because under the naval protocol of 1930 between Greece and Turkey, the two countries agreed to exchange information and to act in agreement with regard to their naval construction.

Greece has already ordered one light cruiser and 16 destroyers from Japan in addition to her inquiries about further construction, according to Italian revelation today, and alarm is expressed not only that Greece and Turkey are arming, but that Japan is furnishing this armament which indicates a clear case of Japanese interference in Mediterranean and European affairs.

Naval observers here see in this high concern the foundation for Italian claims at the 1935 naval conference. Coincidentally, it is reported here that Italy and France have been exchanging views about relative naval strengths and attitudes toward the next naval conference.

Launch Navy Talks Next Week.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 6.—With the war debt issue temporarily fading out of sight the British concentrated today on preparations for the preliminaries to next year's naval conference.

Norman H. Davis, President Roosevelt's ambassador at large, who will be the chief American representative, is due to arrive here June 16, accompanied by two technical experts from the navy department whose names are as yet unknown here. Davis will begin discussions immediately with Sir Bolton M. Eyres-Monsell, first lord of the admiralty, other members of the cabinet, and British admiralty experts.

The talks will fall into three categories, two of which will certainly be discussed by Davis and his aids. The first deals simply with the date and place of the conference.

The second category includes nonpolitical and technical questions such as the size of guns, tonnage, and ships without affecting the quotas, but these are also likely to be discussed.

The third, which affects Japan's demand for a greater quota, the far eastern question and other political considerations, may be left over to the full conference, although it is now believed that Japan is willing to discuss them in advance.

SWANSON SIGNS CONTRACTS FOR 24 NAVAL SHIPS

170 Million Program Starts at Once.

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—Contracts for the naval ship building program of 1934-'35, consisting of four cruisers, 14 destroyers, and six submarines, the ultimate cost of which will be about 170 million dollars, were signed today by Secretary Swanson.

Part of Funds Voted.

The new units to be built are:

1 heavy cruiser, 10,000 tons, mounting 8 inch guns to be laid down, under the terms of the London naval treaty, after January 1, 1935.

3 light cruisers, 10,000 tons each, mounting 6 inch guns.

2 heavy destroyers, 1,850 tons each.

6 submarines, about 1,300 tons each.

The four cruisers have been provided for initially in this year's annual appropriation bill, which carries $39,619,324 for hulls, machinery, and armament under the provision for increase of the navy. The cruisers will cost nearly 17 million dollars each or about 75 million for the group. The naval appropriation act carries what is estimated as needed for work on them before June 30, 1935.

Authorizes 102 New Ones.

The 20 smaller vessels were authorized by the Vinson-Trammell bill to build the navy to treaty strength. President Roosevelt has allocated 40 million dollars for their first year's construction out of prospective PWA funds. The 40 million is carried in the PWA bill now before the senate. As soon as the money has been appropriated Secretary Swanson will advertise for bids for the construction of the vessels. The advertising usually requires from 40 to 60 days, so that it is hoped, the secretary said today, that bids will be opened some time in August.

The 12 destroyers, 2 destroyer leaders, and 6 submarines form the first year program under the Vinson-Trammell act which authorized the replacement of 102 ships necessary to bring the navy up to full treaty strength by the end of 1939.

2 YOUTHS BURN TO DEATH IN INDIANA CRASH

Two youths were burned to death early yesterday when the truck in which they were riding crashed into another truck on State Highway No. 41, six miles west of Crown Point, Ind. The car was overturned by the impact of the crash and burst into flame when gasoline in the tank ignited. The victims were John W. Vandergrast, 20 years old, and Chester Pitus, 17, both of Lafayette. William Robbins, driver of the other truck, escaped unhurt. He was held for the inquest. Robbins said he was employed by the Inter-State Motor Freight System and the Wagner Trucking company of Chicago.

With no deaths reported in Chicago yesterday, the automobile death toll since Jan. 1 remained at 518.

Gives Him Vast Powers Change Rates.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—Unprecedented power over the nation's tarif structure was President Roosevelt's tonight for the signing of his name.

On his doorstep lay the administration reciprocal tarif bill, fully sanctioned and approved by the Democratic congress, and only the signature of the President was needed to make the measure law.

By a vote of 154 to 53 the house of representatives adopted en bloc the fourteen amendments written into the legislation during its long and stormy sojourn in the senate. No conference will be required and the action of the lower body wrote finis to the legislative chapter in the career of the New Deal tarif policy.

Given Wide Powers.

The executive chapter must yet be written by President Roosevelt in his exercise of authority to juggle tarif rates and duties in the negotiation of reciprocal trade agreements with foreign nations. No other chief executive ever enjoyed such complete discretionary power over the tarif schedules hitherto held sacrosanct to change by congress alone.

The President, the bill provides, may raise or lower tarifs on any commodity by as much as 50 per cent of the existing rate whenever he finds such adjustment advantageous in bargaining for beneficial tarif concessions on the part of foreign nations.

The bill envisions a system under which the President will expand American foreign trade through a series of mutually beneficial trade agreements with other nations. To this end he is given power to negotiate trade treaties without the traditional "advice and consent" of the senate.

Republicans Fight to End.

Republican high protectionists, to whom the legislation represented downright heresy, fought it to the bitter end in the house today, but were literally swamped by the huge Democratic majority. Administration spokesmen, on the other hand, urged the measure's passage with assurances that it was the most important segment of the Roosevelt recovery program yet to come before the congress.

Chairman Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.] explained to the house that of the 14 amendments adopted by the senate only three were of material consequence. One, he said, stipulates that the President, before negotiating a trade agreement, must find not only that foreign trade barriers are burdening American trade but that the purpose of expanding American trade must likewise be served by operation of the treaty.

The second senate amendment, Mr. Doughton pointed out, provides that the present reciprocal tarif law shall not apply to commodities covered by prospective trade agreements.

The third change made in the higher body stipulates that all persons likely to be affected by any proposed trade treaty be given opportunity to be heard before the treaty is consummated.

Controversy Over Third.

It was this third senate amendment which caused most controversy on the floor of the house. Representative Allan Treadway [Rep., Mass.], ranking member of the ways and means committee, characterized it as a "sop" to Democratic senators who had threatened to oppose the bill.

Representative Frank Crowther [Rep., N. Y.] assailed the bill on the ground that it violated the provisions of the Democratic campaign platform. In the midst of his speech Representative Harold Knutson [Rep., Minn.] arose.

"Does not the gentleman yet know," he asked, "that Democratic platforms are made to run on and not to stand on?"

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace's theory that American industries unable to compete in world markets should gradually be abolished was savagely assailed by Representative Daniel A. Reed [Rep., N. Y.].

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm By Bob Becker

Birds Ask Attention.

June 6, 1934.

In spite of all the work that there is on the experimental farm these days a few of the birds that are nesting on the land insist upon having some attention paid to them. For example, along the path which leads from Clarence Thurow's home past a row of tall spruce trees, a grackle has built its nest. The bird has located its summer home on a branch that sticks out close to the path so that you can't walk on this route to the barns without brushing fairly close to it.

Every time that Clarence goes down this path both grackles make a big fuss about the three eggs which are in this nest. More than two weeks ago I noticed that this row of spruces had been taken over by both grackles and sparrows. There were so many of these noisy birds around that any respectable songbird wouldn't be able to stand such a rowdy location.

If there ever was a bunch of satisfied looking steers the hundred odd head now in the north pasture surely can be described as such. I went over to see them yesterday and since rain has fallen on their broad pasture, giving the grass a good push upward and a deeper green color, I had the feeling that maybe the whole bunch would start to "purr" or something with contentment! At any rate the herd is doing splendidly and temporarily the worry about enough pasturage for these Herefords has been dispelled. Clarence still has 26 head in the feed lot after marketing a few light, cheaper grade steers.

Our so-called "spring pig" families continue to increase. According to the latest checkup there are 268 young grunters here on the farm, all farrowed since early spring. [Not one of these bears the AAA brand of the Agricultural Adjustment administration's corn and hog production control plan!]

The safflower which is going to be tested here on the farm has just been planted. This is one of the several uncommon plants being planted this season on the experimental farm. Safflower has been cultivated for many years in Egypt and India as an oil seed crop. The oil possesses drying qualities for the manufacture of paints, varnishes, etc., and the oil cake that can be made from the seed is valuable as stock feed.

The idea behind this test of safflower is this: It looks very much as if American farmers would find it profitable to raise safflower to furnish an additional source of drying oils in paint manufacture. Now America has to import about 50 per cent of the flaxseed needed to produce the required oil for the paint industry.

A few experiments in growing safflower have been conducted in the northwest grain belt during the last three years and results show that it is well adapted to that section. Now THE TRIBUNE experimental farm is making a test planting to see how it will grow in this section and also how easily it can be handled with the same farm machinery now employed for other small grains.

The raccoon that Rawlings has in the big cage with two live woodchucks is about the best wild animal "policeman" I have ever seen. So far this raccoon has been getting along very peacefully with the two woodchucks. No brawls, no animosity, no common ordinary fighting at all. However, the two woodchucks want to fight all the time. When they get started the raccoon wades into them, to send both "chucks" to their corners completely subdued.

STEEL INDUSTRY SNUBS JOHNSON'S PLAN; CRISIS NEAR

Reaffirms Opposition to Closed Shop.

mained until the institute's statement had been prepared and given to the press at 9 p. m.

Deny Closed Shop Charge.

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—The "rank and file" steel workers' committee denied tonight an allegation made in a statement issued by the Iron and Steel institute in New York that they were demanding a closed shop.

They reiterated a declaration made by them today to Secretary Perkins and stated in a petition of the union's president to President Roosevelt to the effect that "genuine collective bargaining" was their sole aim.

Union spokesmen challenged the employers' charge that they were demanding a closed shop. They said that "genuine collective bargaining" was their sole aim, as they had already set forth in a petition of the Amalgamated's president to President Roosevelt.

Denied Retail Licenses, Six Dealers Sue Berwyn

Six retail food and milk dealers in Berwyn filed suit in the Circuit court yesterday to compel the officials of that city to issue dealers' licenses to them. The suit alleges that because they do not buy their milk from certain distributors they are denied licenses to operate. Those who joined in the suit are Clark and Ralph Braden, brothers, who operate a store at 6902 Windsor avenue; D. L. Rosecrans and J. Martin, partners, 6520 Cermak road; Laura Szymanski, 2215 South Ridgeland avenue, and Mary Duffek, 6239 West 26th street.

STRIKER IS WOUNDED IN REMINGTON-RAND MELEE IN CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, O., June 6.—(AP)—One man was wounded today as strikers and workers of the Remington-Rand, Inc., plant in suburban Norwood clashed as the plant closed for the day.

The wounded man is Warren Maxwell, 26, who, hospital authorities said, told them he was a striker, and who, they added, asserted he had been shot by a besieged worker in the plant.

H. T. Anderson, manager of the plant where a strike has been in progress more than three weeks, reported he believed several arrests had been made. Police headquarters had no information.

AN EX-WIFE PUTS MR. M'NULTY ON THE RETIRED LIST

John McNulty, 48 years old, owned a tavern at 7134 South Racine avenue. Yesterday afternoon he was summoned before Judge Rudolph Desort in the Superior court by his former wife, Mrs. Mary McNulty, who obtained a divorce last September, and who charged that John was $2,000 arrears in alimony payments.

"Your honor, I haven't been able to make the regular alimony payments because business is poor," McNulty explained.

"You're a poor business man if you can't make a tavern pay," countered Mrs. McNulty.

John hotly retorted that if Mrs. McNulty thought she could operate the tavern and make it pay she could have it.

"All right, I'll take it," replied the woman.

Judge Desort ordered the tavern turned over to Mrs. McNulty and told her to pay her former husband $4 a week for support.

CAPTURE THIRD OF BOY KILLERS IN INDIANA HUNT

Seized When He Comes After Clothes.

Bloomington, Ind., June 6.—(AP)—State police tonight announced that Ed Coffin, 22, of Greenfield, Ind., had made an oral admission he killed Deputy Sherif Harold Amick of Scott county and shot Patrolman John Pfaffenberger of Seymour during a wild ride with two companions Monday night.

In the presence of Capt. Matt Leach and other state policemen, local patrolmen, and deputy sherifs, Coffin corroborated the stories told by his two accomplices, Robert Neal of Bloomington and Lacell (Toots) Long of Helmsburg, Ind., and also admitted that he kidnaped Ralph Shields, 18, near Underwood, Ind., Tuesday morning and forced him to drive to Bloomington.

Captured in Apartment.

Coffin was arrested late today in the two room apartment of Neal a few hours after Neal's 16 year old bride of three weeks and Coffin's sweetheart, Miss Pauline Meadows, 18, had made signed statements quoting him as admitting the shooting.

Neal was captured at Memphis, Ind., yesterday and Long was caught this morning at his home near Helmsburg. Neal is in jail in Bedford, while Long was taken tonight to Jeffersonville.

The mad dash of the three started after they had driven away from a filling station near Seymour without paying for gasoline. Authorities were notified and when police at Seymour blocked a road, one of the three opened fire, seriously wounding Officer John Pfaffenberger.

Careening away from the scene the bandits proceeded south through Scottsburg to a filling station near Underwood where their car was wrecked. Neal and Long said they fled after Coffin shot and fatally wounded Harold Amick, a deputy sherif.

Bloodhounds Used in Hunt.

The capture of the three followed a manhunt through the southern Indiana hill country in which state police, sherifs, city police and private citizens took part. Bloodhounds were used early Tuesday in an effort to pick up the trail.

Neal and Long told officers they were riding in the front seat of the car during the entire time. They both denied they were armed, officers said.

Long told Leach he was picked up by Neal and Coffin Monday evening near Helmsburg. He denied that either he or Neal knew any law violations were planned, Capt. Leach said.

Long was spraying trees at his farm home near Helmsburg when officers found him this morning. Officers attempted to warn him.

PUPIL OUSTED AS A CHEATER SUES SCHOOL

Suit for $25,000 damages against Miss Harris' School, a private institution at 2150 Lincoln Park West, was filed in the Circuit court yesterday in behalf of an 18 year old youth who was expelled from the school after being accused of cheating in a French examination.

The suit names the school, Miss Lillian I. Harris, its head, and Nelson L. Green and Miss Edna Amborn, tutors, as defendants.

It was filed in behalf of Grant Gardner, 462 Briar place, by his father, George M. Gardner, vice president of the Wells-Gardner Radio Manufacturing company, 816 North Kedzie avenue.

According to the bill, drawn up by Attorneys E. H. Williams and H. L. Brin, young Gardner was first accused of cheating on March 27 by Green and later he was expelled by Miss Harris.

The bill charges that because of the incident, the school has refused to give Grant certain credits due him, and for that reason he is unable to gain proper scholastic standing at any other institution.

ELECTROCUTED BY FENCE.

Sioux City, Ia., June 6.—[Special.]—Wind which accompanied rain here Wednesday was responsible for the electrocution of Ed Dagle, 40, a filling station attendant on the outskirts of the city. The gale blew a sign at the station against a fence. When Dagle attempted to rescue the sign he touched the fence which had been charged when a powerline was blown down.

RUSSIA EXILES ENTIRE VILLAGES FOR "CHISELING"

"Crime" of Population Is Selling Flax.

This is the fourth of a series of articles by The Tribune's correspondent in eastern Europe. He seeks to answer the question whether workers are better off under the planned economy of Russia than are workers of the United States.

BY DONALD DAY.

Should a delegation of American farmers decide to tour Russia to make a first hand investigation of the living conditions of the Russian farmers, the best route to enter that country is over the highway which Catherine the Great built from Leningrad to Riga. Traversing hilly country through Latvia and passing well cultivated farms of the Latvian farmers, the Americans would enter Estonia, and two hours later they would be halted by a double barrier of tangled barbed wire which marks the soviet frontier.

But before the soviet border guards in their green trimmed uniforms had inspected their passports and luggage and permitted them to continue their journey towards Pskov, whose golden domed cathedral is visible eight miles away, they would notice a remarkable sight. Just 100 yards to the left of the highway stands a typical Russian village. Jumbled together without order or plan are 200 log cabins and barns, and not a soul is to be seen. Not even a cat or a dog inhabits what five years ago was a hard working little community.

Fields Are Fallow.

The fields surrounding the village are lying fallow, and a small herd of scrub cattle is grazing while the youthful shepherd watches from a mound. Where have the inhabitants of this village gone? The border guards shrug their shoulders and the shepherd is afraid to speak, but he motions with his hand toward the north.

There are more than twenty such deserted villages lying along the Russian frontiers of Estonia and Latvia. At various times during the last five years their inhabitants, men, women, and children, have been arrested by the G. P. U. and transported far into the northern Murmansk, Archangel and Perm districts, where they live in concentration camps and are employed cutting timber. They were punished for smuggling their flax across the frontier and trading it for herring, sugar, iron bars, nails, and other articles which they could not obtain from the soviet coöperative stores.

Finnish Farmers Exiled.

In the neighborhood of Leningrad the villages, inhabited by Finns since Peter the Great laid the foundations of Russia's former capital, have changed. The Finns have also been removed to the north.

Some villages are repopulated with Finnish communists from Canada and the United States. Twelve thousand of them have migrated to Russia since 1929.

Should the American farmers ask permission to visit the black earth district of the Ukraine and the grain growing districts of northern Caucasia, which, according to Dictator Stalin, was 100 per cent collectivized two years ago and which has been suffering from famine ever since, they would be refused. The soviet foreign office, which carefully directs the tours of all visitors to Russia, does not permit visiting foreigners in these regions.

DECATUR VET, 86, IS CHOSEN STATE G. A. R. LEADER

W. N. Hodge Unopposed at Galesburg Meeting.

Galesburg, Ill., June 6.—[Special.]—W. N. Hodge, 86 years old, of Decatur, was elected state commander of the Grand Army of the Republic at the sixty-eighth annual convention here today. He was unopposed.

Other officers named without opposition were J. W. Lusk, Monmouth, senior vice commander, and C. W. Beam, Chicago, chaplain.

Sixty-five veterans rode in the parade down Main street today. Commander George A. Robinson of Belvidere issued orders that because of the heat none of the G. A. R. members was to march as many of them had wished.

The Women's Relief Corps elected the following: Department president, Mrs. Mary Murdoch, Chicago; senior vice president, Mrs Emma Louderman, Galesburg; junior vice president, Mrs. Alpharetta Hartway, Aurora; treasurer, Mrs. Zola M. Donahoe, Jacksonville; chaplain, Mrs. Mayme Boyd, Hillsboro; delegate-at-large, Mrs. Mae West, Chicago, and alternate-at-large, Mrs. Amanda Kent, Savannah.

Ladies of the G. A. R. were in the midst of their election when their national president, Sarah Ehrmann of Buffalo, arrived. The remainder of the election was postponed until tmorrow. Officers chosen today included Lura B. Drye, Monticello, department president; Mame Hoellen, Chicago, senior vice president; Emma Yates, Abingdon, junior vice president; and Frederica Moulton, Freeport, treasurer.

SALES ON POPPY DAY NET $53,840 FOR VETERANS

The receipts of Poppy day, held on May 28 for the benefit of disabled veterans and their dependents, totaled $53,840, R. Patrick O'Reilly, treasurer of the Veterans' Poppy Day association, announced yesterday. This is an 18 per cent increase over the total last year, he said.

"We appreciate the kindness and generosity of the public which made this good showing possible," Mr. O'Reilly said. "An itemized report is being prepared for the city council and the Association of Commerce on the activities of Poppy day. On May 1, 1935, another itemized report will show how the money has been distributed and spent."

The veterans' organizations taking part were the Grand Army of the Republic, American Legion, Disabled American Veterans, Spanish American War Veterans, and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

MAJ. REED LANDIS GIVEN D. S. C. FOR HEROISM IN WAR

The Distinguished Service Cross for valiant war service was presented yesterday to Maj. Reed Landis, world war aviator, in a military ceremony at Fort Sheridan.

The medal, awarded on Feb. 13 by the war department, was presented by Brig. Gen. Frank C. Bolles, commander of the fort. A review of the troops followed the ceremony.

Among those present were former Federal Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, now high commissioner of baseball, father of Maj. Landis, and Lieut. John Francisco, president of the Combat Medal Men's association.

Four days—Aug. 8, 12, 13, and 19—in 1918 were mentioned in the citation. Once Maj. Landis, flying alone, brought down two enemy planes and a balloon near Douai, France, and on another occasion while on patrol he attacked five enemy planes, shooting down two and forcing the others to flee. Maj. Landis lives at 748 Greenwood avenue, Glencoe.

U. S. REMOVES ITS PRISONERS FROM KANE COUNTY JAIL

United States Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer announced yesterday that he had been ordered by Sanford Bates, superintendent of the federal bureau of prisons, to remove all federal government prisoners from the Kane county jail at Geneva because of "laxity in rules and discipline."

On Tuesday United States Attorney Dwight H. Green said he would recommend to Bates that the De Kalb county jail at Sycamore, where John Factor, wealthy speculator, is being detained, be removed from the federal list.

Mr. Green's action followed an investigation of rumors that Sherif Isaac George of Sycamore and Factor had attended a beer party together in Aurora.

At Washington, Supt. Bates declared that the action against the Kane county jail was the result of a regular inspection made by the department of justice. A wide choice of jails now exists, he said, and the department can afford to drop the poorer ones.

In Geneva yesterday Sherif Harry Crawford of Kane county said he would be glad to get rid of his federal prisoners. There are only three of them.

OAKLEY BUILDING SOLD; INVOLVED IN TANK CRASH

The Oakley building at 141 West Austin avenue, where a water tank plunged through the roof and broke through several floors on May 22, killing five persons, was sold yesterday to the 420 North La Salle Street Building corporation. The deed at the county recorder's office bore 24 revenue stamps, indicating that the purchase price was in the neighborhood of $24,000. The building was purchased from Jane Oakley, May Oakley Kelley, Eric N. Lubeck, and Oakley Carson, who live outside of the state.

SUSPECTED AUTO THIEF SLAIN IN FLIGHT BY POLICE

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 13; recovered, 15; stripped, 2 [from police records for the twenty-four hours ending at midnight Tuesday].

An unidentified youth about 20 years old, a suspected automobile thief, was shot and killed late last night when he attempted to evade arrest by Policemen John Knowles and Edward Tighe of the North avenue station in front of 2948 Thomas street.

The policemen said that they saw the youth ripping a radio set from an automobile. When they approached to arrest him they asserted, he threw the car in gear and tried to flee. Both fired as he drove away, several bullets taking effect.

The wounded youth died as he was being taken to the Norwegian-American hospital. The automobile which the police believe was stolen bore a license plate issued to Charles Reskow, 1302 North Kilbourn avenue.

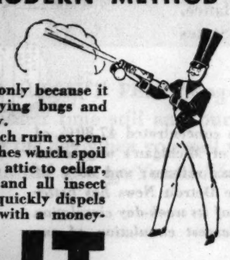
FLIT POWDER KILLED MY FLEAS

WHY NOT TRY THIS MODERN METHOD OF SOLVING THE INSECT PROBLEM?



Thousands of housewives use Flit not only because it keeps their homes free of dirty, annoying bugs and insects, but because it saves them money.

Their homes are free from moths which ruin expensive clothes; and free from ants and roaches which spoil costly food. They spray each room from attic to cellar, keep it shut tight for five minutes—and all insect pests are gone. Not only that, but Flit quickly dispels cooking odors. Remember, Flit is sold with a money-back guarantee.

Get a can of Flit Powder, too. Shake it into cracks and hard-to-reach corners. It kills every bug it comes in contact with. It is a sure way to rid your dog of fleas.

Startling price reductions, just announced, place Chevrolet further ahead of its field than ever—in price, quality and value

CHEVROLET

In the face of the biggest demand in years, right when the trend toward Chevrolet is at its peak, Chevrolet reduces prices! No wonder America was startled when this news flashed across the country just a few days ago. And now that the public has had a chance to figure out what this price reduction means in terms of greater value, the news becomes even more important than before. Because it means that Chevrolet now offers you a big, substantial, quality car with the famous valve-in-head engine for as little as $465, f. o. b. Flint, Mich.—making it by far the lowest-priced Six in the world. It means that you can get enclosed Knee-Action, Blue-Flame performance, cable-controlled brakes, and all the other big advancements of the day, for as much as $35.00 less than before—and Chevrolet's former prices were already among the lowest of the low. It means, in short, that Chevrolet now presents America with the finest buy the low-price field has ever seen.

Chevrolet has a reason for this move, of course. Chevrolet wants to co-operate with the National Recovery Program and keep employment at its present high level. But the net result to you works out the same way regardless of the reason. You can now acquire the one really modern low-priced automobile at a price 'way below that at which a car of this size and quality and with these features has ever been offered before. Prove it for yourself. Compare features. Compare these new low prices. If you make a real comparison, you will buy a Chevrolet.

RAMOVA THEATER PROPERTY OWNED BY BONDHOLDERS

Disbursement of 3% Is Expected.

BY AL CHASE.

As a result of 100 per cent coöperation by bondholders, the Ramova theater property at 3508-18 South Halsted street is now entirely owned by them, and, it was stated yesterday, a 3 per cent disbursement of earnings probably will be made shortly. In addition, A. E. Stanmeyer, president of William C. Heinemann & Co., which underwrote the original bond issue, predicted that if the present tenant is retained the bondholders eventually will get 100 per cent on their investment.

Title to the property was conveyed yesterday by Jacob Maskolinuas and others, by master's deed, to Edward S. Cummings Jr., and by him to the Central Building Liquidation trust, representing the bondholders. The trustees are Mr. Stanmeyer, George J. Kaspari and Felix E. Dreyer, all of William C. Heinemann & Co.

Has 1,200 Seat Theater.

The property, 130x150, is improved with a two story building containing seven stores, lofts and a 1,200 seat moving picture theater. Heinemann & Co. underwrote a bond issue of $200,000 which was paid down to $186,000 at the time of default, in February, 1932. The bonds were called in and every bondholder responded. As there was a $75,000 second mortgage loan, a foreclosure was necessary.

The three trustees reorganized the property without expense to the bondholders.

Title to Insurance Company.

On May 28 it was reported in this column that the northeast corner of North Michigan avenue and East Grand avenue, had been sold by Murray Wolbach, title being taken by James G. Manchester of Scarsdale, N. Y. Yesterday the county records disclosed that Mr. Manchester had taken title for the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York. He conveyed the property to that concern.

FIGHT STUBBORN $25,000 BLAZE IN STOCKYARD AREA

An unruly fire, which a brisk north wind for a time threatened to sweep into the stockyards, was brought under control yesterday afternoon after it had destroyed a two story frame building and two barns on the east side of Emerald avenue in the forty-one hundred block. A 3-11 alarm was sounded.

The blaze began in a vacant two story house owned by Michael Taylor at 4179 Emerald avenue. Fanned by the wind, it leaped to a frame barn and a two story brick barn at 4181 to 4185 Emerald avenue. There it set off a pile of loose hay stored by the owner of the barns, James Doody.

Fearing that the flames might cross the street to the west to a part of the stockyards area only partially burned by the recent great fire, Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan turned in the extra alarms. The buildings were surrounded by 15 pumpers and drenched with water

About 75 head of horses and mules in the James McPhillips stable, north of the fire, were removed to an athletic field at 41st street and Union avenue. Marshal Corrigan said he believed the fire was caused by vagrants living in Taylor's building. He estimated the damage at $25,000.

PERHAPS you don't think of Detroit as an important seaport. There are many other misconceptions concerning Detroit. While it is the center of the automotive world, it is a great and varied city, the FOURTH GREATEST MARKET IN THE UNITED STATES.

Midway in the system of Great Lakes, facing the shores of Canada, dominating the green and beautiful state of Michigan, it is a city with initiative, charm and varied interests. In addition to the great sums spent by the automotive industry, other Detroit manufacturers pay in wages and salaries a total of $297,960,415. Much of the vast total of Detroit incomes is spent within the Detroit retail trading area that embraces six counties (out of Michigan's 83) and pays more than 59% of the entire Michigan state tax.

As evidence of the home life of Detroit, and the influence brought there by The Detroit News, there are 4500 carrier boys employed to deliver The News direct to homes. These boys deliver no other newspaper. In the city, bundled copies are supplied to 2000 news-stands—500 street salesmen—and 147 sub-stations. 68 motor trucks travel 5000 miles daily to deliver The News promptly throughout the area. 76% of the entire city circulation is delivered to doors of Detroiters by carriers.

This is physical evidence of why The Detroit News is recognized everywhere as the home newspaper of Detroit. The reason is in the character of the newspaper itself! In 1933, the Fashion Editor alone received 20,000 letters and personal calls; the Society Editor received 5000 letters; and the sum total of letters received was close to half a million. This is a form of reader response indicative of the editorial appeal of the paper.

The influence of The Detroit News as a business getter is indicated by the experience of retail advertisers, whose advertisements are tested by daily experience over and over throughout the year. In 1933, as in previous years, The Detroit News was the overwhelming first choice of each of the five largest retail advertisers in Detroit who used from 57% to 81% of their advertising money in The Detroit News. The News carries 48% of all advertising in Detroit, the other two papers dividing the balance. The News is fourth in the United States during 1934 in total advertising.

● Here in the Detroit trading area is concentrated 47.80% of Michigan's total population; 57% of Michigan's wage earners; 65% of Michigan's income tax returns; and 59% of Michigan's assessed valuation. The Detroit News has better than 84% of its Sunday and 94% of its week-day circulation concentrated in this area — the largest circulation of any Detroit newspaper!

RUMANIA TO FETE CAROL ON FOURTH BIRTHDAY OF COUP

Mayors of All Cities Will Pledge Devotion.

BUCHAREST, June 6.—(AP)—Michael, former boy king, who was removed from the throne of Rumania when his father, King Carol, flew back from exile in France, today celebrated the fourth anniversary of his father's return by taking his first airplane ride.

PRINCE MICHAEL.

The plane took the boy on a two and a half hour flight, circling the city and going as far as Galati.

The plane landed at the exact spot where his father descended on the historic flight from Paris. King Carol was waiting at the airfield. He embraced and kissed the boy fondly as he stepped from the cabin.

Big Celebration Tomorrow.

Mayors of all cities and towns of the nation will gather here Friday for an observance of the anniversary of Carol's return. The municipal officials will pledge their devotion to the crown at the palace.

The king will appear on a palace balcony to address the mayors. The visitors and national officials then will assemble at the "Roman Arena." After a review there the king will make an address in which the accomplishments of four years will be reviewed.

Fear for Mistress' Life.

PARIS, June 6.—(AP)—Reports that Mme. Magda Lupescu, red haired mistress of King Carol of Rumania, would take refuge in France from alleged plots on her life persisted today.

Georges Dimitrescu, former secretary to Carol, came to Paris recently and was said to be preparing Carol's chateau, Belleme, near Dinard, for Mme. Lupescu at the king's instructions.

Rumors said she would come to France in precautionary exile for several months because of hostility against her in Rumania. A large sum of money was reported to have been deposited in a Zurich bank recently, presumably for Mme. Lupescu's use.

Mme. Lupescu is the daughter of a Jewish junk dealer. She has lived with Carol since 1925, when he, then a prince, renounced the throne to be with her.

SEEK $1,100,000 FOR CATHOLIC CHARITIES WORK

City-wide Appeal to Be Launched.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

A city-wide appeal for $1,100,000 will be launched by the Catholic Charities of the archdiocese of Chicago to finance nine branches of welfare work among Chicago Catholics which cannot be supported by state or federal funds.

The announcement of the drive was made yesterday by D. F. Kelly, president of the Catholic Charities. The appeal will be made, it was explained, independent of any other welfare drive. Business houses and employés will be asked to contribute if they desire.

The work for which the special fund is needed includes relief among the blind, deaf and dumb; dependent and neglected children, hospital service, nursing care in homes, protective work for boys, girls and women, settlement and day nurseries, special family relief among 7,000 families, undernourished mothers and children, general welfare work and shelter activities. The appeal for funds is usually made through the parish priest, Mr. Kelly said, but due to decreasing contributions, it was decided to conduct a public appeal.

"These laudable activities cannot be supported by state or federal funds," Mr. Kelly explained. "The Catholic Charities did not this last year share in the community fund, nor will it participate this year if the community fund conducts an appeal. It is expected that employers of large organizations will allow employés to designate that their gifts be paid to Catholic Charities.

"The Catholic Charities render a coordinated and highly beneficial service to the welfare of our entire community at a minimum of cost due to the vast number of volunteer workers.

"Families needing aid who are ineligible under the emergency relief law, may go to their parish priest who in turn sends the volunteer workers to their homes to determine the actual needs. These unpaid workers keep in constant touch with the families seeing that they are provided with the necessary help. Because our workers are volunteers and therefore unpaid, less than five per cent of the money contributed goes for administrative costs."

TERRORIST BOMB IN HAVANA KILLS ONE, WOUNDS TWO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, June 6.—Another terrorist bomb was exploded in downtown Havana tonight, killing one man and seriously injuring two others. The bomb, a clock contraption, was placed in front of a hardware store on the Avenida Italia. Government officials charged the affair to efforts of radicals bent on demonstrating that the Mendieta regime is incapable of maintaining order.

The area, following the explosion, was the scene of great excitement. Crowds were so dense that police were forced to use tear gas to dispel them.

The bomb explosion followed by only a few hours a harmony meeting at which President Mendieta and his cabinet conferred at length with members of all political parties. Notable, however, was the absence of the recently returned Ramon Grau San Martin, deposed president and leader of the radical student faction.

DOG MAROONED IN OLD QUARRY SHOT TO DEATH

The small mongrel dog marooned four days on a narrow ledge of shifting shale 200 feet below the surface in an abandoned quarry at 19th street and Damen avenue was shot to death yesterday. Three bullets from a high powered rifle were fired into the dog's body from the surface. The carcass rolled off the ledge, plunged 38 feet, and sank beneath water which at that point is 137 feet deep.

It was decided to kill the dog on Tuesday evening after humane societies and city authorities decided not to risk the life of a man to save the life of a dog. The difficulty lay in the fact that the narrow ledge upon which the dog lay was beneath a 20 foot overhanging cliff. The soft surface of the ledge offered no foothold for any one who might be swung beneath the overhanging rocks.

Police Sergt. Edward Bezarick, a crack marksman, was summoned to shoot the dog. Watchers with glasses said the first bullet struck it in the head, bringing instant death.

Important Facts for Smokers Discovered by Science!

Experience of Camel smokers is now Explained

From a famous research laboratory in New York comes a basic discovery that throws new light on our past knowledge about cigarettes. It embodies an "energizing effect" . . . a harmless restoration of the flow of natural body energy . . . a delightful relief from fatigue and irritability. When you smoke a Camel you enjoy an increase in your flow of energy. And this benefit you get from smoking Camels can be enjoyed all through the day . . . without upsetting your nerves.

WORN OUT . . . and then he smoked a Camel!

Let CAMELS Increase Your Flow of ENERGY

Tired? Light a Camel. And as you enjoy its cool, pleasing fragrance, you feel a new flow of energy . . . a cheering "lift," a quick and delightful "energizing" effect.

IT'S YOUR OWN NATURAL ENERGY RELEASED

You've probably noticed this yourself and have wondered why and how it happened. The "lift" you get from Camels is a release of your own natural energy . . . your latent energy made easily and harmlessly available.

So when you're feeling run-down, tired, "all in," smoke a Camel and see what happens. That tired feeling slips away. You're ready again for work and fun. Camels have helped your own body to help itself and bring you back in "pep" and energy.

AND CAMELS NEVER JANGLE YOUR NERVES

You can smoke just as many of these delightful Camels as you want. You can increase your flow of energy over and over again. And you need never worry about your nerves. For remember: Camel's costlier tobaccos never get on your nerves.

WHO HASN'T FELT "dog-tired" after work . . . with a long evening ahead . . . and dinner time still an hour away? That's just one of the many, many times during the day when you will want to light up a Camel — for restoring your flow of healthful energy. You'll like Camels — a matchless blend of costlier tobaccos!

GREAT BRITAIN DEFAULTS.

Shortly after the war when the debt problem was to be faced it was said, first, that the debts wouldn't be paid, and, second, that they couldn't be. Nevertheless, after negotiation with the various debtors, settlements were made, in each case reducing the amounts to the estimated ability to pay. Each nation then accepted its revised responsibilities. It still was said that the debtors wouldn't pay and that the debtors couldn't pay. Great Britain now makes a complete default, and the prophecies are fulfilled.

In explanation, Great Britain reminds the United States of many things to which, largely to no purpose, the United States could make detailed reply. America is reminded that the British in their settlements assumed a much larger proportion of the amount due than any other nation and that Great Britain is likewise a creditor unable to collect, and therefore unable to pay. America might reply that it took less from Britain's debtors in order that they might pay their British creditor more and thereby enable the British debtor to discharge his debt with greater ease. Further reply might be that the United States eased the way by taking nothing from Germany in reparations and that furthermore it did not seize any colonies. The allies did, and if they did not regard them as assets they were very foolish to take them, and need not expect to be regarded as foolish rather than acquisitive.

So long as the United States loaned Germany the money with which to pay the allies, the allies offended their own true intentions by repaying the United States, at the same time raising a popular hue and cry against the morality of their creditor. When American money no longer flowed abroad the American debts no longer got their service. For America it was out of one pocket into another or nothing at all.

There are points in the British note which if made elsewhere than in that note might attract American sympathy. They are, however, not pertinent to the declaration of repudiation and default. In a parallel case, if the present course of the American government nearly ruined the American people a statement of that fact would not be an answer to a creditor's claim. It couldn't be set up as a reproach against the claim or as a justification of the default. It might be the case and the creditor might have to stand the consequences of it, but the reproach would be upon the debtor and it could not be thrown back upon the creditor. All the British can tell the United States in explanation of their default is that they cannot get the dollar exchange to continue payments without ruining not only themselves but the rest of the civilized world. That will be their story, and some economists will agree with it. Not much attention can be paid to the other plea that America has closed its markets to goods and services, because it has not materially modified its policy therein since the acceptance of the debt settlements. What modification there has been has been grossly exaggerated for sentimental effect and, in fact, the protective policy of the United States was in the background when the debts were incurred and when they were revised.

The short of it, all of it, and the truth of it is that Great Britain defaults, that all the debtors have defaulted or will default, unless Finland continues to be the exception.

Now what? These debts represent the most extravagant and unbelievable excursion of the United States into European affairs. They represent armed American forces in Europe and the United States as Gabriel and Santa Claus over Europe. Never before did America so disavow the principles inculcated in it by its wise men and the traditions to which it had safely adhered. What it reaped was injury and hatred. It would seem that the lesson could be made quite plain.

America's reply to the repudiation should be the immediate withdrawal from all European scenes of every agent not connected with normal diplomatic services as maintained before 1914. From every conference, international commission or enterprise of whatever nature or purpose, the American representative, whether in theory an observer or fully accredited, should be brought home. The United States should definitly draw back from its interference and participation in foreign affairs really alien to it and close the door upon a fantastic episode. It should announce its intention, without regret, of abstaining from any international conference proposed in the future. It won't get its money, but it can regain its self-respect, its peace of mind, and its security, and hereafter conduct its affairs with foreign nations through the ordinary channels of diplomatic representation, trusting that its state department will think twice about an American interest to once about some illusion of international good. Then the American people may charge this nightmare off to experience and hope to profit by it.

THE MINNEAPOLIS STRIKE.

The recent strike in Minneapolis has made an impression upon the people of Minnesota, if we may judge by the press of the state, which is likely to have a decisive influence upon political fortunes in the present campaign. We hope its effects will reach further into the future to restore to the commonwealth a respect for American institutions and ideals which seems to have been nearly lost in recent years.

The spread of European radical doctrines in Minnesota has been puzzling and unpleasant to all loyal Americans, and the experience of the strike should rally Americanism throughout the state to its own defense. The Farmer-Labor party, which has put one of its representatives in the senate and elected another to the governorship, has just put forth a platform of socialism demanding the "complete reorganization of our social structure into a coöperative commonwealth," with the government ownership of all natural resources [except, of course, the Minnesota farmers' property] and government operation of the machinery of production, transportation, and communications. This scheme for the confiscation of all property except farms is put forth in the expectation that farmers and wage earners, who cast a majority of the votes, will think it will profit them and therefore will keep Gov. Olson, Senator Shipstead, and their party in the powers and emoluments of office.

Against the background of violence and subversion produced by the strike the Farmer-Labor party proposals are less likely, perhaps, to appeal to thinking farmers and wage earners. "Citizens," says the Minneapolis Journal, "who were dazed by the sudden outbreak are now asking each other how it could possibly happen that the peaceful régime of law and order was overthrown by a few thousand men, organized to impose their will on this community." It was certainly a lesson which every community in the country ought to take to heart and mind. The years of business depression, unemployment, and financial losses have given the opportunity wanted by every enemy of American government and social order. Incitement to violence, to class hatred, to confiscation has increased, with some support in high places, and it has not yet been met by an awakened response from the substantial and loyal citizenship in all classes and sections. But that response is appearing and is organizing. The leaders of mob disorders, who preach confiscation of property and the destruction of the American democratic order, assisted by politicians and demagogs who hope to ride into political power on a tide of inflamed and reckless emotion, are going to meet the loyal and level headed Americanism of the nation and go down before it, for they represent a very small band of alien minded irresponsibles and of unscrupulous self-seekers.

We do not think the people of Minnesota are going to vote communist at the next election.

ANOTHER DISCRIMINATION AGAINST CHICAGO.

An Elgin manufacturer has closed his plant because of inability to compete for business paying the wage rates prescribed by NRA. The code authority for the industry has ordered that dress manufacturers in Chicago and Cleveland and within a radius of 75 miles of these two cities shall pay not less than the following rates of pay:

Cutters, $38.25 per week of 35 hours.
Sample makers, $25.50 per week of 35 hours.
Drapers, $22.95 per week of 35 hours.
Cleaners and pinkers, $14 per week of 35 hours.
Operators, .765 cents per hour.
Finishers, 55 cents per hour.

Outside the 75 mile zone, in the metropolitan cities of Milwaukee and St. Louis, for example, the prescribed rates of wage are 15 per cent less than the above schedule. The Elgin manufacturer cannot understand why his competitors in St. Louis and Milwaukee, where living costs are higher than in Elgin, are authorized by the government to pay 15 per cent lower wages. The excess cost to him is $30,000 per year.

The determination of proper wage differentials between districts of the country and between large cities and small is an intricate problem. An arbitrary decision about so simple a question as relationship of wages between Evanston and Chicago may involve serious readjustments. The old deal had a method of settling differentials by trial and error. Although the resulting rates did not always meet the tests of abstract theory they met the needs of the situation. The schedules worked or they were readjusted.

A lower wage rate in Elgin than in Chicago, St. Louis, and Milwaukee might be justified on the grounds that living costs are lower, inability of the available help to turn out the volume of product which can be obtained from the more competent workers who prefer to live in the metropolitan centers, and higher delivery costs. It was probably the lower wage rates to compensate for the disadvantages of location which persuaded the manufacturer to locate in Elgin. If he is to have the disadvantages of the location with no differential to offset them he will be obliged to move his plant outside the 75 mile area.

The administration has proclaimed an interest in the decentralization of industry. By decentralization in the case of the dress manufacturing industry the government appears to mean any place except Chicago or Cleveland or within 75 miles of either city.

UNIDENTIFIED INVENTOR.

[San Francisco Chronicle.]

The Fresno County Chamber of Commerce is looking for an unknown hero so that the world may do him honor.

He is the man who conceived the idea of painting the white line down the middle of the highway as a safety measure.

He is declared to have saved thousands of lives and millions of dollars of property, and yet his identity is not known. After several months' private research the Fresno chamber has called upon the National Safety council for aid. In a telegraphic reply that body said:

> Much interested in your plan to discover who painted the first strip down the center of a highway as a safety measure. Notwithstanding great value of highway strip and national emphasis put on its value, we are aware of no effort ever made to identify the originator. We shall be glad to hear results of your quest.

Who is the man of the white line? Like all great ideas the white line is simplicity itself. Perhaps it is one of those spontaneous social ideas for which no one man can claim credit. But if the man of the white line can be found he needs no tablet to commemorate his contribution to humanity. Let the white line be his memorial.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

PEOPLE WHO SEEK A REASON for everything are now at work trying to find out if there is any connection between the bandit outbreaks in Indiana and the poets down that way. They are working on the theory that the thousands and thousands of Indiana poets are responsible for the bandits to this extent: The poets, having dashed off a lovely poem, rush at once around the town where they live reading their beautiful verses to every one they chance to meet. That drives lots of those who are made to listen to the poems into a frenzy and seizing shotguns and revolvers they start out on desperate deeds of crime. Well, anyhow, the thing is worth looking into and if the poets are found to blame they ought to be made to read their poems in the bottom of a coal mine or up in the attic where nobody could hear them. Anyhow, this thing should be carefully looked into.

TILL DROUTH SHALL BREAK.

The hot hours rob the plains of green, once more,
And lap the nectar of each prairie lake,
Dry clods lie waiting, pregnant as before,
Till drouth shall break,
Till drouth shall break.

Adown the night the thirsting herds low—spent,
The comfort of new grass they may not take
Nor calmly chew the cud of dumb content,
Till drouth shall break,
Till drouth shall break.

The nesting wild bird bids earth's creatures wake
To trust through this impassive interval,
Till drouth shall break,
Till drouth shall break.

Steel day on day burns out some dream, some plan,
Inevitable, my own! Yet it will make
High courage for insistent need of man,
Till drouth shall break,
Till drouth shall break.

OUR AMERICAN DEBUTANTES who are due to kneel before King George at his next royal court ought to have enough 100 per cent Americanism in 'em to say sweetly as they courtesy to the king: "Say, George, do you think it was nice to gyp the U. S. A. out of the coin you borrowed?" Or something of that kind. Those debutantes are smart gals and maybe they could think up something even cuter than that.

SAY WHAT YOU WILL, there's good in everything. Out in the drouth areas in the northwest they report that swarms of grasshoppers are appearing to assist Sec. Wallace in cutting down the crops. Bad? No, that's good, and I'll tell you why. Think of the jobs the government could pass around by sending out grasshopper census takers, people whose business it would be to count the grasshoppers and tie little bells on 'em so the farmers could hear them coming, know just how many were in the swarm and go out with brooms and clubs and things to drive 'em away. But maybe the brain trust has thought of this already. They just think of everything, those brain trusters.

THE ACCIDENT.

One hundred times I've buried you before
When you had stayed too long upon the way;
I have stood cold and numb before my door
And mumbled half aloud what I would say

To you when you came in from out the night
Of thoughtless lingering away from home;
My eyes would close when that small streak of light
Beneath your door told me that you had come.

And yet these many times did not prepare
Me in one single way to meet your fate.
Each night I stand beside the door and stare
And tell myself that once more you are late.

REPORTS OF FOREST FIRES in the northern woods, Canada, the Adirondacks, Maine, and all points west, east, north and south are most discouraging this year to the vacationist. The vacation folders tell us how lovely it is to walk 'neath great oaks and pines and hemlocks in the cool, quiet shade of the trees, but with the great oaks, pines and hemlocks liable to burst into flames at any old time the chances for walking in the cool, quiet shade don't sound so good. What science has got to do is to develop an asbestos forest. It ought to be easy for the scientists, they're so smart. And until they get an asbestos forest I'm going to stick around in the flat and then if anything gets on fire Hook and Ladder company No. 25 and Engine company No. 6 will be there before you know it and put the darned fire out. Say what you will about the hot, dusty, crowded city, it still has some pretty good points.

RHEUMATISM AND WARMTH.

FOR the relief of rheumatic and neuralgic pain nothing is so satisfactory as heat applied locally. Of course, opium and substances made from it are more powerful, but the relief of pains by means of powerful drugs is comparable to drowning a cat by holding its head under water. To make matters worse, there is the great danger that when a man once enjoys the effects of morphine given to relieve pain he so often heads for the morphine habit.

Heat applied locally is not so effective, but the good accomplished is through a much more healthy action, and in the long run it is far more satisfactory. So effective is continuous heat in relieving rheumatic pains that many persons with chronic joint troubles are advised to move from cold, wet climates to regions where they can be out of doors in warm air most of the time. Probably in the present state of our knowledge the climate treatment of chronic joint troubles is the best we have, although it is far from being satisfactory.

Our forefathers could not travel far in search of health when they developed chronic joint troubles because there were no railroads and covered wagons had their limitations and drawbacks. Therefore they wore red flannel underwear. The surgeons, not liking the looks of red flannel underwear, or being without hope that it can ever be made popular again, devised a certain operation on nerve roots to take its place. After this operation the affected extremities remain continuously warm and in that way pain is lessened and the diseased joints are improved.

The reports from them relative to cases of chronic arthritis are good. But there are a multitude of cases that are not important enough to call for operation in which the nerve roots are cut. They are the miscellaneous joint and muscle pains, some of which come and go, most of which physicians think unimportant and pass over lightly. However, the patient is uncomfortable and he wants relief. Our forefathers sought relief in red flannel underwear and porous plaster. Those of their descendants who are still in possession of money go to Arizona or Florida.

Dr. T. A. Lowe has a suggestion for those who are not burdened with great wealth. He offers rubber poultices for pain. He takes slabs of sponge rubber from a quarter to half an inch in thickness, makes them up into pads, and has the patient wear such a pad over the painful area continuously until the pain is gone.

In Industrial Medicine he reports favorable results in relieving pain in patients suffering from such diverse ailments as polyarthritis involving especially the spine, another with the same disease involving especially the hips and knees, two men who had wrenched their lower backs, a man with a chronic chest pain probably a mild nontuberculous pleurisy, and one who had two rib fractures. He reports using these rubber pads for the relief of local pains in a hundred cases. The rubber is similar to that used in rubber sponges.

He says there is a warming effect similar to that which results from wearing rubber overshoes. It would be greater than that, since in the case of the pads the rubber is in contact with the skin. In fact this, aside from limitation of efficiency, is the only drawback to the method. In some persons the rubber is too irritating to the skin.

DRY TONGUE.

M. T. writes:

What causes one's tongue to get so dry and stiff, and to burn in the night? Not to my knowledge do I sleep with my mouth open, but the entire inside of my mouth and lips burns so. Do certain kinds of food or food combinations cause this?

REPLY.

Among the possible causes are pernicious anemia and pellagra. It may be due to electric action between metals used in dental work. Sleeping with the mouth open is another possibility.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE.

Chicago, May 27.—[Friend of the Insured.]—In applying for accident insurance my occupation at the time was given. I am now thinking of making a change. What effect will this have on my policy? Is it necessary to notify the insurance company if I change my occupation? R. S.

If your occupation was accurately given in making application for accident insurance, the fact that you later changed occupation would have no effect as to the validity of your policy. It is not necessary to notify the company of such change. The insurance company, however, if aware of the increased risk, if there is an increase, usually has the right, under all, except the noncancelable form, to cancel the policy or charge the increased rate applicable to the more hazardous occupation, or pay only such portion of the indemnities provided as the premiums paid would have purchased at the rate for the more hazardous occupation. On the other hand, should you change from a hazardous occupation to one presenting little or no risk, the company, upon notification would allow a reduction in the rate applicable to the change in risk. It would therefore seem that they should receive the same consideration as extended to the policyholder.

ADDITIONAL PROTECTION.

Chicago, May 30.—[Friend of the Insured.]—Do high automobile liability limits afford enough additional protection to warant paying the additional premium? A. R.

To double the standard limits of $5,000-$10,000 to $10,000-$20,000 costs only 15 per cent additional to the original premium with an approximate proportionate increase for the larger limits. This increase is a small item and considered well waranted when the amount of additional security is taken into consideration. An automobile accident involving a death or serious crippling injury, due to the policyholder's negligence, is almost certain to involve a judgment exceeding the standard limit of $5,000, in which event the policyholder would be held liable for the excess.

THE GUARDSMEN.

Evanston, Ill., May 29.—I applaud your editorial, "The Guardsmen," for its timely and appreciative recognition of the work of the National Guard. However, I take exception to the final period of the concluding sentence: "The nation is proud of the Guard and will always give it wholehearted support." That statement is an outstanding example of that oratorical bunk which has become so thoroughly discredited a feature of our political affairs and as such is unworthy the editorial page of a metropolitan newspaper.

Of course, the nation is proud of the Guard, and justly so, but the nation has not and does not now give to the Guard even half-hearted support.

It is high time that the citizens of this potentially turbulent area who depend, perhaps unwittingly, upon the background of a strong and capable National Guard for the maintenance of the status quo should realize that the National Guard, which has performed so brilliantly and effectively in this and other states, has accepted payless drill nights, as various civil groups have accepted payless pay days, but without resort to communist inspired parades and demonstrations.

It is also time that these same citizens should realize with shame the decadence in man power and equipment of the National Guard and the other components of national defense, the regular army and the organized reserve, whose effectiveness is being destroyed by pinchpenny economy. This condition is a tribute, perhaps, to that eminent emasculator, the chairman of the house military affairs committee, but it is a sad tribute to the intelligence of that gentleman, the congress and the country at large.

I consider it only just that you make some retraction of an unworthy fillip to our national self-complacence and in so doing justify the confidence of your readers by calling for action to improve the present low state of our national defense. ROBERT L. MUIR.

AFTER REPEAL.

Byron, Ill., June 3.—I wonder if these people who count the repeal of the 18th amendment such a success will take heed to a few statistics that are authentic.

In the city of Chicago 36.24 per cent increase in automobile accidents since the repeal. In the city of Washington, D. C., there has been double the number of accidents and in Kansas City an increase of 48 per cent.

Los Angeles has had 104 per cent more arrests for drunkenness since the repeal. Denver, 116.6 per cent more; New York City, 55.5 per cent more, and so on down the list of ten great cities. More arrests of women for drunken driving have also been made.

And we were to have no saloons with the return of strong drinks; and the bootleggers are more busy than ever everywhere. Drunks are as common as cigaret smokers, and what will the next generation be? Let us do some hard thinking before it is worse.

FARM EFFICIENCY.

Ames, Ia., May 31.—When you accuse Secretary Wallace of increasing corn production through the sale of hybrid seed, you should extend your accusation to every farmer who has signed a corn-hog contract who, in any way, improves his efficiency in corn growing. That would take in most of them.

As a matter of fact, the federal program of acreage reduction carries no implication of inefficiency on the acres retained in production. If we become too efficient on the remaining acres we shall simply have to take more acres out of production.

You did not raise this moral issue when Alexander Legge advocated reduced production as chairman of the federal farm board while the International Harvester company, whose continued improvements in the efficiency of farm machinery have had far more to do with increasing production than Secretary Wallace's hybrid corn, continued to function. BICYCLES IN THE PARK.

Chicago, May 30.—One child's broken bones as the result of being crashed into by a bicycle rider cannot be compensated by all the pleasure that bicycling affords to all the riders in Chicago.

We have a beautiful walking path on the lake front that stretches from 75th to 80th street, short and narrow enough for the many children that play and walk along it. Several children already have been injured by the bicyclists, and there is constant dread of crippling to hundreds of others.

In the name of the children, may we appeal to the proper authorities, through your column, for protection? M. N.

BANK STOCK.

Libertyville, Ill., May 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Some years ago when a bank was organized I invested in a few shares of its stock. A few years later I sold the stock to a party recommended by the bank for the same price I paid for it. Four and one-half years after I sold the stock the bank closed and went into receivership. I am now notified I am liable for the par value of the stock and unless paid at once judgment will be obtained against any property held in my name. 1. The party I sold the stock to and each subsequent owner is held liable for the par value. 2. Was not the reserve of $100 per share to protect the bank against loss? 3. Can I be held liable four and one-half years after selling stock? 4. How long would judgment hold good? 5. Could I be forced to sell my property to pay judgment? L. E.

1. Correct.
2. This would be one way of looking at it.
3. Yes.
4. Twenty years.
5. Yes, in the sense that the judgment creditor could force an execution sale. In Sanders vs. Merchants Bank, 349 Ill. 547, it was held that all the successive owners of the same shares of stock may be held liable to the amount of the par value of these shares for debts accruing during the respective periods of ownership of such successive owners.

WATERWAY PLAN IS RUSHED AHEAD BY ROOSEVELT

Senate's Rejection of the Treaty Ignored.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—With a calm disregard of the senate's rejection of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty, the Roosevelt administration, it was revealed today, has pushed steadily ahead with plans for the construction of the lakes to the ocean waterway at an initial cost of $176,187,300 and an annual upkeep of $7,500,000.

This disclosure was made today at the White House after a perusal of the voluminous report on the nation's water resources which was filed by the President with congress last Monday had brought forth the somewhat surprising fact that a detailed program has been mapped which presupposes approval of the seaway treaty.

Seeks Vote Reversal.

President Roosevelt has by no means abandoned the waterway plan, it was then learned, and hopes to be able to bring pressure to bear upon congress before the next session which will cause the senate to reverse itself when called upon again to vote on the treaty.

An examination of the ten bulky reports made by technical subcommittees revealed also the government's plans for improvement of the Illinois waterway. In a message accompanying the reports, the President recommended to congress that no legislation on water resources be enacted at this session. He declared that detailed studies would be completed this summer and fall and that then congress might act upon a comprehensive plan for enacting legislation providing for flood control, navigation, irrigation, and development of hydro electric power throughout the nation.

Reports on Region.

In its report on the Great Lakes region, a subcommittee stated: "Water power development is of major importance especially in connection with the improvement of the St. Lawrence river for navigation and the further development of the power resources of the Niagara river. The proximity of the Niagara-St. Lawrence region to one of the important industrial centers of the country and to New York, Boston, and other large eastern cities offers a strong inducement for the further development of the large potential water supply.

The program laid out "to meet the increasing needs of navigation and to connect the great lakes ports with the ocean ports of the world" was given in detail as follows:

1. Deepening of great lakes' downbound connecting channels, estimated cost, $4,727,000.

2. Improvement of great lakes' harbors, estimated cost, $15,757,400.

Plan Deeper Canal.

3. Deepening of New York state barge line canal to provide an adequate connection between the lakes and the Hudson river, estimated cost, $27,000,000.

4. Calumet-Sag channel, to provide a connection between the lakes and the Mississippi river system, estimated cost $2,814,500. A notation stated that this amount was estimated only for the "first phase of a larger program."

5. Compensating works to restore lake levels lowered by Chicago diversion, estimated cost, $2,250,000.

6. St. Lawrence waterway, to provide a channel for ocean vessels, $175,187,300.

7. To provide harbor facilities for ocean vessels, estimated cost, $2,664,000.

The program thus calls for added expenditures of $55,212,000 in addition to the $175,187,300 estimated as the cost of the waterway proper, making the total cost of the St. Lawrence project $230,399,000.

The subcommittee strongly recommended this project. It also advocated as a part of the middle west region program the completion of the existing nine foot navigation project in the upper Mississippi from Alton to St. Paul at an estimated cost of $80,000,000, the establishment of 500,000 acres of publicly owned forests for erosion control, and the conversion of 2,500,000 acres of "devastated farm lands" to forests.

Proposes Two Locks.

Concerning the Illinois waterway, it proposed the immediate completion of the existing navigation project by the construction of two locks and dams and channel widening at a cost of about $15,530,000.

"The early construction of flood control works channel improvements on the Kankakee and Sangamon rivers and levees on the Illinois river at a cost of $6,300,000" also was recommended. The restoration of 300,000 acres of eroded farm lands in Illinois to forests was approved.

ROBS DRIVER IN DAIRY.

Galesburg, Ill., June 6.—[Special.]—Dr. John C. Hessler, professor of chemistry at Knox college since 1921 has been elected president of James Millikin university at Decatur, according to a statement made here today by President Albert Britt.

In accepting the appointment Dr. Hessler returns to the college he served for thirteen years between 1907 and 1920.

He is a graduate of the University of Chicago, taught in Chicago high schools and Millikin, besides Knox, and is the author of four text books on chemistry.

FOUND GUILTY OF ASSAULT TO KILL; GETS YEAR

CRIMINAL COURT.

James Trautman, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

Frank Fester, Raymond Wiora, George Sanders and Rudolph Malleck, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; Joseph Alden, confidence game, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; James Bais, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Benjamin Epstein.

Earl Mallady, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Adolph R. Paulson, a janitor, of 1620 East 55th street, was found guilty of assault to kill by a jury in the court of Judge Harry B. Miller yesterday, and sentenced to one year in the house of correction, and fined $500.

On Feb. 15 last, Paulson summoned Dr. O. J. Rabe of 6727 Merrill avenue to his home to treat a sick child. When the doctor arrived, Paulson shot him once in the head and once in the neck. Dr. Rabe was seriously wounded, but he recovered.

According to Paulson's wife, Corda, her husband was extremely jealous, and believed that Dr. Rabe, who had made several visits to the home to treat the child, was going there to see Mrs. Paulson.

High State Court Frees Munday on $5,000 Bond

Charles B. Munday, 72 years old, former banker who is under sentence of one to ten years in prison for embezzlement, was released from the county jail on a $5,000 supersedeas bond yesterday. His attorneys filed a writ of error with the state Supreme court Tuesday, but the bond for his release was not approved until yesterday. Munday was convicted Nov. 9 by a jury of embezzling $23,000 of the funds of the State Mill and Elevator of North Dakota while acting as the concern's agent here in 1931.

DEMAND HOUSE DROP INQUIRY ON CHICAGO JUDGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—A bi-party alliance between Democratic and Republican members of congress from Illinois today gave promise of a strong fight on the floor of the house against the judiciary committee's proposal to prolong its investigation into the records of Federal Judges James H. Wilkerson and Walter C. Lindley of Chicago.

Congressmen from Chicago and downstate Illinois evidenced considerable resentment over the suggestion that a subcommittee be authorized to continue its inquiry when a full year of investigation has already failed to disclose sufficient grounds for impeachment action against the Chicago jurists. The attitude of a majority of the delegation, a partial poll revealed, is that the entire matter should be dropped forthwith.

Charge Patronage Move.

From several Illinois Republicans came the charge that the impeachment of Republican judges at Chicago is being sought in order to make way for new Democratic appointments to the bench. Democrats in the state delegation denied this, but asserted that the Chicago bench should not be subjected to further inquiry when facts already disclosed fail to show any cause for serious action.

"The suggestion that the investigation of two Illinois federal judges be continued during the summer, is unfair and almost inhuman," said Representative Fred A. Britten of Chicago. "It may be considered good politics to create judicial vacancies for Democrats to fill, but it will act as a boomerang in the November elections.

Suggests Other Fields.

"If the investigating subcommittee is anxious for work, I suggest they try their detective snooping on some of the southern federal judges or on some of the Democratic eastern judges instead of wasting their time in Chicago.

"A year of investigation has shown no violation of law and no sound reasons for impeaching either of the judges," he continued, "and I shall oppose any further useless expenditure of federal money in the Illinois district."

Representative Leo Kocialkowski, Chicago Democrat, was likewise emphatic in asserting that the investigation should be stopped.

Congressman Edward A. Kelly, another Democrat from Chicago, agreed with Mr. Kocialkowski, stating that he will vote against the forthcoming judiciary committee resolution to authorize a continued inquiry this summer.

Representative Adolph J. Sabath, Chicago Democrat, on the other hand, felt that the investigation should go forward during the recess in justice to the judges themselves.

GOLD RUSH PUTS JOLIET CONVICTS IN WORKING MOOD

John Oestry, superintendent of the stone quarry at the old Joliet penitentiary, saw Ernest Williams, 43 years old, a prison worker, carefully piling small fragments of stone while at work yesterday. He inquired into the matter.

"Don't tell any one," Williams said, after some hesitation, "but I've discovered gold. We'll all be rich."

Oestry examined the fragments and found they contained veins which resembled gold. He took his find to Assistant Warden George F. Sehring, but after some investigation it was learned that the metal was iron sulphite, commonly called "fool's gold."

Back at the quarry Williams had apparently been unable to keep his secret any longer. When Oestry returned the prisoners were working feverishly on their rock piles. Matters returned to normal when the superintendent announced his discovery.

Nervous Bandits Shoot Victim at Home Entrance

Harry Pague, 50 years old, was shot in both legs last night by robbers who attempted to hold him up at the entrance to his home at 1141 Independence boulevard. Pague said that he had not resisted the pair and that he attributed the shooting to the nervousness of the bandits. His injuries were not serious.

BURNS TO DEATH.

Quincy, Ill., June 6.—[Special.]—Chris Rump, near Payson, twelve miles south, was burning stumps late yesterday afternoon when his clothing caught fire, burning his body to a crisp.

3 MILLION ROLPH FORTUNE SPENT; LEAVES NOTHING

San Francisco, Cal., June 6.—(AP)—Gov. James Rolph Jr., who made and lost a fortune estimated at 3 million dollars, died virtually a poor man, his will disclosed.

A few hours after the governor was buried yesterday Theodore Roche, an attorney, read his will preparatory to filing it in Probate court.

"His estate will be negligible, if anything," Roche said.

Collapse of his shipping business at the close of the war resulted in a heavy drain on his fortune, and forced him in debt. Under the will, the debts still remaining will be paid from life insurance, reported to total more than $700,000.

C. A. HEDBLOM, NOTED SURGEON, DIES IN TORONTO

Suffers Heart Attack at Convention.

DR. C. A. HEDBLOM.

Dr. Carl A. Hedblom, widely known authority on chest surgery, died early yesterday in a hospital at Toronto, Can., where he had gone to attend a meeting of the American Surgical association. He was stricken with a heart attack Tuesday night.

Dr. Hedblom was 55 years old, lived at 2340 Commonwealth avenue and had offices at 30 North Michigan avenue. For eight years he had been a professor of surgery and head of the surgery department at the University of Illinois College of Medicine. He was also surgeon in chief at the Research and Educational hospital at the University of Illinois.

For years he had been senior surgeon at St. Lukes hospital and a consulting surgeon at the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital and the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium.

Early in 1930 Dr. Hedblom battled death from blood poisoning contracted while performing an operation when he inadvertently pricked the index finger of his right hand with a fine needle. Although he knew the instrument had pierced his skin, the puncture was so minute he was unable to find it. However, the infection spread and necessitated an operation to check it.

Dr. Hedblom is survived by his widow and four children. Two sons, Carl Jr., and George, are attending Harvard university; another son, Richard, is attending high school in Chicago, and a daughter, Eleanor Jane, is also in school.

EX-POLICE JUDGE RETTIG DIES AT 68 IN HIGHWOOD

George S. Rettig, for four years police magistrate of Highwood, died yesterday in his home at 410 North Central avenue, Highwood, following an illness of nearly a year. He was 68 years old.

Born in Germany, Mr. Rettig came to this country in 1882. He fought in the Indian campaign in the southwest and was a member of the honor guard at the World's Columbian exposition in 1893. For 33 years he was a motorman for the Chicago and North Shore railroad. He was a police magistrate from 1929 to 1933.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Della Rettig; three sons, George Jr. and Peter of Chicago, and William of San Diego, Cal., and a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Reilly.

Former Mayor Deacon of North Chicago Dies

Henry M. Deacon, contractor and former mayor of North Chicago, died yesterday at his home, 1630 Park avenue, North Chicago, of heart disease. He was 67 years old. Mr. Deacon was formerly a member of the Lake county board of supervisors. He is survived by his wife and three daughters. Funeral services will be held in Christ church, North Chicago, Saturday at 2 p. m.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: She Loves Me—He Loves Me Not

LUM AND ABNER BEGIN SERIES ON W-G-N JUNE 17

Stars on 3 Continents to Hail Lombardo.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Lum and Abner, widely known network radio team, will launch a new series of programs over W-G-N at 10:15 p. m. Sunday, June 17. These purveyors of rural humor will be heard at the same hour every evening except Saturday. The two Arkansas lads' parts are heard in a sketch which chronicles the activities of the citizenry of Pine Ridge. Chester Lauck plays Lum and Norris Goff is Abner. They write their own scripts. The team was last sponsored on the networks by the auto maker now footing the bill for the Waring show.

Radio headliners from three continents will join in a gala one hour broadcast at 10:35 o'clock tonight over WMAQ-NBC welcoming Guy Lombardo and his orchestra to the National net. Opening at the Waldorf-Astoria roof tonight, Lombardo's Royal Canadians are switching to NBC after an association of six years with CBS. Charles Doernberger's orchestra will contribute to the show from Montreal, and the Lamuta orchestra's tango rhythms will be short waved from Buenos Aires. Mildred Harris will be heard from London, the Mills brothers from Glasgow, Gus Arnheim from Los Angeles, Ben Bernie from Denver, Paul Whiteman from New York.

Gossips to Start Fifth Year.

Clara Lu 'n' Em will start their fifth year as the gossiping girls of radio on June 16. Four years ago, W-G-N first put "the girls" on the air after they had been told by an NBC station official that there was no place in radio for sketch by women. However, that error was rectified and they have been on NBC, as well as W-G-N, for three years.

There's a move afoot to bring back that popular quartet hour combination of Morton Downey, Tony Wons, and Jacques Renard. Tony, radio's scrapbook man, dropped into town yesterday to confer with Downey, have an audition for a show of his own which may go on the air locally, and visit the Fair.

To Broadcast from London.

After Will Rogers concludes a four weeks' engagement on that NBC Sunday night gasoline program, sponsors of the show plan to broadcast for several weeks from London. Douglas Fairbanks is to be presented in a musical show from across the sea. Beatrice Lillie and Gertrude Lawrence are to be heard in dramas. Several English bands, including Jack Hylton's, also are to be heard. The nearest local outlets are WLW, Cincinnati, and WJR, Detroit.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

FIND HUMORIST T. W. JACKSON SHOT TO DEATH

Mineral Wells, Tex., June 6.—(AP)—Thomas W. Jackson, 67, humorist and author of the book "A Slow Train Through Arkansas," died at a hospital here today a few minutes after he was found shot in his temple. He had been in ill health for some time and had been confined to his home. Mrs. Jackson had just left their home for a walk about the yard when she heard a shot and rushed back to find her husband in the bathroom, mortally wounded.

He is survived also by a son, Harry Jackson, in Chicago.

Nobody will ever know how many millions of Americans whiled away how many millions of miles of travel with the late Thomas W. Jackson's thirteen books.

His first, written around the turn of the nineteenth century, was "On a Slow Train Through Arkansas" and was known in every crossroads town in the United States. His last was "Take a Joy Ride," published in 1933 by the Thomas W. Jackson Publishing company of Chicago.

He was the "train butchers'" Joy. On the rumbling "locals" and "accommodations" they sold many thousands of his paper-covered pulp-paged works.

BRIDGET CONWAY, CHICAGOAN FOR 69 YEARS, DEAD

Mrs. Bridget Conway, 86 years old, who was a resident of the north side for 69 years, died yesterday in her home at 6531 Bosworth avenue, after two weeks' illness. She is survived by two sons, one of whom is Capt. Joseph Conway, acting chief of the 20th battalion of the fire department; two daughters, eleven grandchildren, and eleven great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Conway was born in Ireland in 1848 and came to Chicago in 1865. After her marriage to James Conway, a contractor, the couple lived at Sedgwick and Wendell streets. During the Chicago fire the Conways and three of their children were forced to flee when their home was destroyed. Conway died thirty years ago.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at St. Ignatius' church. Interment will be in Calvary cemetery.

CITY AND COUNTY OFFICIALS HONOR CORR AT FUNERAL

More than 300 city and county officials, as well as a throng of other mourners, filled St. Bernard's church, 68th street and Stewart avenue, yesterday for the funeral services for the late Ald. Frank J. Corr [17th], former acting mayor of Chicago.

Short services were held at the undertaking parlor, 6915 Wentworth avenue; then the funeral procession, including a squad of mounted police and the civic officials on foot, made its way to the church. Services there were in charge of Msgr. John Ryan.

Another procession then followed the body to Holy Sepulchre cemetery. The city hall was closed yesterday, except for the essential service departments, in respect to Mr. Corr.

Mrs. Ella V. Lamberson to Be Buried Tomorrow

Funeral serives for Mrs. Ella V. Lamberson, 83 years old, who died yesterday in her home at 244 East Pearson street, will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the chapel at 4152 North Sheridan road. Mrs. Lamberson was a practitioner in the Christian Science church until her retirement five years ago. She is survived by a son, I. V. Lamberson, 1553 North Clark street. The funeral will be followed by cremation at Graceland cemetery.

Edwin E. Edsall Dies at Home in Oak Park

Edwin E. Edsall, secretary, and for thirty-seven years an employe of the R. J. Ederer company, manufacturers of fish nets, died yesterday at his home, 727 North East avenue, Oak Park. He was 66 years old and had been in ill health for more than a year. Funeral services will be held tomorrow in the chapel at 720 Lake street, Oak Park, and burial will be at Oak Hill cemetery. Mr. Edsall is survived by his widow.

Jesse W. Robins, 74, Retired Rail Official, Dead

Fort Worth, Tex., June 6.—(AP)—Jesse Webster Robins, 74, retired railroad official, died tonight after an illness of nearly two months. At one time he was vice president and general manager of the Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf railroad. Born in Detroit, Mich., he came to Texas in 1895 as secretary to J. B. Fraley of the Santa Fe railroad.

NEW WILLS FILED IN PROBATE COURT

The following wills were filed in the Probate court yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the court:

HARRIE BURGIE COLLINS, died May 22, 1934. Estate of $40,000 to widow, Mrs. Minnie De Lavergne Collins, also named executrix.

WILLIAM ANTHONY SERGE, died April 4, 1934. Estate of $18,000 to two sons and two daughters, Edward, son, executor.

MRS. HATTIE BOLDT, died April 12, 1934. Estate of $10,500 to two sons and an adopted daughter. Two sons, co-executors.

DELAY INQUEST ON KILLING OF NAKED HERMIT

An inquest into the death of Abe Hinkley, 61 years old, "the nude hermit of Thornton," who was shot to death by a farmer near Hazelcrest on Tuesday night, was postponed yesterday for a week pending the appearance of two persons. The authorities hope that these two may clear up some of the mystery surrounding the aged recluse.

Those subpenaed by Deputy Coroner James J. Whelan were Frank Flanigan, former mayor of Thornton, and H. A. Shircliffe, an employé of the Chicago Title and Trust company. Hinkley had lived for the last 15 years in a chicken coop at the rear of Flanigan's home, while the latter, according to Shircliffe, was paid out of Hinkley's small estate, which was administered by the trust company.

According to Shircliffe, Hinkley 35 years ago was adjudged mentally incompetent to handle the affairs of an estate left by his father. It consisted mostly of stocks and then amounted to several thousand dollars, but it was exhausted a month ago. All disbursements were made by permission of the Probate court, Shircliffe said, and since Hinkley went to live with Flanigan the latter had received amounts ranging from $20 to $30 a month. The last payment, $40, was made May 1.

Hinkley was shot to death by Herman Gonlag on the latter's farm after he had fled from Thornton to escape a police investigation of complaints that he was appearing naked and frightening residents of the town.

FR. O'DONNELL'S BURIAL SERVICE HELD ON CAMPUS

The Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., eleventh president of the University of Notre Dame, who died Monday after a lingering illness, was buried yesterday in the Community cemetery on the university campus at South Bend.

The Sacred Heart church was filled when the Very Rev. James D. Donahue, C. S. C., superior general of the Congregation of Holy Cross, sang the solemn requiem high mass, assisted by the Rev. John F. O'Hara, C. S. C., deacon; the Rev. J. Leonard Carrico, C. S. C., subdeacon, and the Rev. Francis J. Wenniger, C. S. C., master of ceremonies.

The Most Rev. John F. Noll, bishop of Fort Wayne, Ind., gave the final benediction. Several hundreds who could not get into the church heard the ceremonies by means of amplifiers instaled in the university quadrangle.

Those who were present at the church followed the funeral procession along a cinder path through the wooded campus to the burial plot. There Father O'Donnell was laid to rest next to the Rev. Daniel E. Hudson, the last priest in the congregation to precede him in death.

At the conclusion of the rites, a firing squad from Company D of the 133d regiment of engineers fired a volley of three shots over the grave and a bugler sounded taps.

MRS. BRUNDAGE FILES SUIT FOR $50,000 INSURANCE

Mrs. Germaine V. Brundage, widow of Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general of Illinois, who was found shot to death in his home at 700 South Ridge avenue, Lake Forest, on Jan. 20, filed suit in the Superior court yesterday to force the payment of approximately $50,000 in insurance to herself and her two minor children, Robert V. and Edward J.

The suit alleges that the death of her husband was an accident and not suicide. A coroner's verdict declared that Mr. Brundage had "apparently committed suicide." The insurance companies have refused to pay because of suicide clauses in the policies.

Defendants named in the suit are the Standard Accident Insurance company of Detroit, the Preferred Accident Insurance company of New York, and Aetna Life Insurance company of Hartford, Conn. Mrs. Margaret A. Friesinger, a sister of Mr. Brundage, also filed suit for $5,460 against the Travelers' company for insurance payable to her. Most of the policies were taken out shortly before Mr. Brundage's death.

Good Morning!

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer called the roll for this one!

Summoned all their own most successful laugh getters. Borrowed Mickey Mouse from Mr. Disney. Sounded the bugle call for song composers and Walter Donaldson and Gus Kahn, Richard Rogers and Lorenz Hart, Donaldson and Dietz, Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed came galloping in with words and music. So . . . "Hollywood Party" is what you might call a mass production.

Wild at the start, the piece gets wilder and wilder as it progresses till, toward the end you wonder if there's anything out of anybody's craziest dream that has been left out. You're grateful for the finale which shows that the whole outlandish concoction was indeed an eveningmare of Schnozzle Durante's as he dozed on his couch preparatory to attending a party at Lupe Velez' house.

The picture shows Mr. Durante as the Great Scharzen [takeoff on Tarzan], whose jungle pictures are losing their pull because of the decrepit condition of his lions. Scharzen has a rival jungle star, the leonine Liondora [George Givot]. Liondora's popularity suffers from the same cause as does Scharzans. Backers of the two see immediate necessity for securing new lions in a hurry.

"H-aa-aah!" haa-aa-aas the great Scharzan. "I will entertain him and his lions at my castle with a Hollywood party such as never has been thrown before even in Hollywood . . . ."

No sooner said than done—to the discomfiture of Liondora who has neither money nor castles with which to approach the baron. On the other hand, Liondora is a man of ideas. Besides being smart in the head he is good at disguises. So, Liondora masquerades as a duke and lays siege to the pride and person of Polly Moran who, as wife of that multimillionaire from Oklahoma, Mr. Charles Butterworth, is nutty over titles and would do just anything to curry favor with a title owner. Henrietta [Polly] is very cocky over the moneyed condition of her Harvey and so is Harvey. Harvey cares what taxi drivers think and tears up $1,000 bills to prove to the meter mixers that he really IS wealthy.

And THEN—there is Lupe Velez, Scharzan's one time leading lady who has been given the gate by the star. Full of pep and punch she crashes the party from which she has been told to stay away, and, after much thissa, thatta and thutta, indulges in an egg breaking episode with Messrs. Laurel and Hardy that, really, threatens to bring down the house.

What are Laurel and Hardy doing there? Well it seems the baron has bought his lions from them and given them a check which can't be cashed. They are there to collect. Also collecting—autographs and bumps on the heads are Ted Healy and his stooges while June Clyde as Harvey's niece and Eddie Quillan as just somebody or other add a light romantic song and dance touch to the addled proceedings.

The music is pleasing and some of the ensembles look expensive. As for the rest it's just a rattle-brained riot, and not a soul connected with it pretends it's anything else.

See you soon!

Sunburn Doesn't Bother Joan

Joanie's mother has at last found an inexpensive lotion with which her small daughter may douse herself when she goes to the beach. It prevents sunburn, promotes a tan and isn't messy to use. [TRIBUNE Photo. Joan Limbach posing.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Escaping the skin ravages of the sun is simpler this season than ever before. Once you settle the question of tanning or not tanning your task is simple. The bronze babies take to oil and cream that promote the golden tint; the bisque dolls who choose blithely to remain delicately pink and white stick to stanch protectives.

The mother of a flock of children, all blonde, who crisp up on the first sunshiny day, asked us recently to find some lotion or cream for her brood that was inexpensive enough to use generously. The oils, she decided, were all right for grownups who weren't inclined to make mud pies or burrow in the sand, but she wanted something a bit less gooey for her sun suited youngsters.

A white lotion, an emulsion, that is widely sold around Chicago, seems to us to be the answer for children and grownups as well, who seek a protective tan promoter that is inexpensive. It's one of those triple-threat affairs. Used generously and provided also that the user isn't a perfect ninny about staying in the sun too long during the hottest hours, it will prevent sunburn. It will encourage a tan; in fact you can choose the degree of tan you'd like to have and slather it on accordingly. And if you've gone out unarmed and got a burn for your naughtiness you'll find this lotion soothing and healing.

It is more moist than a protective of the vanishing cream type, but used sparingly it is almost like a foundation.

Because of its price it will have a special appeal to the sunbathers who lap up bottles and bottles of this sort of thing in the course of a summer. And we think it's all it claims to be—a protective, tanning agent and balm to the stings if you should get a burn.

Offer Hosiery Shades to Fit White Shoes

BY RHEA SEEGER.

There are two new hosiery shades for white shoes that are a find—pale golden tints that have just enough gray to make them ideal all around shades for summer cottons or silk prints. Ask for "extra dry" or "liqueur," names of shades that are as exciting and as stimulating as they sound.

Wear them with smart street oxfords and tie pumps, as well as the slender white sandals that dance in and out beneath the flounces of your ruffled organdies and printed nets. These two new tints will be equally effective with summer sandals of satin, dyed silk, or the more dress parade affairs of glittering, rhinestone bejeweled sandals that are as sensational as anything you ever used for foot decoration.

Good looking white footwear is being unpacked daily. Some very cool and comfortable affairs of fabric trimmed with white leather will be available in strap sandals and tie oxfords. They can be dyed to accent or to harmonize with any and all of your summer frocks, which is just an additional reason why they will be successful.

Perforated models are punched or patterned with much imagination this summer, the perforations massed in decorative designs such as graceful long leaves, swirls, and V formations that achieve slenderizing lines on the chubbiest of feet.

Yellow footwear is something to use for unusual costume accents . . . tiny scraps of yellow sandals are footnotes of feminine allure 'neath the ruffles of a cucumber green dance dress, or startling contrast with sapphire blue sheers, and knockout with filmy black. Sheer organdy gloves to match will make an ensemble that will practically stop traffic on the most crowded of dance floors.

Yellow also is used for contrast with all white spectator sports clothes—shoes of yellow, ascot or bandana scarf of yellow, a jaunty yellow hat, and the costume is charmingly complete as well as different. If you yearn to try another color, use these lovely new yellow shades in costume accessories that are now ready for the summer spotlight.

Urges "Hardening" Children to Increase Resistance to Colds

The "hardening" of children to produce an increased resistance against the common cold was recommended yesterday by Dr. Robert E. Cummings, associate professor of pediatrics at Loyola university, who addressed the Illinois conference of the Catholic Hospital association at the Drake hotel.

"The child should be clothed so as to be kept sensibly and comfortably warm," Dr. Cummings said. "If it is found that he perspires profusely when out at play, he is dressed too warmly. If he is chilly he needs more clothing. The average American home is kept too warm, the excess of which is contributory to colds."

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

A COSMIC plan that attends to minor matters perhaps accounts for the second in this week's list of coincidences. An antique silver teapot is an heirloom in the family of Emma Lee Walton, and when the cook put the teapot on the stove and melted off one of its feet there was despair in the household. It was taken to the jewelry repair department of a loop store which guaranteed to make another foot exactly like the original. When the teapot was delivered the price was considerably less than had been estimated. Investigation disclosed that the day after the teapot had been left at the repair department a woman had left a second silver teapot, asking that the old-fashioned feet be removed and replaced with modern ones. The discarded feet were exactly like the one melted off the Waltons' teapot.

PERHAPS you remember the dismal sepia prints that used to hang on the schoolroom wall when you were a child? We recall perfectly a bad print of the Colosseum, a dull brown copy of "Pharaoh's Horses" and an exceptionally poor print of "Washington Crossing the Delaware." It was only in later years that we became acquainted with Cezanne and Van Gogh, with Renoir and Rousseau, and it is a little exciting to realize that some modern pictures now hang on schoolroom walls. This is by virtue of the Public School Art society of which Mrs. Walter S. Brewster is president, which purchases fine prints of fine pictures for the public schools. Mr. and Mrs. Brewster are opening th ir estate in Lake Forest, Covin Tree, next Saturday and Sunday, with fifty cent admission to the grounds and to the house and its fine collection of paintings, for the be nefit of the Public School Art society.

Mrs. Brewster was the unnamed lady in the story we printed some weeks ago about a critical English novelist [E. M. Delafield] who commented, after reading Miss Delafield's account of her evening at the Brewsters' in Harpers Magazine, that she didn't know a woman who looked so much like a horse could act so much like a cat.

"Now anybody can come and see if their views coincide with those of Miss Delafield," said Mrs. Brewster, speaking of her open house to the public next week-end. "I'll even get out the mauve chiffon she didn't like and the uncut amethysts she liked, if it'll help any."

BEFORE we leave the su ject of the schoolroom pictures you might like to know that among the favorites of the children are "Red Horses" by M rc, and the flower pictures of Van Gogh. Reproductions of the classics are hung on the schoolroom walls, too, however, so that there is opportunity for knowing both them and the moderns.

PERHAPS some of you absorbed in the realities of life are unaware of certain of the more superficial niceties. One of them was characterized by a charming lady of our acquaintance who received a box of orchids, accompanied by a note from a stranger who had been given a letter of introduction by a New York friend. Tearing open the box, she inspected the fragile, purple lipped blooms, two on a slender stalk.

"Good. He knows enough not to have ribbons on the orchids. I'll have him for tea," she pronounced.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McNair Kahler have returned to their home in Princeton for the summer after passing the winter at Delray Beach, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron C. Taylor, who have been at their villa in Florence, Italy, since April, are expected soon at Killingworth, their estate on Bayville road, where they will pass the early part of the summer, later going to Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pulitzer Jr. will pass the season at Glen Head, where they have leased Wrencroft, in Cedar Swamp road. Mr. and Mrs. L. J. De Milhau, owners of Wrencroft, will occupy the Hanks place nearby.

Miss Wheeler Is Engaged to H. L. McIntyre

Announcement Is Made at Cocktail Party.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MRS. ROBERT C. WHEELER of 1447 Astor street announces the engagement of her daughter, Winifred, to Henry L. McIntyre, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. McIntyre of St. Louis, is the interesting news that heads the society column this morning. While the announcement of Miss Wheeler's engagement is not a surprise to her friends it is still news of the first rank for Miss Wheeler is one of the most popular young women in Chicago and her fiancé, who has lived in Chicago only a year although he has visited here often, is equally well liked and has many friends here.

The announcement was made yesterday evening at a cocktail party at the Wheeler home at which quite a large number of Miss Wheeler's and Mr. McIntyre's friends wished them happiness and drank a toast to their good health and long lives.

Miss Wheeler attended the University School for Girls, Dobbs Ferry, and Smith college. She made her debut at a tea at home in November, 1930, and later she and her cousin, Miss Virginia Waller, daughter of the William Wallers, were fêted at the first ball of that season, a Chinese party in the crystal ballroom at the Blackstone, given by their parents.

Later Miss Wheeler attended the University of Chicago. She interrupted her studies there last winter long enough to take a trip around the world with her mother, but she will continue with her classes next fall.

Mr. McIntyre attended the St. Louis Country Day school and graduated from Princeton. He is just completing his first year at the Northwestern university law school, but he and Miss Wheeler will be married before he receives his degree. The wedding probably will take place next June, a year from now.

Mrs. Wheeler and the Wallers have summer homes at Harbor Point, Mich., where the two families—Miss Wheeler has one brother, Robert T. Wheeler—spend the hot season. They all will be going north later than usual this summer.

First Showing of Breasted Film Tonight.

Society will be traveling south tonight, some as far as the University of Chicago and others only as far as the 31st street entrance to the Fair. Those who go to the university will be going to the International House theater, where the Oriental institute's moving picture, "The Human Adventure," will be given its premiere showing for the benefit of the University of Chicago settlement.

Dr. James H. Breasted is to introduce the showing himself, and every one of the 620 persons who can be accommodated in the theater is looking forward with keen interest to seeing this movie which sketches man's conquest of civilization. The settlement is to benefit again by a showing tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the same theater, at which Dr. Breasted's son, Charles, will be the master of ceremonies. Seats for this performance will not be reserved.

Many socialites have taken tickets for tonight's showing, and there are to be a number of dinner parties before it, among the hostesses being Mrs. Arthur H. Compton, whose husband, Prof. Compton, is the retiring president of the settlement board, and Mrs. Phillip Miller. Some of Mrs. Compton's guests will be Dr. Breasted, Mrs. Martin A. Ryerson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Carpenter, Miss Elizabeth Wallace, and Harry Bigelow.

Woman's Symphony Will Play at Fair.

The gala social affair at the Fair tonight will be the opening of the Ford gardens with a buffet supper at the Blue lounge of the Ford building preceding it. The Woman's Symphony orchestra is to give a concert from 8 to 10 o'clock in the shell across from the building, and young society girls will act as ushers.

Between 150 and 160 women will play cards this afternoon in the Lake Forest home of Mrs. William A. P. Pullman for the benefit of the woman's guild of the Presbyterian church in Lake Forest. The money will go to the fund for aged ministers.

Mrs. Pullman's parents, the C.

Miss Burnham Becomes Bride at Home Rites

Married to James Stone at Evanston.

Before the fifteenth century fireplace and tapestry which dominate the music room of the lovely Italian residence in Evanston of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Burnham, the elder daughter of the family, Cherie, became the bride yesterday afternoon of James Warren Lyman Stone. The service was read at 4:30 o'clock by the Rev. Charles Bowen of St. Mark's Episcopal church, in the presence of about 250 relatives and friends.

Calla lilies and greens almost hid from view the fireplace. The bridal couple knelt on two prie-dieux that are family heirlooms. The bride wore a fine off-white lace gown with long sleeves, a high neckline in front and a low one in back, and a long train. Her veil of tulle fell from a Juliet cap of lace edged with pearls. She carried gardenias and white orchids.

Her only attendant, her sister Mardi, wore fluffy pink organdy and a wide brimmed Leghorn hat trimmed with a blue ribbon. She carried a tightly packed bouquet of gardenias. The bride's mother was in champagne chiffon with a hat to match. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. James L. Stone, is ill, so she and her husband did not come from their home in Bristol, Va., for the ceremony.

Capt. John Kooreman of Chicago served as Mr. Stone's best man. Following the ceremony the guests walked across the street to the residence of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Daniel H. Burnham, where a reception was held.

A broken hip has prevented Mrs. Burnham from leaving her home in Pasadena, so she was unable to be here for her granddaughter's wedding.

Mr. Stone will take his bride to Lake Charles, La., to reside.

Play Directors to Start Training Course Today

Recreational leaders who are to direct the leisure time program for Chicago children during the summer will begin a training course of two weeks today on McKinlock campus of Northwestern university. Four hundred men and women, on the rolls of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, will attend the training institute, which is conducted jointly by the Chicago Council of Social Agencies and the sociology department of Northwestern university. Plans have already been completed for the clearing of vacant lots by work relief labor, and the conditioning of the properties for playground centers.

When the graduates of Mundelein college received their diplomas yesterday from Cardinal Mundelein at the commencement exercises held at the college at Sheridan road and the lake, among the young women was the cardinal's niece, Miss Rita Eppig, 827 Ashland avenue, Wilmette. There were 88 graduates in the class.

Miss Eppig received also the gold key, the highest honor given by the college, in recognition of scholarship, spirit, and service. She was a member of the Organ guild, the Piano club, and the Philosophy club, the subject in which she majored.

Give Dinner Tonight for Morse, Retiring Principal

Frank L. Morse, Harrison Technical High school principal, who is retiring after 46 years as a teacher and executive in the Chicago schools, will be the guest at a reception and dinner in the Union League club this evening. Members of the faculty of Harrison high are giving the dinner. Guests will include Supt. William J. Bogan and Joseph J. Salat, representing the board of education. Mr. Morse has been principal of Harrison High school since it opened 25 years ago.

THE WRONG MAN

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Cara Follette, only daughter of a Canadian business man, anticipates becoming her father's partner. While traveling in Europe, studying languages and making business contacts, she meets Jerry Flint, a poor young English singer. She decides to take him to Toronto, where she can get him auditions impossible for him to gain abroad. Benjamin Follette and his wife, Anny, had grown apart in the years he was busy becoming successful. Now Follette is about to lose his business to his rival, Redman Harmer. Harmer recently returned from Europe, where he saw and fell in love with Cara. He asks Follette for a special opportunity, approved by him, of meeting his daughter. When Cara returns home her father tells her of his failure and urges her to meet Harmer. It would mean much to him and he likes Harmer. Cara decides to go up northwest to Mulligan's camp for a month to think it over. Meanwhile no one is to get an inkling of their business troubles. Anny will find friends for Jerry Flint, whom Cara has decided she loves. Cara is going to sell her car for expense money. Before turning it in she goes on a wild drive in the country and runs out of gas. A stranger who has followed her in a car takes her back to town, where she meets Jerry for dinner. The stranger, unknown to Cara, is Redman Harmer.

INSTALMENT XVI.

LOVERS' PARTING.

It was after dinner, in a far corner of the now completely deserted lounge, that Cara broke her news to him. Jerry stared at her amazed, broke into protest.

"Why? Why? Why? Are they afraid of me—your parents?"

"It isn't only that."

"Then why should you promise your father to go away for a month when you've only just got home?"

"He knew that last year I wanted to go to Mulligan's camp—and instead he sent me to Europe. Well, wasn't that lucky, dear? I met you."

Their hands touched and clung.

"Yes, that was lucky," he said. "But this!"

"Work is a little slack at this time of year——"

"Yet he cabled for you to come home!"

"Perhaps he thought my letters didn't seem too industrious!"

"You're keeping something from me."

She was keeping the news of an earthquake from him. He must not guess.

"I have a right to know," he said arrogantly.

"O, no, Jerry. We decided, didn't we—to wait for your success before you were hampered with——?"

"Hampered with what?"

"With love." The word was new and delicious, and now bitterly sad to her.

"Yes. But I wanted to stay near you as long as I could."

He stared at her without blinking. His eyes were swords cutting to her heart. She could not tell what her face divulged. Then suddenly he guessed a part of it, and cried:

"Of course, they want you to marry some one else. Some damned millionaire, I'll bet."

"Forgive me, Cara, I need you near me."

"Jerry," she said, "I can't tell you more."

"Ah, but they have another man for you? I'll bet it's one of these great dirty business mergers——"

"Follette's does no dirty business!"

"I'm sorry." He kissed her hands, and held them fast. "Forgive me, Cara. I need you near me. I need you so."

He saw, with the speed of his flaming imagination, love and wealth at once slipping from him.

"Stay, because I need you, Cara."

"I can't because I've promised to go."

"A lifetime's absence couldn't do it, Jerry."

He looked at her wonderingly and with passion. He knew more than she did of love. "That isn't so," he denied slowly.

"I shall go, Jerry."

When he saw tears steal down her cheeks he knew that she would go. Tears with her were not weaknesses, and he was intuitive enough to know it. Tears were the sign of some bitter ultimate courage needed of her.

"Then marry me first, quietly, tomorrow."

She started. He had seen love and despair on a girl's face before, but not such love and despair as were suddenly drawn on the face of this girl.

"No, Jerry."

"Why not?"

"One has duties. A trust is a trust. O, Jerry, Jerry, I'll come back."

"You'll forget me!"

"No. You will forget me."

"You don't want me to forget you, Cara?"

"I shall have to want what is best."

Then she switched desperately to: "I'm selling my car tomorrow."

"Selling your car! Why?"

As quickly as his surmise ran she caught up with it. "Flinney made me an offer. I shan't want a car with me. And I'm having a beauty when I come back."

"O," he said. "Lucky one, aren't you? Tell me just where you're going, and when, and all about it, darling."

She began to point out spots. "I go the day after tomorrow, by rail. Eight o'clock in the morning from here to Edmonton. Change and go northwest to—here, see Jerry? To Clumberjack. There the railway ends. Then on down Peace river to Athabaska, and down to Great Slave lake. Then Mulligan or one of his boys meets me with horses and we've thirty miles to ride, mostly through forest, to the camp. Mulligan's quite a well known guide. Father's hunted with him, though I've never been there. See. The camp must be just about here, a mile or two east of the reservation."

"Yes."

Forcing her voice, she went on:

"I'll hunt all day. There's a lake here—look, Swan lake. The orchids'll be out on the banks, I expect. I'll fish. We get to the lake by canoe down a creek somewhere here. There's pretty stiff portage to be done I'm told—you know, carrying your canoe when you can't go any further by water, sometimes. This isn't any dude stuff. It's real." She laughed tremblingly. "I'm getting my kit together—I have most of it. I've hunted with father on vacations, as if I were a boy."

"Yes," he said again.

He had become strangely quiet. He was now suddenly amenable. "All right," he said, "I go!"

She forced herself on.

"I just want to say I'll leave you half the money for my car. A thousand dollars. You quite see I'd better not ask father for unexplained cash."

"I hate taking it," he protested, very low, "but I'm broke. It's a loan."

"Only gifts between you and me," she whispered back very sweetly. There was no one at all in the dim lounge. They kissed. "Cara," he whispered then, when he felt the surge of her heart against his, "come up to my room, where we can be quiet, where we can be happy."

"No, Jerry. No."

"That elevator boy could be squared with a dollar.

"No," she said trembling, and wanting to go with him anywhere alone, in quietness and darkness. "No."

He was terribly anxious to make no false step.

"You're not offended that I want you so?"

"I couldn't be, when I'm the same!"

"And if you came now, perhaps in the morning you'd marry me."

"That isn't the way. It just—isn't."

"As you say," he whispered humbly. "I'm your servant and your lover and I adore you."

"Take me home!"

He took her home in a taxicab circuitously. A wild ride. 'How can I leave you?" he said. "How can I leave you?" she answered.

Then the house set in the big gardens with the moon white above them, Anny, Benjamin, the worshiping dogs. Cara knew without the slightest indecision that she would go to Mulligan's and that Anny, if she could, would get Jerry Flint out of this city.

Daintiness Is Required This Washtub Year

Crisp Cotton Frocks Only Complement Charm.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You don't pick up magazine or newspaper but you are aware that this is a washtub summer for clothes. What with the striped cottons, the plaid cottons, and the checked cottons, to say nothing of robbing the bed of its candlewick spread and windows of their chintz and cretonne drapes for frock material, there's going to be a powerful lot of clothes washing going on. Which brings us to what goes on back of the dress scene itself. Meaning, of course, a very much scrubbed and tubbed and powdered YOU. The material in the frock, amusing, charming, as it may be, is only one-quarter of the summer girl's conquest. If she radiates the cleanly glow that children exhibit after their warm sudsy bath and shower, she can rob the dish towel drawer for dress material and be a charmer. But if she's the least bit mussy herself, heaven help her this super-tubbed year.

I don't believe that, in any of the cosmetic branches, there have been, of recent days, the grand opportunities for that lettuce-crisp look that the soap, bath salt, body powder, deodorant and such makers have to offer. The beauty of it is that you do not have to be related to the caretaker of the mint, either, to own them. You have to have one good sudsy bath in warm water a day, and a shower. When it gets a bit warmer a second shower will be just that much more assuring. There's on use on earth going in for bath powders of deodorants unless this basic tubbing is religiously attended.

Nothing is quite so disillusioning as a raised arm that exposes a perspiration strain. It suggests an odor, whether present or not. It usually is present, however. The perspiration-checking remedies on the market are excellent, and some of them now so cleverly put up, it requires no risk and but a minute to apply. Only follow instructions and don't overdo on the liquid astringents for this purpose. There are other kinds of deodorants in cream form, even easier to apply, that neutralize body odors. The main thing, however, is to be aware of the need of precaution in this respect. To be constantly aware of it, so that no day will number you among the offenders.

Announcement Is Made at Cocktail Party.

Frederick Childs and their son, Newell, who completes his junior year at Yale university shortly, are sailing next week for Europe to be away for six weeks. Upon their return they will open their house in Lake Forest for the rest of the summer.

At a very quiet wedding this afternoon to which just the immediate families and the closest friends of the bride and bridegroom have been invited, Miss Cornelia Fairbanks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Fairbanks, will become the bride of Frederick A. Poole Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Poole. The Rev. Dudley S. Stark will read the ceremony at 5 o'clock in the Fairbanks' 1500 Lake Shore drive apartment.

The Countess Ruggiero Visconti, the former Edith Fairbanks, will be her sister's only attendant, and Count Visconti will serve Mr. Poole as best man. Around July 1, after a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, Mr. Poole and his bride will be at home in an apartment on the north side.

Dinner Saturday for Cummingses.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Cummings are giving a dinner Saturday evening at the Drake hotel for Attorney General and Mrs. Homer S. Cummings, who will be making a short visit to Chicago this week-end. The attorney general is to give the commencement address at Lake Forest college Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, after which he will be awarded the honorary degree of doctor of laws. Mr. and Mrs. Cummings will return to Washington Sunday after a short visit to the Fair.

The Laurence O. Wilsons have moved from their Lake Forest house, which they have rented to the Hart Johnsons for the summer, to an apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive recently vacated by Mr. Wilson's aunt, Miss Irene Wilson. Miss Wilson has gone to her summer home at Westbrook, Conn.

Mrs. Walter Ayer and her daughter, Miss Janet Ayer, and Mrs. Ayer's sister, Miss Mildred McCormick, are arriving in Chicago this evening after a trip of several months through the far east. Miss McCormick will remain in Chicago for a few days with the Ayers.

Miss Caryl Bloomingston, daughter of the John A. Bloomingstons, is leaving Chicago Monday for a holiday in the west. She is going out to Pasadena to visit friends and incidentally will attend the end of the term festivities at Leland Stanford university.

The Countess de Gramedo has arrived from Paris and is visiting her mother, Mrs. Harry Spenser-Brown. The countess' son, Jean, will arrive here in July after the close of his school year.

John L. Senior Jr., is being graduated today from the Brooks academy and in the autumn he will enter Harvard. Miss Mary Senior sailed last Friday for England.

Exercises Today at Sarah Lawrence.

There will be many sheepskins hanging in new frames in various houses in the suburbs shortly as soon as the graduates from eastern colleges and schools return to their homes. Among those who will be graduated today from the Sarah Lawrence college in Bronxville, N. Y., are Miss Mary Louise Morris, Miss Marian Fairweather, Miss Pauline Spiegel, Miss Patricia Calkins, Miss Nancy Harris, and Miss Margaret Feyn.

Miss Allene Withers, who is finishing her first year at Sarah Lawrence, has the leading rôle in an operetta written and produced recently by the students, and Miss Frances Fairweather had one of the important parts in it.

Miss Betty Archer of Evanston is among the graduates of Connecticut college. Her mother, Mrs. J. D'Wolf Archer, went east for the exercises. They will visit in the east for a few weeks before returning home.

Miss Elizabeth Ferriss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Ferriss of St. Charles, was graduated recently from the Erskine school in Boston. Previously she attended the Bennett school in Millbrook, N. Y.

Homer Laing Dixon Jr., who will be graduated today from the Berkshire school in Sheffield, Mass., is president of his class. Among his classmates from Chicago and the suburbs are Graham Fairbank, Mrs. Dexter Fairbank's son; Edward Bertha Jr., John B. Elliott, and Sanford White.

Barbara Sholes James to Be Bride.

Miss Barbara Sholes James, daughter of Mrs. George F. James, is going to be married to Richard Hayne Sampson on the evening of June 15 in the Church of the Redeemer. She will be attended by Miss Jane Ellen Hodge, a schoolmate at the University of Chicago. Edwin W. Sims Jr. will serve Mr. Sampson as best man.

Miss Ruth Kimball Graff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Graff of 4523 Greenwood avenue, will be married to John Greer MacKechnie, on Saturday, June 16, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Only members of the immediate family will be present because of the illness of the bride's father. Mr. MacKechnie and his bride will be at home after June 25, at 174 Summit avenue, Summit, N. J.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will entertain at a luncheon Friday for His Grace Prince Fumimaro Kanoye, president of the Japanese house of peers, who will arrive in Washington tomorrow.

Mrs. Roosevelt left tonight accompanied by Mrs. Harold L. Ickes, wife of the secretary of the interior; Bernard Baruch, and a group of officials for Reedsville, W. Va., to visit a subsistence homestead project there.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He is captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, and has won twenty national championships since 1923.

RESPONDING TO ONE NO TRUMP WITH A FIVE-CARD SUIT.

When you have only four-card suits to bid, it is true in a general way that the weaker the suit, the greater the inducement to let the hand play in three no trumps, as the likelihood of losing four tricks in any declaration is a very prominent factor. Only when the responding player's four-card major suit is distinctly strong, as A Q x x or A J 10 x, with a singleton in the hand and more than minimum total of primary tricks, should he feel eager to play the hand in the suit.

When the responding partner has a five-card suit, the situation is exactly the reverse. The weaker his hand—assuming that it is not so feeble that he must pass—the greater the need to bid and rebid the suit. This is because a five-card suit offers a safety refuge which is not available for a four-card suit. With a five-card suit, one can convey a warning of weakness by rebidding it. Four-card suits may not be rebid unless raised by partner, and then only in very exceptional circumstances when there is no danger of a misfit and only a remote possibility that the game contract will not be easy to fulfill.

More Theory.

By insisting that no trumps be not bid originally with a worthless doubleton, we provide against the risk of a complete misfit for any five-card suit in the responding hand. It will always find trump support to the extent of at least Q x or x x x, and generally something very much more substantial than this. Then again, the weaker the support for any one suit, the stronger the rest of the opening bidder's holdings in the other three suits, or the greater the probability that he has a strong unbid five-card suit in which to find a safer contract.

Since, therefore, a five-card take-out will find enough support in the opener's hand to guard against there being a real misfit, it is not only safe, but also highly advisable, that the responder should take out even with a very weak suit in a very weak hand. Now that we are dealing with a five-card suit, the bid is not only constructive, it is also an insurance against a bad no trump contract, offering as it does an escape into a suit contract which may be defeated but cannot constitute a serious misfit, or be severely penalized.

From the constructive point of view, the advantages of having a five-card suit to work with are readily apparent. Guarded against the risk of a down-right misfit by the implication of the original no trumper, the five-card suit will generally be brought into useful action, perhaps only after conceding one or even two tricks in it to the enemy. It should serve, in no trump play, to give the declarer discards of losers from his own hand; by forcing the opponents to discard, it will guide and assist his development of plays in other suits, not without hope of squeeze or end play.

Furthermore, if he does have to concede one or two tricks in the long suit in order to clear it, the adversaries will, after taking these tricks, by making leads which will remove guesses or save tricks for him. When he has to concede two tricks in the long suit, his other holdings should be so fortified with tenaces or high cards that he is likely to gain substantially every time the opponents have to make a lead.

To sum up, the possession of a five-card suit to work with offers advantages of play far greater than one or two additional high cards in a short-suited responding hand. The latter's playing values are apparent and visible. The former's are latent and therefore far more difficult to parry.

BY MARY MEADE.

Up goes the curtain and "The Drama of the Salmon" is about to be enacted in Alaskan waters. Salmon fleets, word arrives, are leaving shortly, bearing cannery crews and cargoes of equipment, bound for northern shores. And, lest you have been dallying with the idea that salmon is just something to 'scallop, salad, cream, or fritter, with no stars to boast of in its nutritional crown, grasp these facts. Within each finny salmon lie the important vitamins A and D, together with such items as iodine, iron, fluorine, calcium, and phosphorus. Quite an embarrassment of riches for one modest fish to hold.

And since we maintain that even better than conjuring up new dishes is the art of making the old ones better here arrives a loaf which any self-satisfied salmon would be proud to claim:

SALMON LOAF.
For Hustling Housewives.

1 No. 1 can salmon
1½ cups soft bread crums
2 hard cooked eggs, chopped
1 cup thick white sauce, seasoned
Salt and pepper

Bone and flake the salmon. Mix this together with the bread crums, chopped eggs, and thick white sauce. Add salt and pepper to taste. Press the mixture into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for half an hour. This will serve six and creates the greatest stir when offered up with the following nippy sauce:

SAUCE PIQUANTE.
For Salmon Loaf.

1 cup medium white sauce
1-3 cup chopped sweet pickles
2 hard cooked eggs, chopped fine

Blend the three ingredients and heat until piping. Serve hot over slices of salmon loaf.

Likewise, although you may take some convincing on this score, salmon makes a superior running mate for the great hearted and odoriferous onion. The large white ones are the kind, with a creamy salmon mixture for stuffing. Proceed thusly:

SALMON STUFFED ONIONS.

6 large white onions
1 No. 1 can salmon
1 cup thick white sauce
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup rolled, dry bread crums

Boil the onions in slightly salted water until just tender. Cool slightly and remove the centers. Bone and flake the salmon, combining it with the chopped onion centers, the white sauce, salt, pepper, and half of the bread crums. Stir in one tablespoon of melted butter. Mix this collection carefully together and stuff it back into the onion shells. Sprinkle over the onions the remaining bread crums and dot with the final tablespoon of butter. Place them in a buttered baking dish and brown in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for fifteen minutes.

Or tease your salmon into cake shapes and lavish over these your best hot mushroom sauce.

SALMON PATTIES WITH MUSHROOM SAUCE.

1 No. 1 tall can salmon
7 soda crackers, rolled finely
2 eggs, well beaten
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
2 tablespoons butter
½ pound mushrooms
2 cups medium thick white sauce
½ pimiento

Bone and flake the salmon, mixing it with the cracker crums, eggs, and seasonings. Form this combination into flat patties and brown them in a hot frying pan containing a small amount of fat. Meanwhile melt the two tablespoons of butter in a saucepan and lightly brown in it the peeled mushrooms and chopped stems. Add these to the hot, seasoned white sauce. Stir in the pimiento, cut in short strips. Heat quickly and serve over the hot salmon cakes.

Woodruff Will Quit as Head of Opera Here

BY EDWARD MOORE.

In a letter to the directors of the Chicago Grand Opera company made public yesterday, George Woodruff, president of the organization, points out that the affairs of the company for the 1934 season are in a highly promising condition, and because of that fact, asks the acceptance of his resignation as president.

The need for giving more time to his own business affairs is stated by Mr. Woodruff to be the reason for his present action. Explaining that last winter he agreed to continue as president until such time as his interests might require more of his time, but in any event until the preliminary arrangements for the 1934 season were completed, the letter continues:

"I am glad to report that we have prepared a proposed 1934 repertoire of a very attractive nature, have received assurance of cooperation on a generous basis from a considerable number of artists, have negotiated preliminary understandings with the various groups that make up an opera company, have received subscriptions for seats amounting to a large percentage of the available space in the opera house, and have sold through our efficient box committee more boxes than were sold during the entire season last winter.

"In addition to this fine start, we have assurances that a considerable number of those interested in the opera will subscribe to a guarantee fund, and in view of these facts I feel that the 1934 season of opera is so well assured that I am justified in giving more attention to certain of my business interests and requesting the directors to relieve me of the responsibility of acting as president during the balance of the year.

"I will of course expect to extend my hearty cooperation and best assistance to the person chosen to carry the main responsibility of the coming season. I am under vast obligation to the directors for the opportunity they have given me to participate in this most interesting musical accomplishment. We will hold a meeting in the near future for the purpose of somewhat revamping our organization."

ENGAGEMENTS

Bishop and Mrs. Ernest Lynn Waldorf, 941 Sheridan road, Wilmette, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ethel Margaret, to the Rev. Albert Benjamin Wagner, son of Mrs. John Wagner of Cuthbertson, Neb. Miss Waldorf is a graduate of Syracuse university and holds the degree of master of arts from Northwestern university. The Rev. Mr. Wagner is a graduate of North Central college at Naperville, Ill., and is a member of the graduating class of the Garrett Biblical institute in Evanston. He is minister of the Methodist Episcopal church of Crystal Lake. The wedding will take place June 14.

Mr. and Mrs. George Donnersberger of Highland Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Wilhelmina, to Stewart Hunn Moore, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. D. N. Moore of Hubbard Woods. Miss Donnersberger is a granddaughter of the late Joseph Donnersberger of Wilmette.

Roscoe Karns, Film Comedian, Wed 15 Years

Buys a New Carpet Sweeper for His Wife.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 6.—[Special.]—Today was the fifteenth wedding anniversary for Roscoe Karns and Mrs. Matilda Frass Karns, and the movie funny man presented the frau with a gayly painted carpet sweeper.

"She's always chawing about the slipshod work servants do," Karns explained, "so I got her her own special instrument and no maid will be allowed to touch it."

More to Mrs. Karns' liking was the bale of flowers which arrived to symbolize the day and the new outfit from head to foot which, upon her husband's urging, she went out to the modistes to shop for. And the pair made a gay twosome in the evening on the Cocoanut Grove dancing floor.

Karns was seen on the set of George Bancroft's current picture, "Ladies First," at Paramount, where he was all eagerness to get home, play a few more jokes on the wife, see the new outfit and celebrate the day properly, when he confessed that his fifteen years of matrimony has had some disappointments.

"For instance," Karns says, "there is the difficulty of making any impression whatsoever on my boy." The boy is Roscoe Karns Jr., 13. "He is bored to death because his father is in the movies. He shrugs because I get fan mail. I was asked to sign a testimonial for some toilet soap, and the boy got awfully pained. He said, 'Aw, pop, you wouldn't do anything like that, would you? Toilet soap! Why, that's positively sissy!' The chief thing that boy takes pride in is his golf game. He always goes round in low nineties."

The Karns' other child, Mary Jane, 12, is proud of the movie prominence her father has attained in the last year. Mary Jane probably will tilt her head a little higher when "Ladies First" is released, for her dad is giving George Bancroft an awful run for his money in dominating some of the scenes.

Mrs. Karns is not in the movies. The couple were married in Santa Ana, Cal. Karns, like Stu Erwin, is one of those rare native sons like Leo Carrillo and Buddy De Sylva who bob up among the regiments of New Yorkers, Europeans, and middle westerners who have made good in the movies. Karns is from San Bernardino county. When you see him or Stu Erwin playing a scene with rustic implicity you are seeing the real thing. Mr. Erwin from Squaw Valley, Cal., and Mr. Karns from San Bernardino county are just a couple of country boys skimming some of the cream off the movie pay rolls and, O, how glad they are to get it.

Two weeks following the auto accident in which a motorist drove through a signal, demolished Gordon Westcott's car, and injured Westcott, the latter figured in another auto crash. It was on a one way thoroughfare between Los Angeles and San Pedro, and a woman driver suddenly turned her car around in the middle of a block. Westcott's car hit hers and both the woman and the man riding with her suffered brain concussions.

Oscar Hammerstein, who's just arrived from New York to write and produce musical pictures, says Hollywood has been putting too much sex in lyrics, and that's why so many film musicals have not clicked. He says sex in movies no longer is shocking or arresting—"it's just boresome."

U. of I. Class of 2,500 to Get Diplomas

Approximately 2,500 University of Illinois students will receive academic awards at the 83d annual commencement services in Chicago and at Urbana.

The Chicago group, students in the colleges of medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy, will receive their degrees tomorrow morning in the Civic Opera house. A medical clinic, which began yesterday and will continue until tomorrow, is being held in connection with the commencement.

Dr. Arthur Hill Daniels, acting president, will present the degrees and deliver the address here.

At Urbana the program begins Saturday morning with a general alumni meeting. Baccalaureate services will be held Sunday afternoon with the Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, Episcopal bishop of Chicago, officiating.

The commencement exercises for approximately 2,100 students graduating from the Urbana departments will be held Monday morning. The list includes 763 graduates from Cook county.

Dr. Daniels likewise will deliver the commencement address at Champaign.

Bachelor of science degrees will be awarded 180 members of the graduating class of Armour Institute of Technology at commencement exercises this afternoon in the Goodman theater. Advanced degrees will be conferred on fifteen students.

The 79th annual commencement of Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, was held yesterday afternoon with President Edmund Davison Soper, of Ohio Wesleyan university, giving the address. Yesterday morning the members of the seminary together with many Chicago Methodist pastors were addressed by Dr. Benjamin Gregory, editor of the London Methodist Times and Leader.

Alumni of the two merged theological seminaries which now form Seabury Western seminary, Evanston, will assemble today for the 49th annual commencement exercises. This afternoon a memorial service for Dr. William Gold, first warden of Western seminary, will be held. The commencement dinner will be held tonight at the Georgian hotel with the principal address given by Spencer Miller of New York, noted Episcopal social service leader. Other speakers will be Bishop Stephen E. Keeler of Minnesota and former rector of St. Chrysostom's church, Bishop George Craig Stewart, President Frederick C. Grant, and William Hanner, a member of the graduating class.

Frederic Woodward, vice president of the University of Chicago, will give an address tonight at the graduating exercises of the Faulkner school in the Kenwood church.

Nearly 500 students in the adult education and Americanization classes of the Chicago public schools will receive diplomas at graduation exercises at Simpson hall in the Field museum this afternoon. Albert Day Farwell, Chicago investment banker, will speak and Charles J. Lunak, assistant superintendent in charge of Americanization work, will present the diplomas. Graduates of the Americanization courses must have a good knowledge of English and American citizenship principles. Students completing their work today are from 16 to 76 years old and represent a score of nationalities.

French Exhibitors Appear Victors in War to Show U. S. Films

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 6.—French film producers, who are urging the government to ban foreign films completely for three months and thereafter set up even more drastic conditions than now exist, are not going to get their way if the theater owners can prevent it.

Realizing that their bread and butter depends on foreign films, especially American ones, which are now more popular than ever since recent excellent talkies have been shown, the syndicate of French cinema and theater directors held an indignation meeting in Paris today. The Paris meeting was the climax of protest meetings held throughout France. The theater owners appear to have the support of the public.

At present each American film can be shown in its original version in only five movie houses in Paris and fifteen in the provinces—20 in all for the whole of France—and the distributors' syndicate insist the number should be raised to 100. They likewise demand that the number of "dubbed" versions be raised from 242 to 325.

The protests have been so prompt and vigorous, it is understood tonight, that it is unlikely the cabinet will try to back up the producers. It is reported the government will ask the producers to drop their press campaign against American films which the French public has refused to swallow.

Sunshine Has a Vital Effect on Child's Health

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

When the sky is blue and clear and the earth is bathed in sunlight and when the air smells sweet and fresh, what a sense of happiness and physical well being pervades you. Some of this feeling is due to sheer delight, but some of it is physical, too. Sunshine is the most wonderful thing for the body, which of course you know, but especially as it applies to children and babies.

Just how marvelous it is is shown in a recent investigation made by the Yale university school of medicine in New Haven, Conn., and the child hygiene division of the children's bureau. Let me quote:

"Since sunlight is a powerful preventive and cure for rickets it was felt that a study of a group of infants who had lived continuously in a tropical climate, exposed the year around to intense sunlight, would answer a number of questions.

"Following the same method of examination used in New Haven to insure comparability of results, the physicians of the children's bureau examined in 1927 nearly 600 children under 3 years of age living in Porto Rico.

"That rickets is actually very rare in Porto Rico as compared with New Haven is shown by the fact that for only five children out of six hundred was there definite evidence in the roentgenograms that the child had rickets or had had it in the past. Of these one was an infant who had lived until two weeks before examination in the cellar of a large stone tenement lighted only by electric light, and another showed the scars of rickets which had occurred while she lived in New York City and which had healed some months before the time of the study. The total incidence of rickets in the 584 children examined in Porto Rico was therefore less than 1 per cent.

"This almost complete absence of rickets was in startling contrast to the general physical and nutritional condition of the [Porto Rican] children."

The interesting thing is that this absence of rickets was marked, in spite of the fact that these young children of Porto Rico were mostly in a badly undernourished condition. Many "could be compared only with the children suffering from severe marasmus or starvation who are seen elsewhere in hospital wards." Yet in spite of this acute malnutrition they had no rickets. Isn't that amazing, and doesn't it present a vivid picture of how powerful sunshine is, and how vitally important to proper bone growth?

If you have not started sun bathing your babies or small children go to your physician or maternity center and get advice—for the powerful agent sunshine, to be beneficial, must be properly used.

Too much can be harmful. Or if you wish, you may write to us enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and we will send you full directions for correct sun-bathing for babies and small children.

15 to 20% MORE smooth POWER

1 to 3 More Miles per Gallon Shown in Recent Automobile Test

37,000 tons of fighting steel—that's the weight of a modern battleship. Heavy? Yes! But one gallon of the powerful new Sinclair H-C Gasoline could hoist a battleship 1⅓ feet—if all the energy in the new H-C could be fully utilized!

In a recent road test, where the new H-C was tried out against 12 other well-known gasolines, the results were as follows: The new H-C gave from 15% to 20% more smooth power. It also accelerated from 15% to 20% quicker than the other gasolines and gave from 1 to 3 more miles per gallon!

Try the new H-C Gasoline for 30 days in your car. And ask the Sinclair dealer for a booklet which explains how one gallon of the new H-C could lift a battleship.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ardmore, Pa., June 6.—Golf's most stirring drama—the 38th annual open championship tournament of the United States—will begin to unfold itself tomorrow with the first eighteen holes over the east course of the Merion Cricket club, thrice the scene of both the national amateur and women's tournaments, but never before the stage for the big show of them all.

Assisting in the opening ceremonies will be a handsome gathering of one hundred and fifty-four, of whom one hundred and twenty-eight are professionals and twenty-six amateurs. If there be any suspicion that it is merely a journeyman field out to play seventy-two holes of golf within three days, consider the presence of such gifted parties as Johnny Goodman of Omaha, Neb., who won the title at North Shore last year; William Lawson Little of San Francisco, Cal., still insisting that his victory in the British amateur a couple of weeks ago was a fluke; Denny Shute of Llanerch, Pa., who presently plans to defend his British open crown; Gene Sarazen, champion of all that is the P. G. A.; Paul Runyan, the big money winner of the winter gold rush, and a majority of the personnel of the ever winning American Walker cup team.

Former Champions to Compete.

Aside from Goodman, the grinning blond amateur who dashed away from the pros last June at Chicago, five former champions will be seeking to bring home the most important prize in American golf. These include Walter Hagen of 1914 and 1919, Gene Sarazen of 1922 and 1932, Tommy Armour of 1927, Johnny Farrell of 1928, and Billy Burke of 1931.

Thus it can be readily seen that there will be a few persons on hand who have demonstrated a talent for playing golf. Of course, none will be annoyed by an Atlanta barrister-journalist named Bobby Jones, who was once known to beat the little ball around in this show himself. Mr. Jones will be in attendance only in his capacity as a member of the fourth estate.

It has become a tradition among the scribbling craft since Mr. Jones' retirement from competition to call the tournament the most open in history. There now appears to be little doubt but what the term may be applied full strength to the present gathering, for the experts were still running about this evening attempting to guess the probable winner.

Players Shoot 67 in Practice.

Chief obstacle to this pastime was the field itself, all members of which appeared to be having no trouble whatsoever in hitting the ball and hitting it well. Although practice scores are not considered important, the 67s which have been submitted by Runyan and by Ky Laffoon, the rising Denver pro, are not figures to be sneered at in any league.

The huge and handsome Craig Wood rolled home with a 68 today. Hagen, playing better pretournament golf than he has in years, is walloping the ball with the calculating sureness of yore. Armour, Horton Smith and Harry Cooper are scoring consistently. Goodman is beginning to click, and Little, long known as a slugger, apparently has lost his tendency to send the ball into left and right fields and is now lining them right down the middle.

Course Is Difficult.

Of course, this may all be very well in practice, but what will Marion be for eighteen holes tomorrow, eighteen more Friday and those important thirty-six on Saturday, when every shot will count? This east course at Merion, shorter than most championship battlegrounds, is not one to be trifled with, for it conceals trouble aplenty in its 6,694 yards.

At one point, the field is unanimous, and that is the condition of the course, the excellence of which is due to the efforts of Mr. Joe Valentine, the Merion greens keeper. A majority of those who have tested the east course consider it the most perfectly conditioned layout for a national event they have ever seen.

The slender fairways and deceptive greens, all snugly trapped, have an-

BAER WILL ASK FOR ONE WEEK'S POSTPONEMENT

Challenger Claims Lack of Condition.

New York, June 6.—(AP)—Genuine worry over Max Baer's physical condition—or a neat bit of ballyhoo—caused the handlers of the challenger for Primo Carnera's heavyweight championship today to proclaim the necessity for a week's postponement of the original date June 14.

Down in Asbury Park, N. J., where the night club nabob has been puffing and hauling through his workouts, Ancil Hoffman, his manager, and Jack Dempsey, his advisor, decided Max couldn't possibly be ready for the 15 round duel in Madison Square Garden bowl one week from tomorrow night.

It's Dempsey's Idea.

"If I were Hoffman I'd ask for a postponement," said Dempsey critically, "so as to have the young man in perfect shape. He has seven days left to work and that's not enough. I think he'll come through all right and be the Baer that knocked off Schmeling, but it will require plenty of hard work. Carnera is ready now. Baer isn't."

Hoffman then announced he would appear at the New York state athletic commission Friday to ask for the postponement. His words touched off an immediate explosion on two other fronts—the Garden offices in New York and Carnera's training camp at Pompton Lakes, N. J.

Carnera Will Refuse.

"I refuse to consent to any postponement," Carnera fumed. "There will be a fight June 14 or not at all."

"We couldn't postpone it now," said Col. John R. Kilpatrick, president of the Garden. "Too many people have made their arrangements to come here for the fight. It may just be ballyhoo."

Jimmy Johnston, manager of boxing at the Garden, frothed and swore.

"It's a larcenous trick on the part of the Baer people," he said. "We'll object and object strenuously to any postponement. They've got an idea that if they can hold off another week Carnera will go stale and they'll get the title. Baer's been training six weeks tomorrow. He's in shape."

Carnera Is Ready.

For several days Carnera's worry has been the opposite of Baer's. If anything, he is too finely trained. He scales a mere 258 pounds and is right on the narrow edge. A week's delay might do him a great deal of damage.

Ballyhoo or serious, the question will be argued at the commission offices Friday. Bill Brown, one commissioner, will examine Baer tomorrow and he says if the challenger isn't fit, the fight must be postponed a week. The two other commissioners, Walker Wear and Gen. John J. Phelan, say no.

WINDSOR LAD GALLOPS TO VICTORY IN ENGLISH DERBY

BOY, 7, SHARES IN SWEEPSTAKE ON ENGLISH DERBY

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Eight residents of the metropolitan area won approximately $541,000 on the English Derby today. They include a former chorus girl in the Ziegfeld Follies, now in retirement; a Holland tunnel policeman, a lower east side janitor, an aerial photographer, a waitress, and a seven year old schoolboy.

The former chorus girl and the policeman are in the big money. They held sweepstakes tickets on Windsor Lad, the winner, paying about $152,000.

Four persons, including the boy, held tickets on Easton, which came in second, paying $75,000, and two had tickets on Colombo, which was third, paying $50,000. Of the four Easton tickets, however, one was drawn in the Army and Navy veterans' sweepstakes at Montreal and pays only $25,000.

U. S. to Take Cut.

The federal government will take a big slice of the winnings in taxes. A winner of the $152,000 prize, for example, will pay to the government $60,570 if single and $59,720 if married. The taxes on the lower prizes also are high.

Of the eighteen Irish sweepstakes tickets on Windsor Lad, four were held by residents of the United States—two in the New York area, one in California and one in New Hampshire.

The former Follies girl holding a ticket on Windsor Lad is Miss Alma Manay. She remained in the seclusion of her hotel today, refusing to tell representatives of the press what she thought of her good fortune. They did receive this word from her, however:

"I am no longer on the stage. If I were I'd like the publicity. But I am leading a private life now and all it would get me is a lot of cranks on my neck. Don't worry about what I'll do with the money. It will be invested very carefully."

Up to Ziegfeld Standard.

Miss Manay was in the Follies from 1920 to 1926. She is a brunette, about 35 years old, and her beauty is of the best Ziegfeld tradition.

In her life of retirement Miss Ma-

Windsor Lad Wins English Derby; Favorite Runs Third

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

EPSOM DOWNS, England, June 6.—The maharajah of Rajpipla's Windsor Lad swept to a one length victory today in the 151st running of the English Derby. Easton, an outsider in the betting, finished in second place, with the mighty Colombo, an overwhelming favorite, winding up a head back in third place.

The Indian potentate's colt was forced to equal the Derby record for the mile and a half to gain his triumph. The victor ran the distance in 2:34 to match the time of Hyperion, who finished first in last year's Derby.

King George, Queen Mary, and other representatives of the house of Windsor were among the 500,000 who crowded the Downs to witness the greatest event of English flat racing.

Shortest Price in Years.

Windsor Lad went to the post with the odds of 15 to 2 against him. Easton was quoted at 100 to 8, and Colombo, Lord Glanely's hitherto unbeaten hope, was held at 11 to 8—the shortest priced favorite since Gainsborough won in 1918 at 8 to 13.

Windsor Lad by his victory earned $44,700 for his owner. The prize for second place was $5,660 and $2,800 went to the owner of the third horse.

19 Horses Go to Post.

Nineteen horses went to the post and they got away to an almost perfect start after Rathmore caused a moment of delay. Medieval Knight went to the front, trailed closely by Bondsman. Windsor Lad was in fourth place but in a good spot.

Colombo came up rapidly on the outside just after the top of the hill was reached. Bondsman, beginning to tire under the fast pace, dropped back and Easton came forward. Windsor Lad then began his drive, coming out of the heap to threaten the leaders. At the mile post the positions were unchanged. Tiberius broke into the lead for a minute as the field came down the hill toward Tattenham corner, brushing past Windsor Lad, followed closely by Medieval Knight, Easton, and Colombo.

Coming down the straight Windsor Lad came forward to take the lead, with Colombo coming fast on the outside and Medieval Knight slipping back. With a furious burst of speed Windsor Lad and Easton soon were running neck and neck, but the early pace began to tell on Easton.

Then Colombo made his greatest bid for victory. Coming fast on the outside he shook off all his contenders except Easton and Windsor Lad. The three horses were bunched as they thundered down the stretch, and it seemed as if Windsor Lad were weakening, but the maharajah's horse had just enough left as they came to the breath taking finish, and, putting every ounce of his courage and strength forward, he crossed the line the winner.

Tiberius finished in fourth place, Alishan was fifth, Unidwar sixth, Valerius seventh, and Admiral Drake was last.

The victory was a popular one. After the race King George summoned the maharajah and congratulated him.

United States Ambassador Robert Bingham was among those present. He came as a member of the party of the Earl and Countess of Derby.

Royalty Unguarded

EPSOM DOWNS, England, June 6.—(AP)—There wasn't a single plain clothes man or protective device of any sort in sight as the royal family watched the 151st English Derby today. The king and queen and the entire family watched the race from an open box adjoining the working press in the third tier of the grandstand. They chatted with all comers for an hour before the race, and then, like everybody else, crowded to the edge of the rail and trained their binoculars on the race.

United States Poloists Win in England, 9 to 8

ROEHAMPTON, England, June 6.—(AP)—The invading United States polo team, Aurora, today defeated the Roehampton four, 9 to 8, in a match which went into extra time. Harold E. Talbott Jr., Seymour Knox, Elmer J. Roesske Jr., and Billy Post comprise the Aurora four.

MOTORCYCLISTS SKID AND SPILL IN RACE DEBUT

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Flat track motorcycle racing, something entirely new to Chicago, made its debut last night at the Logan Square speedway. Despite a chilly northern breeze, a crowd of 5,000 spread through the baseball grand stands and in the outfield around the low wooden crash fence to see the headline riders of this country and Canada go skipping and bumping as they circled the one-fifth of a mile track in 48 events.

Just how many of these thousands paid is a question only the promoters, who hope that the motor bike riders will catch public imagination so that a string of tracks can be operated in several parts of Chicago, can answer. The admission ranged from 55 cents to $1.10, but many in the crowd chose to scale the ball yard fences. Regardless of the manner of entrance, the throng was unanimous in its approval of the sport.

Burn Special Fuel.

Flat track motorcycle racing might be likened to outboard motorboat racing. The two forms of competition are equally rough and wearing on the pilots. Where outboards flit from wave to wave with roaring propellers as the blades are thrown clear of the water, the slender, low balanced motorcycles whip into the turns with back wheels spinning through the soft cinders at a perilous angle. Speed, except on the straightaways, is of secondary importance, although the winners last night averaged about 35 miles an hour in the four lap races. Dexterity, endurance plus a modicum of luck, are needed to win.

The machines are powered with one cylinder motors, which can develop 6,300 revolutions per minute. They burn menthenol, mixed with 25 per cent benzol. The benzol, it is explained, is added to cool the engine. There are no brakes and the driver's seat is mounted on the rigid frame without springs. But then the cyclist seldom uses the seat anyway.

Steel Helmets Essential.

3 ERRORS WRECK LYONS' SUPERB WORK; SOX LOSE

Browns Win 3-2 on Trio of Unearned Runs.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Ted Lyons turned in another of his fine jobs of pitching yesterday against the St. Louis Browns, but, as is usually the case, he had to get along with his own shortstop playing for the other side. Inept work by Joe Chamberlin, subbing for Luke Appling, gave the Brownies three unearned runs in the fourth inning. These were enough for a 3 to 2 victory over the White Sox. Lyons drove in the two runs scored by the cellar inmates.

In addition to producing another typical Lyons tough luck special, the day brought little personal cheer to Zeke Bonura, star of the White Sox team. Zeke, after batting .714 in Tuesday's double-header, was helpless at bat yesterday and furthermore he suffered the disappointment of being chalked with his first error of the season, sustained in a hard try to cover up the erratic work of Chamberlin. Zeke in 42 earlier games had fielded 1.000, making 422 putouts and 34 assists. He had made four putouts before yesterday's error was marked against his record.

Joe Can't Be That Bad.

Lyons allowed only seven hits and two of these were the result of Chamberlin's slowness while trying to calm his panic. Joe isn't nearly as bad a player as he appeared yesterday and the jeers which he received from the handful of chilled fans were a bit precipitate.

Bump Hadley also was a good pitcher, but both of the runs the Sox made were earned. Two walks and a single filled the bases just before Lyons made the single which accounted for the Chicago tabulation.

The Sox made eight hits, two hitgents being Mule Haas and Bob Boken. Both of Haas' hits came to naught because of slow work in one instance and befuddlement in another. Boken's second single figured in the sixth inning run making.

Lyons Stands Alone.

If Haas had been able to pick them up and put them down in a little more up and put them down a little more rapidly the Sox would have had at least one run in the first inning. With one out Mule doubled to left center and held on while Bonura tapped to Bejma. Simmons walked. Then Dykes singled to center. Haas did his best to get home on the smash, but was out standing up, West to Hemsley.

The Browns did not develop a threat until Lyons' support deserted him in the fourth inning. West reached second on Chamberlin's bad throw and went to third on Burns' fly to Swanson. Pepper popped to Chamberlin, but Garms got credit for a single on Chamberlin's slow handling of his bouncer, West scoring. Melillo grounded to Chamberlin, who threw a short hop in front of Bonura. It was on this play that Zeke was assessed with his first error of the season because

MEDWICK OUT AT PLATE; FRISCH RUSHES UMPIRE

Decision in Twelfth Saves Chicagoans.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., June 6.—The Cubs battled through thirteen terrific innings today before finally flattening the Cardinals with a six run rally. Twice before the Chicagoans had leads snatched away, but their final blast was more than the locals could cope with, so they curled up and dropped out of first place after apparently exhausting themselves a few minutes before in an assault on Umpire Charles Rigler. The final score was 12 to 6, but it might have been 7 to 6 for the Cards in twelve innings if the veteran umpire hadn't made what seemed to be the wrong guess on a play at the plate.

The baby riot, a fitting climax for what had gone before, broke when Joe Medwick, who had singled off Pat Malone with two out in the twelfth, tried to score the deciding run on Jim Collins' double off the right field wall. Gabby Hartnett had the plate blocked with his knees, but from the stand it appeared as if Medwick had one foot on the corner of the plate. Rigler called him out, and the big war was on, with Manager Frankie Frisch leading his Cardinal troops.

Umpire Swings with Mask.

Frisch raced up from the dugout, slammed into Rigler and at the same time grabbed him by the lapels. Rigler staggered back from the impact and swung his mask which crashed against Frisch's jaw. Then Rigler grabbed the belligerent manager and was shaking him lustily when Coach Mike Gonzales tried to pry himself between them. Medwick, indignant over the decision, pulled at Rigler from behind. The four men squirmed in a mass for a few seconds before Cubs and other Cardinals pulled them apart. The St. Louis players then took the field with a patched up lineup and were annihilated by the Cubs' final rally.

The battle was tame enough until the seventh. Charley Root up to that time had pitched splendid ball. The only runs off him resulted from Jim Collins' eleventh homer. Meanwhile the Cubs, with a big splurge in the fifth, had routed the famed Jerome [Dizzy] Dean for the fifth straight time since he fanned 17 of them last August. But this advantage vanished in the seventh. Root weakened, lost control, and the Cards tied it at 5 to 5 by scoring three runs.

Paul Dean Reappears.

The Cubs were out in front again in the ninth. A couple of hits off Jess Haines gave them a run. The Cards bounced back with one in their half off Bud Tinning, who, except for this one mishap, pitcher four and one-third innings of air tight ball. Then, with the score knotted at 6 apiece, who should return but young Paul Dean, who whipped the Cubs yesterday. He went through three innings without allowing a hit, but grew weary, so Tex Carleton assumed charge in the thirteenth. He was promptly routed, leaving the winning decision for Malone, who worked the last two innings.

The Cubs batted in the thirteenth. English started it with a single to right. Klein hit safely to center for his fourth hit. Babe Herman, who previously had uncorked a homer and two singles, was passed. Cuyler stepped in with a bounding single over third, scoring English and Klein. Camilli did nothing and the bases were filled again when the Cards failed to retire anybody on Jurges' grounder. Hartnett cleaned up the bases with a double, making five runs driven in for the day. Lindsey then relieved Carleton and before the inning

8,500 ATTEND WOMEN'S GOLF SCHOOL CLASSES

Couples Gather Tonight at Daily Fee Courses.

Eight thousand five hundred women gathered at the 19 courses of the Chicago Daily Fee association last night where THE TRIBUNE golf school gave them the opportunity to obtain free instruction from qualified professionals instead of being forced to rely on their husbands' frequently faulty golf tips.

The grip, stance, and swing occupied the major part of the lesson, but many of the professionals stressed the value of constant practice and golf etiquet. Practice, it was pointed out, eventually will make the women better golfers than the average man, because many of the latter seldom spend the time necessary to develop their game.

At Mid-City 750 women greeted Frankie Springer and his five assistants for their lesson on the illuminated driving range. One pupil said her confidence had increased 100 per cent on the tee. A pretty blonde remarked that "the boy friend will be surprised when he sees the way I'm hitting them now."

Harlem reported the largest gathering of the evening. In spite of the frigid weather, 900 women reported to Jack Yorgan and his eight pros. Each pupil received personal instruction.

Les MacArthur, at Chicago Meadows, had a class of 200, a large percentage of whom had never held a club before. The entire group showed splendid enthusiasm and stayed long after the lesson was over.

A group of 50 received instruction from Jock Anderson at Techny Fields. The entire swing was stressed with emphasis on the pivot. Cold held down attendance, Anderson said.

Personal Attention at Big Run.

Ralph Crissie's class of 65 women at Big Run was small enough to enable him to devote personal attention to each one. During the lesson the first fairway was dotted with swinging pupils as Crissie went from woman to woman offering suggestions. These enthusiastic pupils began arriving at 6 o'clock and many stayed until 10 o'clock.

Among the 165 who assembled at Golfmoor was a woman 65 years old. According to Dan Lynch, the professional, she had not played golf for 25 years but expects to resume her game this year. Lynch reported that more than 60 per cent of the women were beginners.

Seventy-five women at Cog-Hill witnessed exhibitions by Joe Jimsek and Tony Scavone. These were followed by a drill on fundamentals. After the lesson the pupils were allowed to hit balls until dark. Following a talk on golf etiquet by Jimsek, Marty Coghill furnished a left handed demonstration of how not to hit a golf ball.

Big Oaks Has 125.

Big Oaks had 125 pupils present when Jack Norton called the class to order. Pivoting and slow motion swinging were stressed.

Tom Geary, at Indian Head, urged his pupils to take it easy. The chief fault with men, Geary stated, is that they hurry too much. Women can make up for their physical limitations by swinging easily and developing perfect timing, he said.

Six professionals assisted Al Megeff at Evergreen. The large group was divided up into seven divisions and each pro put his class through slow motion swinging.

One hundred and twenty-five women at Westgate Valley applauded Tom Walsh frequently as he cleverly drove home point after point. Walsh stated that most women are playing with clubs far too heavy and long. He urged them to select clubs to suit themselves instead of accepting their husbands' discarded ones. Walsh told his audience that the road to golfing ruin lay in taking advice from one's fellow players especially if he is one's husband. All the women laughingly agreed to abide by Prof. Walsh's teachings.

Report Good Attendance.

Scotty Erwin of Vernon, George Jenkins of Northbrook and Harry Adams of Hickory Hills, all reported good attendance. Dave MacIntosh of Oak Hills and Pat Cusack of Walnut Hills concentrated on the simple fundimentals of the swing and grip. Elmgate's group was drilled by Jim Dwyer and his assistants. Individual instruction was given.

Mission Hills, which joined the Daily Fee association the day the school opened, had an attendance that came up to expectations.

Women who missed last night's lesson because of the cold are invited to attend tonight's classes for couples, at the same courses. Tomorrow school will be for juniors, boys and girls under 18 years of age. On Sunday at 4 p. m., Vernon, Techny fields, Northbrook, Chicago Meadows, and Big Run will hold classes for all divisions. This is to enable those who find it difficult to attend evening classes to get the benefit of the school. Be sure to bring a dinner.

Classes Last One Hour.

All lessons last one hour. Classes start at 7:30 p. m. on the six inner courses—Mid City, Harlem, Evergreen, Big Oaks, Chicago Meadows, and Golfmoor, and 8 p. m. at the outlying courses, Big Run, Mission Hills, Westgate Valley, Vernon, Indian Head, Northbrook, Techny Fields, Hickory Hills, Walnut Hills, Oak Hills, Elmgate, Twin Orchards, and Cog-Hill.

other important ally in their battle to defend a course record. It is the large grained white silica sand used in the traps, almost as difficult to escape from respectability as the tenacious spinach bordering the fairways.

An Analysis of Course.

There are those who have reduced the Merion problem to three common denominators. They include the first six holes, all of them hard to score on; the next eight, any one of which is ripe for a birdie, climaxed by four ornery finishing holes. Accuracy in playing shots will go a long way here, with such as Runyan, Mac Smith, Sarazen, and Cooper expected to find it adapted to their style of play.

In addition to Wood's 68 today Bobby Cruickshank knocked down a 71 and Tom Armour, who played with Cruickshank, Little, and Johnny Lehman, wound up with a 72 after having been three over par on the last five holes. Ted Luther of Oakmont, Pa., contributed a bit of excitement when he holed out his tee shot to the 133 yard thirteenth. He had transacted the first nine in 36 and had a 4-4-4 for three ensuing holes, but the one shot effort on the thirteenth caused him to pick up and call it a day.

Handicappers Favor Sarazen.

The handicappers who make books on the open had made Sarazen a 5 to 2 favorite, with Runyan second choice at 6 to 1, and Wood third at 10 to 1. Any number of potential winners were locked in the 15 to 1 bracket, with the exception of Goodman, who was in the 20 to 1 group.

Starting times of the stars tomorrow are spread well over the day to insure consistent entertainment for the huge galleries expected to follow the play. Not the least of these will be 60 year old George Low of Abington, Pa., who shot a 69 to qualify. He will go out with Dave Hackley of Lowell, Mass., at 11:40 a. m.

Chicago Well Represented.

Chicago is well represented by a field of pros and amateurs who have been through the mill before, including Armour, Horton Smith, Walsh, Cooper, Foulis, Westland, George Dawson, Lehman, and Eddie Loos.

The following low scores also were reported:

BATTERS OR PITCHERS?

THE second batch of communications concerning the present free hitting régime in both major leagues was almost unanimous against the present home run ball. Helper John E. Meyers writes:

"Here is one of the younger set opposed to the livelier ball. Only 21 years old, I know of the 'old days' only by hearsay, yet I believe the game then offered a better afternoon's entertainment than any of our modern slugfests

"After all, speed is what makes any game exciting, and the rabbit ball is really showing up baseball. Why should a runner risk stealing second when the batter is apt to knock the ball out of the lot? Why should the batter bother to hit behind the runner in a hit and run play when it is just as easy to lift one into the bleachers? And the sacrifice? O, that's for the pitcher if there's any one on when his turn at the bat comes.

"The new ball has created a lot of synthetic hitters who are not hitters at all. The long fly hitter has profited immensely from the lively ball, while the line drive hitter has not profited one iota.

"In my opinion, the home run is not even the most thrilling of hits. I'll take the triple every time. Here offensive and defensive speed brings the crowd to its feet and keep it there. The ball is constantly in play . . . infinitely more thrilling than watching a slugger slowly trotting around the bases after a homer over the fence."

"What is more thrilling than the inside play of the sacrifice hit, squeeze play, or unexpected bunt?" asks R. B. S. "The close decisions which nearly always result are the real thrills for me."

Says F. R. T. of Iowa: "A home run is a feat for a large, brawny man, with the small, fast fellow out of luck. When I went to Chicago to see a major league game my friends said: 'You'll enjoy the home runs.' Well, I did enjoy them because they were made by national sport figures whom I had read about, but actually they were not as interesting as the clean, shorter hitting of our small town games on Sundays. There may be a happy medium, but there is too much lively ball right now."

shoe is tipped with copper or steel and his leg is protected with a leather covering so that when he skids his machine around the sharp, flat curves he maintains his equilibrium with his leg.

This method of negotiating the curves is spectacular. The spinning wheels sprayed cinders against the protecting fence and occasionally into the face of another driver. The cyclists wear goggles as a matter of course and they also sport steel helmets. The first event last night, one of the trials in the handicap standing start races, explained the wherefor of the helmets. Jimmie Gibb, a scratch rider from Los Angeles, nosed over in the cinders at the south turn and sommersaulted twice. After the machines immediately following had steered clear Gibb came out of the cinderstorm none the worse for his cropper.

John Phagan, Young Stuhley Fight Tonight

Johnny Phagan and Hayden [Young] Stuhley, middleweight rivals, tonight will resume their feud in an eight round windup bout at Bacon's Casino, 49th street and Wabash avenue. George Trafton, matchmaker for the Wabash Square Gardens, the club promoting the show, has arranged five supporting encounters as follows:

Eddie Ward vs. Puggy Weinert [6], 146.
Harry Booker vs. Lou Vine [5], 133.
Harold Dunnington vs. Johnny Romans [4], 138.
Roosevelt Haines vs. George Schrosbree [4], 138.
Al Williams vs. Gorilla Parker [wrestling].

Dave Barry, Springfield, Ill., 128 pounder, was signed yesterday to replace George Van Der Hayden against Leo Rodak in a ten round encounter Monday at White City outdoor arena. Barry, who defeated Nick Scalba and Oscar O'Hanion in two Chicago appearances, will train at Springfield until Saturday.

Jimmy Christy and Freddy Gravelle, junior lightweights, will clash for four rounds on the card. Other supporting contests will bring together Nestor Bruggman and Angelo Garlow, and Henry Fuscaldo and Joe Dardanelli.

Johnny Farr, Cleveland, O., lightweight, is scheduled to arrive Saturday for his ten round tussle with Frank Sigilio of Cicero at Sparta stadium next Wednesday. Farr whipped Eddie Shea in one of his latest starts. He is the first nationally known boxer to oppose Sigilio, who is undefeated in 17 professional scraps. Louis De Santers, stablemate of Farr, has been placed on the program. He is matched with Frank Keevil at six rounds. Other bouts:

Lenny Cohen and Bobby O'Dowd [6], 120.
Mickey Misko and Einar Hedquist [4], 160.

Tony Zale, member of the 1934 Golden Gloves intercity team, will make his first pro engagement against Eddie Allen, Indianapolis, Ind., middleweight, at Marigold Gardens Monday. They are booked to fight four rounds. Sailor Born faces Jackie McCarten, and Jackie Collins collides with Mickey Beal.

Geno Salvatore, La Salle lightweight, will be Tommy Corbett's opponent in an eight round affray at Western stadium Tuesday. . . . Bob O'Signac, Michigan 160 pound fighter, has agreed to box Young Stuhley in a 10 round main event at Northwest stadium Wednesday.

The opening open air amateur card will be offered tonight at C. Y. O. stadium, 1140 Jackson boulevard. Eight matches are carded. Robert Schweitzer, county clerk, is sponsoring the show. Phil Kenneally, C. Y. O. and Golden Gloves 135 pound titleholder, will meet a suitable opponent in the windup. Tom Kennelly and Jules Bracke, heavyweights, meet. So do Lorenzo Lovings and Savior Caredeo, lightweights.

Another amateur program is slated for the Belle Plaine open air arena, 2548 Irving Park boulevard, tonight. Matty Plavonitch is matched with Don Irwin. Other fights will bring into action Johnny Hellstrom and Ken Evans, and Clarence Lane and Jack Peterson.

C. Y. O. to Hold First Outdoor Show Tonight

The second season of Catholic Youth Organization open air boxing will open tonight with an eight bout card at the C. Y. O. stadium, 1140 West Jackson boulevard. The arena adjoins the Mission of Our Lady of Mercy.

Tonight's show is being sponsored by Robert M. Sweitzer, county clerk, who has purchased tickets for half the arena. Open air bouts will be held at the stadium every Thursday night throughout the summer.

Johny Brown, runnerup in the flyweight division of the 1934 Golden Gloves tournament, will box in the windup. His opponent is Dick Murguia. Jake Lampkins and Johnny Barbara will meet in another match. Barbara lost to Phil Kenneally in the finals of the last C. Y. O. tournament.

Kenneally, originally scheduled to appear on tonight's card, was unable to box because of a sprained hand.

Among the other well known amateurs on the opening night card are Tony Carlucci, Claude Hinderleider, Barney Ryan, and Tom Kenneally. The card:

130 pounds—Tony Carlucci vs. Floyd Walker.
138 pounds—Bob Doyle vs. Claude Hinderleider.
135 pounds—Savior Caredeo vs. Lorenzo Lovings.
135 pounds—Barney Ryan vs. Don Villereal.
145 pounds—Jake Lampkins vs. John Barbara.
145 pounds—Mitchell Janus vs. Ed Atkins.
120 pounds—Dick Murguia vs. John Brown.

CLOSE ENTRIES FOR CITY TENNIS MEET TOMORROW

College, Prep, and Club Players Compete.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The deadline for entries in the city tennis championship tournament has been extended to tomorrow evening. Play will begin Saturday afternoon on the courts of the Beverly Hills Tennis club and will continue for a week.

The field of approximately sixty-five includes college, prep, and club players of considerable skill. The Ball brothers of Northwestern will compete. So will Max Davidson and Trevor Weiss of the University of Chicago team. Milton Ruehl, third in the western ranking; John McDiarmid, 17th in the national standing, and Karl Kamrath, whose national position is 20th, are among those entered. Thane Halsted, Jose Alonzo, Scott Rexinger, and the Lejeck brothers also are in the field. These seasoned players will be challenged by Johnny Shostrom, the brilliant youngster from Parker High school, who won the Illinois prep championship and then finished on top in the recent interscholastic tennis tournament at the University of Chicago.

Those who wish to file entries may address them to Chester Bowers, chairman of the tournament committee, Beverly Hills Tennis club. The draw will be made tomorrow at 8:30 p. m.

The tennis center tournament, an event of national scope for boys and junior players, also will begin Saturday at four clubs in the Chicago area. Any boy 18 years of age or under may enter the event by reporting to the center most convenient to him. The matches will be played at the Northwestern university courts, at the Oak Park Tennis club, at the Chicago Town and Tennis club, and at Hamilton park. The contestants will be divided into two divisions, those under 15 years of age and those 15 to 18.

Those who reach the semi-finals in each division at each of the four centers will be eligible to go to Culver, Ind., for the national event, Aug. 6 to 11. The tennis center tournament carries the sponsorship of the United States Lawn Tennis association.

George Lott and Clifford Sutter select England as the logical favorite to win the Davis cup. While the latter believes the Americans will not get beyond their encounter with the Australians, Lott thinks the Yankees have an outside chance to capture the trophy. After conceding that England is the logical favorite Lott goes on to state that this is one time he wouldn't advise any one to back the favorite.

Both these stars make their forecasts in the first issue of the new tennis magazine, Racquet, which took its place in the field of sport publications yesterday. William T. Tilden II. is an associate editor of the magazine, together with Sutter, Helen Jacobs, and Allison Danzig. In addition to those named above Frank Shields, top ranking American amateur, has contributed an article to the first issue.

Ellis Klingeman, tennis instructor at the South Shore Country club, will carry on for the Chicago district in the Professional Lawn Tennis association tournament which will begin in Milwaukee on June 17. It is probable that George Jennings, recently appointed professional at Northmoor, also will compete. These two will match their skill against Bill Tilden, Ellsworth Vines, and other members of the professional group which is playing a series of tournaments throughout the country.

Klingeman, who has been professional at the South Shore Country club for four years, says one of the busiest schedules in that club's history is planned for the coming season.

Those Creaks Will Be Alumni Joints on Midway Today

University of Chicago athletes of the other years, returning to the Midway today for the 31st annual banquet of the Order of the C, will spend the afternoon by meeting the Chicago varsity in a game of ball on Greenwood field at 3 p. m.

Chief among the alumni pitchers will be H. O. [Fritz] Crisler, Princeton football coach, who will start for the old timers. He will be relieved, if and when that is necessary, by Tony Hinkle, athletic director at Butler university; Fred Walker, former Giant pitcher, and Bob Kaplan.

Skee Sauer, Elidor Libonati, and Nelson Norgen will be among those representing the pre-war era, and John Howell, Art Cody, Marshall Fish, Claude Brighall, Haydon Wingate, Kyle nderson, Will Urban, Maurice Holahan, and Art Cahill will represent the more recent crop.

Approximately 300 winners of the major letter will attend the banquet in Hutchinson Commons at 6 p. m. For the first time in 30 years A. A. Stagg, founder of the order, will not be present.

George H. Wrighte, for two years captain of the championship University of Chicago gymnastics team and twice winner of the all-around title, has been awarded the conference medal for scholarship and athletics at the Midway; Director Metcalf announced yesterday. Jay Berwanger is given the William Scott Bond medal as the Maroon winning the most points in the Big Ten outdoor track meet.

IMPROVE YOUR IRON SHOTS IN THESE 3 WAYS . . .
Not until you have tried Bristol PYRAMID Irons will you get the most out of your iron shots. In these new clubheads of advanced design, and in these only, you will find all three of these vital aids to distance, accuracy and control.
1 The WEIGHTED SOLE
2 The PYRAMID BACK
More power, because of the pyramid back, which places the greatest weight on each head directly behind the point of impact.
3 The ADJUSTED WEIGHT
More distance and top spin with long range clubs—more loft and back spin with short range clubs. The adjusted weight does this. As the depth and loft of the blade increases the pyramid weight falls lower.
"Whip-It" Shaft
PYRAMID Irons come with the regular Bristol Steel Shafts or with the new, popular "Whip-It" Steel Shaft for irons. Has more whip without losing accuracy.
Try out a set of Bristol Pyramid Irons. See what they do for your game.

GIANTS POUND BETTS IN FIRST; BEAT BRAVES, 6-2

5 Run Attack Aids in 2d Straight Over Boston.

New York, June 6.—(AP)—Carl Hubbell pitched his eighth victory of the season for the Giants today, beating Boston, 6 to 2, as his mates pounded Huck Betts for five runs in the first inning. It was the Giants' 19th victory in 25 home games and their second straight over Boston.

The Giants got five of their seven hits in the opening inning. Bill Terry and Blondy Ryan drove in a pair of runs apiece and Gus Mancuso another. Bob Smith, Leo Mangum, and Pickerel, Braves' relief pitchers, allowed only two hits the rest of the way. Score:

MOON MULLINS—A MESSAGE FROM THE DEPARTED

Tigers Held to 1 Hit, but Beat Indians, 2-1

Detroit, Mich., June 6.—(AP)—A solitary hit off the bat of Charlie Gehringer in the sixth inning plus some unfortunate passes issued by Bob Weiland, gave the Detroit Tigers a 2 to 1 victory over the Cleveland Indians today and enabled them to move into first place in the American league as the Yankees lost the second game of a double header to the Red Sox.

With both sides in a scoreless tie and a nice pitching duel developing between Weiland and Lynwood [Schoolboy] Rowe, the sixth inning opened with Fox grounding out. Goslin, the next man up, walked and stole second. Walker also was passed and then Gehringer came through with his single to score Goslin. Rogell forced Gehringer at second and Walker scored the deciding run on the play.

Although he was charged with the defeat, Weiland had the satisfaction of holding Goslin hitless during the seven innings he pitched. Today's game was the first of 30 consecutive contests in which the Tiger left fielder has failed to hit safely. Score:

YANKS, RED SOX SPLIT.

Boston, Mass., June 6.—(AP)—The Yankees slid out of first place in the American league today by splitting a double header with the Boston Red Sox.

The Yanks hit Lefty Bob Grove and Henry Johnson safely 25 times in the first game to win, 15 to 3, but dropped the second game, 7 to 4, when the Sox rallied for four runs in the eighth. Myril Hoag, subbing for Babe Ruth, who took a day off, hit six straight singles in the first game.

TOLEDO MAY BE FORCED TO GIVE UP BALL CLUB

Toledo, O., June 6.—(AP)—Waldo Shank, president of the Toledo baseball company, left for Chicago tonight to confer with Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American association, on the possibilities of moving the Mud Hen franchise out of Toledo.

Shank in announcing the purpose of his trip did not elaborate on his plans. He said the attendance at home games this season has been smaller than at St. Paul. The baseball officials in the latter city also are contemplating moving the franchise.

Shank said it is possible the Mud Hens may not return to Toledo at the conclusion of their eight-day road trip, which starts Friday.

SAINTS' SUPPORTERS ACT.

St. Paul, Minn., June 6.—(AP)—A group of local business men met here today for an informal discussion of steps to prevent removal of the American association baseball franchise from this city following reports the club would be taken to Gary, Ind., or Peoria, Ill. No action was taken pending return of President R. J. Connery, who is in Milwaukee.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

MRS. SARAH RASOFSKY, mother of Barney Ross, says she has a younger son who can punch the head off the world's lightweight, junior welterweight and welterweight champion, but she never will consent to his fighting. . . . Attendance at every town in the American league has shown an increase this year over last except Washington and Cleveland. . . . The decline at Cleveland may be accounted for by the fact that at this time a year ago the Indians had played three or four double headers, all of which attracted large gatherings. . . . Tom O'Rourke, the judge who gave Barney Ross only one round against McLarnin, was 78 years old last May 18. . . . During his 40 years in boxing he managed George Dixon, Joe Walcott, Tom Sharkey and Larry Temple. . . . Jus Lindgren started coaching football linemen at Illinois in 1904 and will enter his 31st season next fall. . . . This is close to a long time continuous record in one school. . . . Strangler Lewis says he will remain in Chicago until he has forced Jim Londos into a match or has run him out of town. . . .

Connie Mack, who was named manager of the American league All-Stars for the interleague game with the National league at Comiskey park last summer, will not be reappointed to the position for this year's contest. . . . He has told President William Harridge he thinks the honor should be passed around. . . . The National league also will have a new leader, for the late John J. McGraw had the job in 1933. . . . Pennsylvania's freshman crew was rewarded for its victories over Harvard and Navy with permission to take part in the Poughkeepsie regatta. . . . But the boys had to raise their own funds to finance the trip. . . . This was the first time in eight years Northwestern university failed to win a Big Ten title in any sport. . . . An enterprising promoter might fashion a pretty fair basketball team out of the new high school coaches appointed at South Bend and Mishawaka, Ind. . . . They include Johnny Wooden and Ralph Parmenter of Purdue, Johnny How and Boyd Owen of Illinois, Ralph McCarnes of Northwestern, Cliff Barnes of Indiana and Lloyd Perkins of DePauw. . . .

Leo Rodak, three times Golden Gloves champion, will celebrate his first anniversary as a professional boxer next month. . . . In that period he has put away $2,000 in a trust fund and has helped his father and mother to enjoy some of the comforts of life they previously had been denied. . . . Rodak receives 100 per cent of his earnings. . . . His manager, Pat Kenneally, is paid by the Catholic Youth organization for handling Rodak and other C. Y. O. boxers who turn professional. . . . The one-third of Rodak's earnings which are put in trust will be turned over to him in a lump sum when he retires from the ring. . . . This system was evolved by the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, national director of the C. Y. O., to protect young boys who take up professional pugilism for a livelihood. . . . Leo has won all his 18 engagements to date. . . .

Casey Stengel rushes a raincoat and substitute to Danny Taylor, Brooklyn left fielder, every time it rains. . . . Danny is susceptible to lumbago and Stengel can't afford to take a chance on wet weather putting him in a hospital. . . . Marquis Ailsa, titled Briton who presented the British Amateur golf cup to Lawson Little, is a former Wyoming cattleman. . . . He operated a ranch near Iron Mountain, Wyo., his name being Charlie Kennedy. . . . He returned to England 25 years ago upon the death of his father to assume the title. . . . Mayor Edward J. Kelly probably has addressed more boxing fans than any politician living or dead. . . . He spoke to 100,000 admirers of the Polish amateur champions in Humboldt park on May 15, another 100,000 at Douglas park on May 20 and addressed some 65,000 Monday at the reception in Douglas park for Barney Ross. . . . And we are not counting the 115,000 Irishmen he greeted in Jackson park last summer when Ireland's amateur champions came over to battle our Golden Glove winners. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Illinois won the 24th annual Big Ten track and field championships at Stagg field. . . . Black Gold, Kentucky Derby winner, was entered in the Chicago Derby at Hawthorne. . . . Mad Play won the Belmont stakes. . . . Sammy Mandell and Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight champion, were ready for their ten round scrap at East Chicago. . . . Hyde Park won the City track and field title. . . . The Cubs defeated the Giants, 3 to 1, behind the steady pitching of Grover Alexander.

he dropped the ball after an apparently nice play on the throw. Hemsley promptly took advantage of the opening by slapping a double to the scoreboard, scoring Garms and Melillo. Bejma flied to Simmons.

Chamberlin had Lyons in a jam again in the fifth, but Ted managed to fight his way out. With one out Clift caromed a single off Dykes' glove. West hit a setup double play to Chamberlin, who fumbled, Clift reaching second and West first. Burns forced West, Chamberlin to Boken. Burns stole second, but Lyons threw out Pepper.

Madjeski doubled to left to start the home fifth, but Lyons fanned and Swanson tapped gently to Melillo. Then Haas walked and was forced by Bonura.

It was in the sixth that Lyons did some offense work to get the cellar inmates out of the goose eggs. With one out Dykes walked and stopped at second on Boken's single to center. Madjeski walked, filling the bases. Then Lyons singled to center, scoring Dykes and Boken and putting Madjeski on third. Swanson ended it with his second strike out of the game.

The seventh inning gave the second guessers a whack at the Dykes strategy. Haas led off with a single to left, but Bonura was given the sign for a home run instead of the orthodox sacrifice. Zeke got the sign, but the best he could do was send a fly to Pepper. Simmons popped to Melillo and Haas, apparently a bit befogged, easily was doubled off first.

The next scoring threat the Browns developed came when Bejma tripled with two out in the ninth. The smack came to naught when Lyons threw out Hadley.

Gaston to Face Newsom Today in Brown Final

Milton Gaston and Buck Newsom will pitch in the final of the White Sox-Browns series at Comiskey park this afternoon. It will be ladies' day.

The Sox leave tonight for Detroit, the first stop on a trip that will keep them away from home until June 29. Three games will be played in Detroit going east and one will be played there on the home trip.

The season series between the Browns and the White Sox now stands two victories for the tailenders and four for the Browns.

Bonura's zeal drew him his first error of the year. Had he slapped down Chamberlin's low throw Joe would have got the error. But Zeke got the ball in his glove, then let it drop.

FIREMEN PLAY AT ROCKFORD.

Cubs Win in 13th; Cards Rush Umpire

Dizzy Dean didn't trot out his famed strikeout ball unti it was necessary. He found need for it in the second inning. Cuyler led off with a single to center, the first hit off the dizzy fellow. Camilli grounded to Whitehead for a force play and Jurges walked. Dean then fanned Hartnett and Root. The latter also had trouble in the second. Medwick singled and Collins spanked one squarely, but it lined into Billy Herman's hands for a double play. Delancey followed with a triple and would have scored if Billy Herman hadn't made a peach of a stop back of second on Orsatti's hard grounder.

With one out of the way in the third, English hit safely along the right field line and the ball performed so many trick billiards off the wall before Rothrock could capture it that English made three bases. He rode home on Klein's single into center. Babe Herman singled to right, shoving Klein to third. Cuyler, who isn't having much luck in the pinches, bounced a high one to Dean and Klein was thrown out at the plate. Then came the strikeout ball again, Camilli being the victim this time.

Unusual Fourth Inning.

A part of the Cubs' fourth should read something like this: Hartnett doubled to center and was forced at second on Root's single. Here's how this happened: With one out Hartnett lined safely to deep center and Orsatti juggled the ball momentarily. Hartnett being a slow man, he stopped at first. Root bunted and the ball rolled to short which Durocher had vacated so that he could cover second. Durocher turned around, dashed back to get the ball and then still had time to make a throw, forcing Hartnett. There wouldn't have been a chance to throw out Root at first. This was followed by a pass to Billy Herman, but with two on English flied to Medwick.

Root unintentionally gave free passage to Rothrock to start the home fourth and this proved a grievous error. Later in the inning Collins hoisted homer No. 11 onto the right field roof. This promoted the Cards into a 2 to 1 lead. The Cubs adjusted this almost immediately. Klein led off in the fifth with a single and scored ahead of Babe Herman's homer. Cuyler then walked and eventually scored on Hartnett's single. Gabby scored the fourth run of the inning on Root's double against the right field screen.

Forget About Southpaw.

Mooney took over Dean's job in the sixth and some of the Cubs apparently didn't notice the change. At least Klein and Babe Herman acted as if they thought a right hander was still working. Klein singled and so did the Babe. Neither cares about southpaws. This pair of singles came after English had led off with a strikeout. The two hits produced nothing because Mooney also fanned Cuyler and Camilli. Mooney continued striking 'em down in the seventh. He dropped Root and Billy Herman that way after Hartnett had walked with one out.

Root walked Delancey to start the unpleasantness in the seventh. Orsatti fouled out, but V. Davis, who batted for Durocher, also walked. Martin ran for him. Crawford performed as pinch batter for Mooney and cracked a single to right, Delancey scoring and Martin tearing to third. Martin scored while Whitehead was forcing Crawford. Then Rothrock singled to center and Cuyler threw to third. The ball hit Whitehead in the back, so he continued to the plate and arrived safely with the tying run. Tinning then stepped in and ended the inning on Frisch's fly to Babe Herman.

Camilli opened the ninth with a single and Jurges sacrificed. Hartnett hit safely for the third time, sending Camilli home with what the Cubs thought would be the winning run. They didn't make allowances for Martin. He led off in the home ninth with a single through short. Pinch Batter George Davis popped out, but Whitehead singled to center and Martin went to third. He dashed home with the tying run on Rothrock's long fly to the Babe.

Cubs Use Weaver Today in Final with Cardinals

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., June 6.—Big Jim Weaver, who was added to the Cub pitching staf when the Browns discarded him a few weeks ago, will be used against the Cardinals in the final of the series tomorrow. If he can whip a team like the Cards he'll find himself regularly employed. Bill Hallahan probably will be Weaver's opponent.

Guy Bush, who came down from Chicago thinking he would pitch today's game, went back home this evening. A new doctor is going to be given a peek at the muscular injury which is causing pains in the Mississippi lad's side. Bush would prefer to let Trainer Andy Lotshaw handle the case.

Manager Grimm is thinking of making another alteration in the Cubs' lineup. He's been feeling good the last couple of days and believes he'll restore himself to first base when the team opens its long at home stay next Friday. Camilli's slump at bat accounts for the manager's desire to get back into action.

Jimmy Collins almost had a day off at first base. He didn't handle a put-out until Billy Herman popped into his hands for the third out in the fifth inning. He didn't have his second putout until the end of the twelfth when Billy Herman grounded to Whitehead.

Dolph Camilli almost had a heel sliced off in the second inning. He had his foot well back over the bag as he took a throw from Billy Herman and Orsatti's foot came down on the first sacker's elevated heel. The shoe was torn off and a few patches of tape were necessary to cover the spike scratches.

LIGHT BROOK HAS SPEED TO SPARE AND WINS DEBUT

BY FRENCH LANE.

A spectacular 2 year old was uncovered in the Gary purse at Washington Park yesterday when Light Brook paraded to the post to fight it out with nine rivals.

Most of the starters were eligibles to the Curran Memorial Stakes, to be run Saturday afternoon, and many of them were regarded as stout contenders for the stake.

Their hopes for a stake victory were blasted when Light Brook took the track half way down the stretch and went on to win by a length and a quarter from the favorite, Stay. Spicate was third. The others, all soundly beaten, were strung out across the track and doing the best they could, but they didn't run fast enough to menace the lead the son of Light Brigade-Coco had taken.

It Was His Debut.

It was the first start of Light Brook's career, but he ran like a seasoned performer. He always was close to the pace, and when Jocky Kacala gave him his head at the top of the stretch he fairly ran over horses until he romped into the lead.

Light Brook races for Jim McGee of Kentucky and is trained by Ed Trotter. This combination of McGee and Trotter is one of the old guard of American racing, a team which does the unexpected and usually wins a good sized bet when the coup goes over.

As a result of his brilliant victory, which found him running the five furlongs in 1 minute 3-5 second, Light Brook probably will go to the post in the Curran stakes with many speculators clamoring to back him.

Blue Lillian, Celebrant and Stay had been the early leaders, and they made a terrific pace into the stretch. Blue Lillian ran the half mile in :47 3-5. After this dash all appeared to be going easily. Then Kacala guided Light Brook toward them, picking a course near the rail. He got through the wide opening and a sixteenth out, when his head started showing in front, the race was as good as over. Light Brook went on to win easily.

Winner Pays $10.40.

In the mutuel betting he paid $10.40 after an opening price of 12 to 1 had been posted against him. He was at $6.12 to place and $5.68 to show. Stay rewarded his backers at $4.68 to place and $3.88 to show. Spicate was at $6.20 to show.

Light Brook's race was so impressive it appears certain that he will rule as the choice in the Curran stakes. He is a big dark brown gelding and has all the earmarks of a real route runner.

In the second best race on the program there was a big upset when Battling Girl, grouped in the field betting, turned up as the winner over I Say, Four Spot and eight others.

Battling Girl paid $91.42 to win. She hugged the rail all the way down the stretch to win going away by two lengths from I Say. The latter might have been best but tried to crowd Battling Girl out from the rail and could not get through the small opening.

Most of the races to be run at Washington Park this afternoon will carry a pugilistic flavor. Barney Ross is to be the guest of honor. The feature is the Barney Ross claiming purse. Other races have been named, the Lightweight Champion, the Junior Welterweight Champion, and the World's Welterweight Champion.

Barney and all those in his retinue will arrive at the track early in the afternoon and will view the races from a clubhouse box.

ORLATTA showing the most speed from the start, increased her margin on stretch turn and weakened in the sixteenth, but was not seriously menaced. DEETS CAMPFIRE, well up after a quarter, lost ground on the turn and closed resolutely. SARACEN MAID, in close quarters early but never a great distance back, closed strong in a fine effort.

BLACK MISS, a strong factor from the start and under steady restraint until reaching the turn, drew out into a long lead quickly and, bearing out badly, was not ridden out. DONACARE, far back for three-quarters, came with a rush in stretch, finishing on the outside. DUSTY LANE, restrained for three-quarters, rallied mildly while following winner out in final eighth, but weakened in closing strides.

TOP STEERS SELL HIGHEST SINCE SEPTEMBER, 1932

Rise to $10.10; Plainer Live Stock Weak.

All the better grades of live stock sold strong to higher yesterday, but others were weak, further widening the spread between "drouth stock" and well finished meat animals. Premiums for quality in some branches were the largest in recent years. The first $10.10 steers since September, 1932, were on the market. This price was within 25 cents of the highest mark in the trade in twenty-nine months. On the corresponding day in 1933 top steers sold at $7.

New crop native lambs held firm at a $9.25 top, as against a high of $8.75 for similar kinds on the same date a year ago and $7.25 two years ago. Best grades of hogs with weight ruled strong to 15 cents higher, a big share of the late selling indicating gains of 10 to 15 cents. Unfinished lights and pigs continued to sag.

Refuse to Buy for U. S.

Contracts for buying of "relief hogs" ended Tuesday night and two of the Chicago packers failed to appear on the market for their usual quota of "government weights," notwithstanding the announcement of the relief corporation that buying for this account was to be extended to bridge the gap between the new and old contracts. It was learned later that these packers had refused to recognize the extension of their contracts, and the relief corporation was forced to grant emergency awards to other packers by wire late yesterday afternoon to obtain their 3,200 quota on the markets.

Government officials picked up the next lowest bids on the "old" contracts in making the emergency awards, which are for only eight market days, it is understood. The two packers who refused to continue to buy for the government gave overcrowded storage room as their reason for turning down the orders.

Government Pays $2.25 to $3.

Hogs bought for the government weighed 140 to 180 pounds and cost $2.25 to $3. Better grades of medium and weighty butchers were in broad demand on local account at $3.60 to $3.75, good to choice, 220 to 325 pound averages going within this price range, while 190 to 210 pound averages of good quality sold at $3.35 to $3.50. One load of prime 261 pound butchers topped the list at $3.80 at the close.

An unexpected development in the stocker and feeder division of the cattle alleys was a pickup in the demand for replacement stock, and a rise in the value of feeders which closed 25 to 40 cents above the recent low point. Members of the trade were inclined to believe the better outlet for replacement stock to the country could be attributed to the larger quantity of sealed corn that is being released, rather than to the scattered rains in the corn belt.

Veal calves from the dairy herds in drouth stricken sections of the country depressed prices in the calf trade again. The bulk of vealers sold at $3.50 to $4.50, with poor kinds down to $1 and sometimes lower.

STOCK CONTROL BILL IS SIGNED BY ROOSEVELT

Douglas Mentioned for Commission.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—President Roosevelt today signed into law the Fletcher-Rayburn bill establishing federal control over the country's stock exchanges, but the chief executive has given no consideration to the important question of who shall administer the law.

With federal control of the exchanges a legal fact, the center of interest now shifts to the question of whether the President will pick a radical or conservative commission to administer the law. President Roosevelt said today that he had given no thought to the appointment of five commissioners authorized by the law.

Fifty or sixty names have been suggested, Mr. Roosevelt said, and he has had them filed in a portfolio until he finds time to make the appointments. He said that he probably would not get around to setting up the commission until after congress adjourns.

Chicago Man Mentioned.

James H. Douglas Jr. of Chicago, assistant secretary of the treasury under President Hoover, is being prominently mentioned in some quarters as the probable Republican member of the new commission. A friend of the Roosevelts and recently a guest at the White House, Mr. Douglas is one of the opposition party acceptable to the President.

He won the respect of the Democrats during the days of the banking holiday when he remained at his post in the treasury to help William H. Woodin, the incoming secretary, straighten the financial tangle. He was a leading candidate for the position on the federal reserve board which was finally given to M. S. Szymczak, former Chicago controler.

Although the President professed to have given no thought to appointing the stock exchange commissioners, it is understood here that James M. Landis, who is now a member of the federal trade commission, will be shifted into the chairmanship of the new commission.

To Name Black's Successor.

As the federal reserve board will administer the margin sections of the exchange law, President Roosevelt will have to make another key appointment for the stock exchange act when he chooses a successor to Gov. Eugene R. Black of the reserve board. Gov. Black will resign to return to Atlanta as soon as congress adjourns.

The stock exchange act itself will take effect in three phases. On July 1 the general provisions of the act take effect. On Sept. 1 the sections requiring federal registration of all stock exchanges and all stocks on these exchanges take effect. On Oct. 1 the regulatory sections, including those governing margin loans, over the counter transactions, borrowings, manipulative practices, and corporate reports, become effective.

DOUGLAS CALLS IT A JOKE.

James H. Douglas Jr. said last night he is probably the last person in the world that would be chosen for the new exchange regulation commission.

"The report is interesting but that's about all," Douglas remarked. "It sounds funny to me."

Douglas, a former partner of the investment banking firm of Field, Glore & Co., is now practicing law.

Watson Denies Offer.

New York, June 6.—(AP)—Thomas J. Watson, president of International Business Machine corporation, said today he had not been offered an appointment to the commission that will regulate stock exchanges and could not, in any event, consider the appointment if it were offered.

HOUSE LEADERS PREVENT VOTE ON BANK BILL

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(AP)—There will be no vote on the McLeod bank pay off bill June 11, and almost certainly not this session. Democratic leaders saw to that when they recessed the house today for the third time this week under the strict rule adopted last week to stop a Republican filibuster.

With the house recessing instead of adjourning each day, it means the necessary seven legislative days cannot now pass between the signing of the discharge petition on the measure last Thursday and the next voting date on such petitions. When the house recesses the legislative day continues into the next.

Dodge Cuts Car Prices Ranging as Much as $45

Detroit, June 6. — Dodge Brothers corporation, a division of the Chrysler corporation, tonight, announced reductions of up to $45 on its line of automobiles. The reductions are effective at midnight tonight. Under the reduction, the price of the company's 117-inch wheelbase model becomes $645.

Landis' Plans Bring Gloom to La Salle St.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The blush is off the peach—at least temporarily—for the stock brokers. The Tuesday night speech of Prof. James M. Landis, whom they expect to be their new boss under the new securities exchange act, spread gloom up and down La Salle street yesterday.

"As a nation of investors," he said, "we can begin again to think in terms of an investment policy that looks to returns derived from the sustained earnings rather than to profits from quick market turnovers."

* *

If trading in securities is to be limited to the transactions of investors and the in and out type of speculative trading is to be eliminated Wall and La Salle streets are due for a depression that will make the lean years of 1930-1933 look like a boom.

The stock brokerage business doesn't get much sympathy from Prof. Landis.

"For my part," he said in his address here, "it seems to me that industry—as distinguished from the exchanges—has much to gain by a sympathetic and intelligent administration of the provisions of the stock exchange bill."

The phrase, "as distinguished from the exchanges," sent a chill through the brokers. "What good is prosperity if it dodges the brokerage business?" is the natural question that occurs to the worried brokers.

One of them asked Dr. Landis whether in his opinion there could be any business prosperity not reflected by prosperity in the stock market, but the professor dodged that question.

* *

The brokers, however, aren't the only ones who are worried about what will happen while Dr. Landis is carrying on his guinea pig experiments in finance. Bankers and business men generally are much disturbed.

They won't say much, because they are afraid of the administration's big stick—which they fear is indeed heavy, even if it is concealed in a bouquet of daisies. Not one of the business or financial leaders interviewed after the Landis speech would consent to be quoted publicly on his remarks doubting the efficacy of the Landis treatment.

Prior to the meeting of the Economic club at which Landis spoke some of the city's business leaders were so fearful of arousing Landis' displeasure that they went so far as to suggest that newspaper men ask Landis the questions they were afraid to ask him.

* *

As for the bankers, they still regard the securities act of 1933 as an impediment to legitimate financing, despite the amendments to this act contained in a section of the stock exchange act signed yesterday by the President.

The steady shift of big eastern houses from investment banking into commercial banking business is evidence of the financial community's conviction that investment banking is almost impossible under present laws.

The commercial banking business today is so lacking in profits that any one who prefers it to investment banking must be pretty discouraged about the outlook for investment banking. Under the securities act of 1933 houses that have been doing both commercial and investment banking must choose one or the other, for they can't do both.

DOLLAR LOSES GROUND AGAINST FRANC, POUND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 6.—The dollar declined against all important foreign currencies today, reversing the movement of the last few days. Sterling rallied 3 cents to $5.07 and the franc was up 2¼ points to 6.61¾ cents.

Marks, which had been extremely weak on Tuesday, recovered 40 points to 38 cents; lire went up 5¾ points to 8.68¾ cents, and Canadian dollars gained ¼ cent to a premium of ⅝ cents. The guilder gained 23 points to 67.95 cents, the belga 8 points to 23.46 cents, and the Swiss franc 9 points to 32.56 cents. Scandinavian currencies were 6 to 15 points dearer.

The Federal Reserve bank of New York reported gold imports totaling $3,596,600, of which $1,185,200 from India was reported as additional for Tuesday, and $1,683,700 from Canada, $416,300 from France, and $311,400 from England were received today.

GAINS IN STOCKS EXCEED LOSSES; TRADE IS QUIET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 6.—Selective buying prevented a small advance in stock prices from spreading to all parts of the list in quiet dealings on the stock exchange today. At the close gains exceeded declines by a good margin.

After opening buoyantly the market receded, but trading became sluggish on the downside and prices firmed somewhat. The turnover was 665,900 shares.

Groups to exhibit uniform strength were the oils, sugars, liquors, and mining stocks. The others did little more than back and fill without feature.

Wall street was kept in a waiting mood by the new conference here called to avert a threatened steel strike. Mixed action of commodities was another deterring factor. Signing of the market regulation bill by President Roosevelt caused no stir in market circles.

Oils Strongest Group.

The outstanding group performance was found in the oils. Buying of Petroleum company shares was encouraged by reported large earnings by Standard of New Jersey and the impression given the market that a high rate of earnings was expected to continue. Amerada ran up more than 3 points to a new high for the year. The Standards were well supported, California leading in points of gain. Seaboard and Continental were other active and strong features. Mexican Petroleum rose 10 points on the first sale in a month.

Spurred by a favorable quarterly earnings report, Schenley paced a strong liquor section. The stock was conspicuously active and was good for a gain of more than a point before settling back slightly.

Buying of metal shares featured trading in the last hour. Howe Sound was above 52½, for an advance of more than a point. U. S. Smelting was strong above 121, while American Smelting was not far behind. A factor in the advance here was the drive of the inflationist bloc in congress to broaden silver legislation.

Sugar Stocks in Demand.

Fresh buying of sugar stocks was generated by the action of American Sugar, which climbed more than 2 points to a new peak for the current movement.

The strike crisis in the steel industry dried up interest in steel stocks. Traders ignored the rise in operations for the last week, while awaiting the outcome of the conference summoned by the government. United States Steel edged off a fraction on the day, but Bethlehem was a trifle higher.

Interest switched out of rails on the decline in trafic last week. An outstanding exception to the trend was Norfolk and Western, which on the first sale in a week spurted 8 points, but others were held to a fractional range, both up and down.

The decline in power output hobbled utilities, the group slipping slightly on the average. Motor stocks turned heavy as the industry's operation slowed down. Profit taking undermined farm shares. Chemicals ruled a point or so higher, with less anxiety in the textile industry. The tone was steady in foods and tobaccos.

PLAN CHANGE OF PAPER BILLS FOR NEW DEAL MONEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—A new issue of paper money, replacing all outstanding bills, will be put in circulation gradually over the next few years by the treasury department. The purpose of the new policy is to bring down to date the wording on the nation's paper currency. Since the passage of the Roosevelt monetary laws the terms of gold redemption and legal tender rights printed on paper money has become obsolete.

To effect this change the treasury will have to withdraw from circulation a billion pieces of paper money, having a face value of about 4 billion 800 million dollars. As the old bills are paid into the treasury and reserve banks they will be retained and the new currency issued in their place. Several years will be necessary to effect the complete transition.

The new money will not carry the wording of the old bills which recent New Deal money laws have made out of date.

DROUTH CUTS DEPTH OF SHIP CHANNELS IN LARGER WATERWAYS

BY H. A. LAIRD.

[Traffic Manager, Chicago Tribune.]

The severe drouth is beginning to make itself felt on larger bodies of water. Steamers navigating Lake St. Clair between Lake Huron and Lake Erie have been notified that the normal dredged depth of 18 feet is not available and that vessels may not be safely loaded deeper than 17 feet 9 inches. The controling draft at the Soo locks has been reduced to 17 feet 6 inches.

Inland canalized waterways also are being affected. Several barges have already grounded in less than seven feet of water in the waterway between Chicago and Memphis. At Cairo, Ill., where the dredged depth was nine feet there is not in excess of seven feet of water available.

These facts should interest exponents of regulation of waterway rates by the interstate commerce commission. Cargo rates are based on capacity loads, and if these are to be limited occasionally by changes in water levels there must of necessity be some flexibility in the rate structure, never possible under regulation.

Electric Power Production Up 7.8% Over '33

Electric power production for the nation last week continued to run ahead of output figures a year ago, but the rate of gain was considerably less than during the preceding week. Chicago district output also showed lesser gain than the preceding week but the difference was not as sharp as that shown by the national statistics.

The nation's output last week was 1,575,828,000 kilowatt hours compared with 1,654,903,000 hours in the preceding week, according to the Edison Electric Illuminating Institute's weekly report. The gain over a year ago amounted to 7.8 per cent against the increase of 10.8 per cent shown in the preceding week.

Rise 7.7 Per Cent Here.

In the Chicago metropolitan area output totaled 91,639,000 hours against 85,050,000 in the comparable period of 1933. The increase was 7.7 per cent as compared with 8 per cent in the previous seven day period.

In reporting Chicago figures the Commonwealth Edison company pointed out that observance of Memorial day and the abnormally bright weather prevailing accounted for the sharp drop in production when compared with the preceding week's output of 96,099,000 kilowatt hours.

The kilowatt-hour use by A Century of Progress for the first full week of operation shows a 12 per cent increase over a year ago.

Detail Chicago Production.

KILOWATT-HOUR OUTPUT.

Wk. ended—	1934.	1933.	Per Cent Increase.
May 26	90,009,000	88,870,000	8.0
May 19	94,217,000	86,142,000	9.4
May 12	94,347,000	87,381,000	8.0

New England, 1.9 per cent, against a rise of 5.4 per cent the week before; Middle Atlantic, 5.6 against 9.1; Central Industrial, 10.9 against 13.4; West Central, 14 against 11.3; Southern States, 3.2 against 5.8; Rocky Mountain, 23.5 against 24; Pacific Coast, 10.2 against 15.

BAKERS REJECT CODE FOLLOWING MODIFICATIONS

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(AP)—Because President Roosevelt modified the baking code in approving it on May 29, the National Bakers council today declined to act as code authority to undertake its administration. The code was the largest ever rejected by an industry after approval by the President.

The bakers' council based its action upon Mr. Roosevelt's orders suspending a prohibition against use of premiums in the sale of bread; elimination of a five day waiting period written into provisions for the filing of open prices by all bakers; and a requirement that the labor provisions of the code be reopened after a 90 day period.

National Security Bank Pays Initial $1 Dividend

Directors of the National Security Bank of Chicago, 767 Milwaukee avenue, yesterday declared an initial dividend of $1 a share on the capital stock, payable July 1 to stockholders of record June 30. At the same time the bank reported that earnings during the first year of operation were approximately 11 per cent on the capital stock. The bank opened for business May 23, 1933. A predecessor bank liquidated and paid off all depositors in full. Norman B. Collins is president.

Food Index Only 1 Cent Below High Mark of Year

New York, June 6.—(AP)—The weekly food index of Dun & Bradstreet rose 3 cents for the week ended June 5 to $2.14, compared with $2.11 in the previous week and $1.87 in the same week last year. The index for the latest week is only one cent below the year's peak of $2.15, recorded on March 6.

BIDS FOR TREASURY $800,000,000 LOAN TOTAL 7 BILLIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—Cash subscriptions to the $300,000,000 of 3 per cent treasury bonds and $500,000,000 of 2⅛ per cent notes offered on Monday aggregated about $6,900,000,000, treasury officials announced today.

The bonds, although carrying the lowest interest rate quoted since prewar days on a similar type of security, with the single exception of an $800,000,000 issue marketed at 3 per cent in September, 1931, were subscribed eight times. The subscriptions for the note issue were nine times the amount of the offering.

However, the apparent immense interest in the bond issue is tempered by the fact that the total available to cash subscribers was held down to the relatively small sum of $300,000,000. The treasury had announced that subscriptions up to $10,000 would receive preferred allotment, and that the bonds would be parceled out on a percentage basis to those seeking greater amounts. This was an invitation to those who desired relatively large blocks of the bonds to pad their subscriptions—bidding, for instance, for five or ten millions of the total in the hope that when the percentage basis was applied to allotments perhaps one-tenth of the amount of the bids would be obtained.

MORE COMPANIES TAKE FAVORABLE DIVIDEND ACTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 6.—U. S. Tobacco company declared a quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share on the common stock, payable July 2, placing the issue on a $5 annual basis compared with $4.40 a share paid previously. In January this year the company paid the regular of $1.10 and an extra of $5 a share.

Fifth Avenue bank declared the usual extra dividend of $10 a share and the regular quarterly dividend of $6 a share, both payable July 1.

American Woolen company declared a dividend of $1.25 a share on the 7 per cent preferred, payable July 16, on account of accumulations which will amount to $48.25 a share after this payment.

Homestake Mining company declared the usual extra monthly dividend of $1 a share and the regular monthly of $1 a share, both payable June 25.

New York Sells 10 Million Notes at 1½ Per Cent Rate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 6.—Controler Joseph D. McGoldrick announced today he had negotiated with a group of banks for the sale of $10,000,000 in special revenue bonds at the rate of 1½ per cent, the lowest figure at which the city has ever been able to borrow 120 days money and the lowest rate on any short term borrowings since 1931.

STEEL OUTPUT UP ONE POINT TO 60 PER CENT

Production Here at High for Year.

Steel output this week rose one point from 59 to 60 per cent of capacity, Iron Age reported yesterday. Chicago production reached a new high for the year at 69 per cent, an increase of three and a half points for the week.

The rise is attributed to consumer desires to obtain shipments against expiring low priced contracts, and to reactions from the strike threats.

Buffalo and the valleys had a two point gain to 59 and 65 per cent, respectively. Cleveland output dropped four points to 63 per cent. Detroit maintained the lead at 100 per cent, while the other centers reported no change in operating rates. Pittsburgh is operating at 49 per cent, the Wheeling district at 74 per cent, and eastern Pennsylvania remains at 45 per cent.

Plan to Maintain Rates.

It is believed present rates will be maintained despite the tapering of automobile tonnage. At present sheet mills are operating at 70 per cent of capacity and are not taking additional specifications against contracts except for special items. Strip mills are crowded, and tin plate producers are averaging close to 75 per cent of capacity, although an early downward revision of their schedules is expected. Operations in heavier products have improved.

Workers in many sections have failed to agree upon proposed strikes of the Amalgamated association, and certain Amalgamated lodges have disbanded and returned their charters. Commenting on this the magazine says:

"The steel industry is now apprehensive that union strategy aims to achieve its ends through governmental interference rather than to take the risk of ordering a walkout. The revised Wagner bill is regarded as particularly dangerous. The provision permitting the labor board to hold employé elections on any basis it may select, would make it possible for a biased tribunal to confine voting to sectors or groups known to be strongest in union membership."

Believe Use Underestimated.

There is a growing feeling in the industry that steel consumption growth, excepting the automotive industry, has been underestimated. In spite of stabilization in the scrap market at Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, the Iron Age scrap composite has declined from $10.92 a ton, to $10.58, a new low for the year.

Structural steel awards of 29,825 tons are the largest for any week since the middle of January. Lettings of 87,350 tons for May were the best for any month this year. Iron Age composite prices for finished steel and pig iron remained at 2.222 cents a pound and $17.90 a ton, respectively.

Pig iron production for May totaled 2,042,896 tons, a daily average of 65,900 tons, compared with 1,726,851 tons, or a daily average of 57,561 tons, in April. The daily rate is a gain of 14.5 per cent, and the highest since April, 1931. Furnaces in blast increased to 116, on June 1, from 110, on May 1.

ASSOCIATED BELL ADDS 44,000 NEW PHONES IN MAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 6.—A net gain of 44,000 telephones is reported by the Bell system during May, comparing with a gain of 48,000 in April. These were the best two months recorded by the system since December, 1929. A seasonal shrinkage in growth is normal from April to midsummer, due to summer vacation disconnections, officers of the system point out.

The May result brings to 200,000 the net number of telephones added to Bell system lines for the first five months of 1934. This compares with a loss of 520,000 telephones in the corresponding 1933 period and a decline of 570,000 telephones in five months of 1932.

U. S. AWARDS CONTRACTS ON DROUTH CATTLE

Contracts were awarded yesterday to 20 packing firms by the federal government for handling the "drouth cattle" which the United States is buying as a relief measure for stock raisers in the drouth areas. Packers receiving the awards are scattered throughout 10 states in the sticken area. Several Chicago concerns got contracts for slaughtering while practically all the awards for canning edible beef cattle went to local concerns.

The contracting firms agree to handle an aggregate maximum of 7,000 head of cattle a day for a period of 30 days. The contracts are contingent on the amount of cattle purchased by the government and no minimum figure is set. It is not expected that more than 150,000 head will be brought into the packing centers during the first month. This excludes diseased cattle which will be killed and buried on the farms.

It is still a matter of doubt how much cattle the government will be able to buy at prices offered. Wide criticism has been made of the government's offer and the whole program has been characterized as a threat to the future beef and milk supply of the country.

Although scattered rains have brought some relief the drouth is still the big news in La Salle street. Some discouraged country correspondents are finding it difficult to satisfy the hunger of Chicago brokers for first hand information on the condition in the stricken area. A distressed correspondent in Lidgerwood, N. D., reports as follows to one firm:

"I don't know what to write about the crop. The fact is that all crops are ruined and there is nothing left to write about. The government is going to start buying live stock here next week. If we can get showers the farmers can still plant corn, millet, flax, and the pastures will come back, so that they might save some of their cows and horses."

The only relief the drouth has brought about so far is to the soy bean market. Large sales of soy beans are reported to buyers who are replanting heavily damaged grain fields. Most of the demand has been from the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Illinois. Prices were quoted as much as 20 cents higher yesterday at $1.50 to $1.60 per bushel. A few weeks ago the best price commanded by soy beans was less than $1 a bushel. A shortage is feared in some quarters.

A Chicago cash grain man who returned from St. Louis yesterday said he regarded the oats crop in the area covered as a practical failure.

Bartlett Frazier & Co. has received reports indicating that Kansas will not harvest more than 60 million bushels of wheat and Missouri probably not more than 12 million bushels.

TAX LIFTS PRICE OF SUGAR MORE THAN HALF CENT

New York, June 6.—(AP)—The price of refined sugar, as quoted by leading refiners, was raised today slightly more than ½ cent a pound to 4.65 cents, less the usual trade discounts.

The advance, which is to absorb the processing tax of 53½ cents per hundred pounds, will become effective at the opening of the market on Friday. Some refiners in other centers announced similar increases yesterday.

RAIN FORECAST SENDS WHEAT DOWN 2 CENTS

Erratic Action Rule Price Fluctuations.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Trade sentiment blew alternately hot and cold yesterday, which was reflected in extremely erratic price changes within a range of 3 cents for wheat and 2 cents for corn. An early break of around 2 cents in wheat was followed by a sharp upturn which carried prices to $1.02 for the July delivery. Another sinking spell came toward the finish, prices closing at the bottom with net losses of 1¾ to 2 cents. July ended at 99 to 99¼ cents. The September delivery failed to break below the dollar mark, closing at that figure to ⅛ cent over.

Prospects that the government will spend $125,000,000 for the purchase of live stock feed under its drouth relief program failed to bolster corn and other grains. Corn closed 1½ to 2 cents lower with July at 55⅝ cents, while oats were ⅝ to 1 cent lower, July being 43¾ cents. Rye lost ⅝ to ⅝ cent and barley ¾ to 1½ cents.

Fear Further Rain.

Forecasts for further showers over the greater part of the grain belt had a weakening effect. A few reports were received from various sections suggesting deterioration had been checked by recent rains. However, the general run of crop comment was pessimistic, with the government weekly weather summary suggesting small grains were beyond help over a rapidly widening area. The showers, it was claimed, would be helpful, but the drouth has not been effectively broken.

Winnipeg wheat staged a sharp rally at one time with exporters buying heavily. According to one report, one of the largest international grain firms with headquarters in Paris had been leading the buying. There were intimations the French crop outlook was less favorable.

European Wheat Crop Short.

Broomhall, a leading European authority, estimates the wheat crop of Europe, exclusive of Russia, may be 240,000,000 to 280,000,000 bushels less than last year, when it aggregated 1,704,000,000 bushels. Such a reduction would bring the total down to the lowest level in three years. They confidentially looked for much heavier buying by importing countries during the 1934-'35 season.

There is a growing belief that nature has taken a hand in correcting the unnatural conditions which have existed in the grain markets for several years and that Europe is just awakening to the change in the situation. Liverpool futures closed 1⅛ to 1½ cents higher.

U. S. May Become Factor.

Traders in commenting on the proposed appropriation of $150,000,000 for the purchase of feed and for forage seeds under the provision for the government relief bill claimed weather conditions might have less effect on the markets in the immediate future indicating government buying might prove to be the dominating factor.

Bran prices at St. Louis continued their sensational advance yesterday, closing 65 to 90 cents per ton higher. The June future for delivery in the Chicago market was quoted at $21.80 per ton. Reports were received indicating the government poison bran campaign for the eradication of grasshoppers in the northwest had been broadened materially.

MARKETS LOSE LURE AS SOURCE OF QUICK MONEY

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The lure of large financial reward is unlikely to be the powerful attraction for the socialite and athletic hero types to join the securities business that it has been in the years past. Such was the opinion voiced yesterday by Jess Halsted, secretary of the Chicago Stock exchange, in a talk before the Investment Analysists' club at the Hamilton club.

He predicted the future will see the relationship of broker and customer come nearer the professional relation now existing between the lawyer and his client or the physician and his patient.

Big Money Days Gone.

Fundamental changes are taking place in the business which make it extremely improbable that the large returns of the boom era will come again in the financial field. Recalling the big profits which many in the securities business won in the pre-crash days, Halsted added: "Those days are gone forever."

The exchange official said changes taking place are part of the result of the government regulation of the business. He cited some of the changes which the securities exchange act of 1934 — the Fletcher-Rayburn bill — is likely to bring about and said its passage marks a crossroad for the brokerage business. His comments on the act, which was made law yesterday by President Roosevelt's signature, were neither of an approving or a critical nature. He said, however, that the bill as finally enacted was a vast improvement over original drafts.

Discretionary Powers Wise.

Vesting of broad discretionary powers in the hands of the administering board rather that writing of rigid rules into the law was termed a wise move by Halsted who had spent many weeks in Washington while the measure was pending, as the representative of the Chicago exchange.

The final provision incorporated in the bill governing margins was cited by the speaker as an illustration of how the bill had been made more practicable and workable through later amendments.

By inference rather than direct statement Halsted indicated that he did not approve all the provisions of the bill, but in answer to a query he voiced the belief that the measure will help restore confidence in the securities business.

The immediate result of enactment of the bill is likely to be a sluggish condition with reduced volume of trading on stock exchanges, the speaker said. He expressed the opinion that price fluctuations under government regulations will be wider than at present.

CHICAGO COTTON LOWER; OTHER MARKETS ADVANCE

Trade in cotton was mixed yesterday. Futures in New York opened 10 to 15 cents higher and held most of the advance until midday. In late trading the market met selling and the close was irregular. Futures in Chicago dropped 2 to 7 points, while other markets were 1 to 4 points net higher. Spots were 12.10 cents in all markets, being unchanged with exception of New Orleans advancing 10 points. Liverpool reported a good demand for spots and prices there were moderately higher. Prices:

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 6.—The listed bond market rules active and strong today, with domestic corporation issues leading the advance. These issues climbed fractionally to more than 2 points for those which were at all active.

United States government bonds were strong in active dealings, finishing generally higher, up 3-32ds to down 1-32d point. Leading foreign loans closed irregularly lower. Volume rose to $12,521,000, against $10,803,000 yesterday.

Several Issues Score Gains.

Of the more active domestic corporation bonds Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit 6s closed unchanged; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific 5s, due 1975, unchanged, and the road's adjustment 5s, due 2000, up ⅛.

Chicago and North Western convertible 4¾s, due 1949, were unchanged; Erie railroad refunding 5s, due 1975, were up 1; New York Central convertible 6s, due 1944, lost ¼, and Southern Railway general 4s, due 1956, rose ¼.

German Loans Decline.

In the foreign group German loans moved irregularly lower, the government 7s touching a new low for the year at 57¼, closing at 58, off a point, as the 5½s gained fractionally. French government and United Kingdom loans showed fractional variations, as did most of the Japanese and Dutch East Indies issues. In the Latin-American list Argentine government bonds continued higher, most of them touching new peaks for the year.

Affiliated Products.

Investors' Guide: Would you please let me have your opinion and any information you may have about Affiliated Products? Thank you for your courtesy.—K. B. J.

Answer: Affiliated Products, Inc., was formed in 1930 as a consolidation of several cosmetic manufacturers. Principal products are those labeled "Edna Wallace Hopper." Some specialties are "Kissproof" lipstick and "Jo-cur" hair preparations. Operations have been consolidated in its Chicago plant, whose capacity is currently in excess of present needs.

Net income, after having hit its peak in 1931 [including comparisons with predecessor companies] has followed a downward trend. Profit in the first quarter of 1934 was $99,000, or 26 cents per share, against $161,000, or 42 cents a share, for the first three months of 1933.

The four year record of earnings follows:

	Net Sales.	Net Income	Inc. per share.
1933	$2,023,000	$ 376,000	$0.98
1932	3,022,000	639,000	1.67
1931	4,838,000	1,006,000	2.64
*1930	3,503,000	832,000	2.17

*Predecessor companies.

Despite liquidation of $11,000 bank loans and $100,000 noncurrent notes during 1933 current position changed little during the year. Current assets, including $247,000 cash, totaled $583,000, and current liabilities were $172,000. Working capital was $411,000, against $437,000 the year before.

Capitalization consists of 382,800 shares of no par capital stock. The stock pays 5 cents a month. Dividends in 1933 totaled $1 a share, and in the two previous years, $1.60.

The company operates in a highly competitive industry. Pending evidence of an upturn in earnings, the stock must be considered speculative Middle West Utilities.

Investors' Guide: Will you please tell me why there is so much Middle West utilities common turning over on the market at this time when no one knows what will be done with it in the reorganization?—Mrs. I. H. F.

Answer: That we do not know. It is our opinion, however, that it is merely because the stock is selling at such a low price. According to such unofficial information as is now available, the only thing that the holder of the common stock has to look forward to is an opportunity to purchase stock of a new corporation that, it is contemplated, will be formed to take over the assets of Middle West Utilities company.

POSITION WANTED

Do you need an energetic young executive in your business? I am 38 years old, gentile, university training, able and financially responsible. Fifteen years sales experience in both a managerial and directional capacity. Formerly vice president of a lithographing plant specializing in advertising media. Distinctly not a floater and not interested in fly by night schemes. This ad is directed to a reputable manufacturer in or out of Chicago who can offer a permanent future and assured income. Address B F 351, Tribune.

BUSINESS NEEDS REST FROM LAW, PUBLISHER SAYS

Study of Present Acts Is Declared Necessary.

Business in this country needs a period of stability, in which the public may see how the present legislative machinery is going to work out before more of the same sort is created, Malcolm Muir, New York publisher and former NRA administrator, declared yesterday in an address before an Association of Commerce luncheon meeting at the Sherman hotel.

Business men must urge an end to further legislation for the time being to give people an opportunity to scrutinize the workings of the present setup and restore their confidence in business, he told his audience of several hundred business men.

A prominent figure in the publishing and advertising field, Mr. Muir is also recognized as an authority on problems in the capital goods industries. He went to Washington one year ago, to serve first as a deputy administrator and later as one of the four division administrators of the NRA. He resigned that post last January to return to his business, the McGraw-Hill Publishing company, Inc., of which he is president.

View on Recovery Plan.

"The national recovery program will help business, I believe, if it can get rid of the service industry codes," the speaker said. "If the NRA is so organized that it can back the code authorities of big industries, give them quick rulings and then sit back and let the industries and their authorities work out their problems, I think the recovery project will succeed.

"But business men must present a united front and crystalize their thinking on matters pertaining to recovery, reform and politics. Don't be afraid to criticize administration policies you think are wrong or support those you believe are right, no matter what the man in the street may say.

"Never has there been such a need for clear thinking as there is now. With elections in the offing I have a great fear that both parties will mix politics, reform and recovery all in one big common cauldron with the result that recovery will be used as a political football and be retarded."

Reform Makes Entrance.

He pointed out that in the beginning of the present administration all attention was focused on recovery. Business men were called to Washington to help start recovery on its way, regardless of their political affiliations. But as business improved and congress reconvened, much of the discussion from capitol hill and some from administration quarters has been centered on reform, Mr. Muir declared.

"We can't afford the luxury of too much politics at the present time," he said. "The fall elections are not far off and a lot of political fence building is going to be done. Business men must be prepared to meet this onslaught of vote seekers, because, it is my prediction, in the next six months business is going to be made the football of politicians."

Referring to labor leadership and the agitators whose voices have recently been loud throughout the land, Mr. Muir declared that business and the public at large cannot tolerate the type of the labor leader who fosters strikes at a time when every public agency is struggling to get people back to work.

BUTTER FUTURES LOWER; EGGS RISE QUARTER CENT

Cooler weather over the production states prompted much of the selling in butter. The four markets reported 200,000 pounds less butter into storage, and the Land o' Lakes reported production 9.89 per cent less than last year.

Eggs received better support, with receipts running light and the movement into storage 3,000 cases less than last year. New buying was more active and covering helped the market hold firm.
